OVER 40 BILLION LIABILITY LAID TO DEMOCRATS

'Enormous Spending' Attacked.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Representative Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee and a member of the house appropriations committee, today contended and produced figures to show that a total of 30 billion 720 million dollars has been appropriated by congress and made available for expenditure by the Roosevelt administration.

In addition to the 30 billion 720 million dollars appropriated, Mr. Bolton listed contingent obligations assumed by the government under the Roosevelt administration aggregating 9 billion 400 million dollars, which would make a grand total liability of 40 billion 120 million dollars.

Session Records Cited.

The figures on appropriations cited by Mr. Bolton include 1 billion 879 million dollars appropriated by the last session of the 72d congress for the fiscal year 1934 and placed at the disposal of the Roosevelt administration, 18 billion 781 million dollars appropriated by the first and second sessions of the 73d congress, and 10 billion 198 million dollars appropriated by the first session of the 74th congress. The figure more generally used for the last session is 10 billion 350 million.

"Some realization of the enormous spending program under the present administration for the years 1934, 1935, and 1936," said Mr. Bolton, "may be had from the following comparisons: From 1789 to and including 1913, during the first 124 years of its existence, the total expenditures of the federal government were 24 billion 521 million dollars. Appropriations for expenditure during the first three years of the present administration total 30 billion 720 million dollars. This latter figure also compares with the direct cost of American participation in the world war for fighting and demobilization, from 1917 to '21, which was 26 billion 250 million dollars."

Sees 35 Billion Debt.

Mr. Bolton, basing his calculations on treasury department estimates, said the national debt at the close of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1936, would be 35 billion dollars, representing an accumulated deficit of 13 billion dollars over and above all revenues since President Roosevelt took office, when the national debt was 22 billion dollars.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], and Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.], have repeatedly pointed out that the interest charges alone on a national debt of 35 billion dollars amount, at 3 per cent, to 1 billion 50 million dollars a year, or more than one-fourth of the present annual revenues.

"Candidate Roosevelt talked long and often in 1932, claiming sincerity in his demands for a balanced budget, maintenance of our national credit, strict economy, and elimination of deficits," said Mr. Bolton. "In 1932 Candidate Roosevelt said, with great emphasis, at Albany: 'Let us have courage to stop borrowing to meet continuing deficits.'

Deficits Are Attacked.

"He was speaking then of a billion dollar deficit. Now, in 1935, as President, he has, to use his own figures, created deficits during the first three years of his administration of approximately 13 billion dollars."

Mr. Bolton recalled the covenant in the 1932 Democratic platform which Mr. Roosevelt accepted "100 per cent," to reduce government expenditures by 25 per cent, and also cited this statement made by Mr. Roosevelt in Pittsburgh in 1932: "Now, the credit of the family depends chiefly on whether that family is living within its income. And this is so of the nation. . . . If, like a spendthrift, it throws discretion to the winds, is willing to make no sacrifice at all in spending, extends its taxing up to the limit of the people's power to pay, and continues to pile up deficits, it is on the road to bankruptcy."

"That is good, sound philosophy, but on this, as on practically all other promises made to the American people by the Democratic standard bearer in 1932," Mr. Bolton declared, "President Roosevelt has done an about face and has ignored and for-

BEAT PIRATES, 2-0; NEED TWO MORE FOR TITLE

Cardinals Defeat Reds Twice.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs' pennant parade turned into Easy street yesterday, and it won't be long now. To the tune of 40,558 voices they marched on to their eighteenth straight victory in the offensive which they launched on the afternoon of Sept. 4. The Pittsburgh Pirates, foes for the day and for the last time this season, hung on doggedly, but finally were beaten, 2 to 0.

The second place St. Louis Cardinals won two games from the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, 14-4 and 3-1.

Although this reduced the Cubs' lead to three games, all the Chicagoans need to clinch the pennant is two victories in the five game series with which they'll conclude the season at St. Louis starting Wednesday. Two triumphs there will put them beyond reach, even if the gradually fading world champions are victors today and tomorrow. Defeat for the Cardinals in either of these two battles will reduce the Cubs' needs to one more triumph.

One Chance of Tie.

There is only one possibility for a tie at the end of the season, assuming that all the remaining games are played. To bring that about the Cardinals would have to lose one game to Pittsburgh and then win four out of five from the Cubs. Then both teams would finish with 98 games won and 56 lost.

Incidentally, in case anybody was worried, the New York Giants yesterday lost their mathematical chance to win the title. The best they can do is beat out the Cardinals for second place or tie the Cubs for second.

Victory No. 18 wasn't recorded without thrills. The Cubs found a tough foe in Cy Blanton, No. 1 man of the Pirate staf, and the vast crowd, which wasn't permitted to overflow onto the field, found Larry French to be a fellow who thrived on trouble. He was in it practically all the time, successfully fighting off his foes for seven innings on a one run lead given him at the start, and still fighting off possible disaster in the ninth after his mates had sweetened his winning margin with their second run off the Pirate star.

Error Helps in First.

The Cubs can't boast much about the run that put them in front at the start, but just the same were glad to get it. It grew from a scratch hit and an error in the Pirate infield. Then Blanton paced off seven innings in which the league leaders produced only four hits, once being stopped after having men on first and third with none out. But they burst loose with two real drives in the eighth, one being a double by Frank Demaree on which Fred Lindstrom registered after he had singled.

The one feature in which the Pirates excelled was in men left on bases, and that's what made it a nightmare. French had three on with one out in the second. Nobody scored. He had two on with none out in the third, and three on before the inning ended. Again nobody drifted home. Two were on again in the seventh with none out. French again pitched himself out of it. In the eighth there was one on base with one out. And in the ninth there were two on with one out, but French still refused to weaken. It made his 17th victory of the season and the fifth he has contributed to the amazing winning streak.

Galan Makes Circus Catch.

The dapper Augie Galan cut himself in on the one picture play of the battle. In the sixth he tore in, stooped down to his shoe tops and while on the dead run got his hands around a hooking drive with which Young had opened the inning. Outside of this French required no spectacular support, although an error in any of the several spots could have caused a rumpus. The lone blunder in his defense was by Bill Jurges, but it came after two were out in the first inning.

The Cubs' first inning run was accomplished without a ball being batted past the infield. Galan opened

Waitkus Flies Ocean; Unhurt in Irish Crash

BALLINROBE, County Mayo, Irish Free State, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic solo flight of Felix Waitkus, 28 year old Chicago and Wisconsin aviator, ended today in a smashup in a rough field, but the flyer himself was uninjured.

Fog-bound and buffeted by storms along the Irish coast, Waitkus, who had hoped to fly nonstop from New York to Kaunas, Lithuania, brought his white and orange plane down in a hazardous landing at 10 a. m. [4 a. m. Chicago time].

Bouncing across the uneven field, the machine struck a tree and was badly damaged. But Waitkus, whom frantic villagers expected to find dead, climbed out of the wreckage and said he felt lucky to escape without a scratch.

Flew Blind for Long Time.

"I had been flying blind for a long time," he asserted. "I had bad visibility all over the Atlantic and when I reached the coast I ran into storms and fogs.

"I tried at first to make Baldonnel airdrome near Dublin and then headed for the Ballinrobe drome, but I couldn't find it.

"I was delighted to see land, for I was feeling very tired and my stock of gasoline was getting a bit low."

Stiff from confinement in the pilot seat, Waitkus was taken to a Ballinrobe hotel, where he went to bed.

Despite the bad weather, Waitkus made good time for the trans-Atlantic crossing. He had been in the air less than 22 hours when coast guardsmen at Headford saw his plane. Waitkus took off from Floyd Bennett field, New York, at 5:45 a. m. Saturday.

Backed by Chicagoans.

The flight was sponsored by a Chicago Lithuanian newspaper and the American-Lithuanian Trans-Atlantic Flight association. Waitkus was born in Chicago and recently has operated a flying school at Kohler, Wis.

His plane was damaged so badly, Waitkus said, that it must be moved to Dublin for repairs.

"I am anxious to take off again for Lithuania," he said.

Lady Heath, the British aviatrix, flew to Ballinrobe to take Waitkus to Dublin, but damaged her plane in landing. Another plane was sent from Dublin to pick them up.

SUMMER ENDS TODAY AND DAYLIGHT SAVING STOPS NEXT SUNDAY

At 6:30 o'clock this evening the sun will cross the equator for a six months' stay in the southern hemisphere, occasioning the autumnal equinox and marking astronomically the end of summer. It is one of the two annual periods in which days and nights are most nearly equal.

The arrival of the fall equinox presages crisp football weather, gayly colored foliage, and the pungent odor of burning leaves, Indian summer, pumpkins, Halloween and Thanksgiving.

And next Sunday, six days hence, Chicagoans will turn back their clocks one hour to terminate daylight saving time for the year. Daylight saving began on April 28.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel looked over his weather charts yesterday and predicted rising temperatures for today and tomorrow.

Grave Concern Expressed for Senator Lewis

A member of the senator's party said an oxygen tank is being rushed here from Paris for use "in case of an emergency." Special medical supplies will arrive from Berlin tomorrow. Mrs. Lewis said the senator was fully conscious and cheerful.

A resident German physician, Dr. Otto Ling, said the Illinois senator's heart was holding up well, but that it was weak. His pulse was reported as 140, with a temperature of 101 degrees. The infection, the physicians said, was still confined to the right lung.

Guard Against Spread.

Previously members of the senator's party said that if this infection were prevented from spreading to his left lung, Senator Lewis would have a good chance of recovery. The senator had a restless night. Another doctors' consultation is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

Remains in Hotel.

The American embassy offered the senator quarters in the embassy building, but it was decided not to move him from his hotel in his present condition. The services of an English speaking nurse were obtained, and the physicians planned a special consultation tonight.

Besides Mrs. Lewis, her niece, Mrs. Donald Jelks of Jacksonville, Fla., and the latter's daughter, Betty, were in the Lewis party which came here from Berlin.

Union Orders Out 25,000 Illinois Miners

BULLETIN.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23 (Monday).—(AP)—Joseph Dernoncourt, subdistrict president of the United Mine Workers of America, announced early today that all UMWA workers in Illinois were called out of the mines at midnight Sunday. About 25,000 workers were involved. Dernoncourt said the order was given by District President Ray Edmundson, who is sitting in on the conference between producers and union leaders at Washington.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (Monday).—(AP)—The Appalachian joint wage conference recessed at 2:30 a. m., eastern standard time, today without reaching a new wage and hour agreement to succeed the contract that expired at midnight. The conference will reconvene at 2 p. m. today to continue negotiations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 [Monday].—[Special.]—Shortly after midnight, the deadline for the threatened national strike involving more than 400,000 miners in the bituminous coal industry, a joint committee of the United Mine Workers and the operators was still deadlocked over a difference of only a few cents a ton in piece work and loading rates.

The joint committee of 16 representatives of the miners and operators was still in executive session, with Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, making impassioned appeals against letting the threat of a strike be carried out. It was conceded, however, that little if any work would be done in the mines today regardless of the outcome of the negotiations. Union leaders said it would be too late to notify their representatives in the field and the miners would stay at home.

200 Joint Conferees Wait.

Waiting in the lobby of the Shoreham hotel for the joint committee to reach a decision were some 200 members of the plenary joint wage and hour conference of the miners and operators, who had been called into special session earlier yesterday for the purpose of stating their respective cases to the public.

The contract between the miners and the operators, which expired last April 1 and was extended on half a dozen occasions at the request of the administration, expired at midnight, when the walkout called by John L. Lewis, president of the U. M. W. of A., was to become effective. If the conferees failed to reach an agreement during the night, it was said, the miners would not work today and the negotiations would go on.

Both Make Concessions.

Concessions were made back and forth during the negotiations that began at 10 a. m. yesterday. The miners gave up their demand for a thirty hour week, agreeing to continue the present thirty-five hour week. The operators acceded to the miners' demand for a 50 cent increase in day work. To the miners' demand for a 10 cent tonnage increase in the loading rate the operators were holding fast to their maximum offer of 6.9 cents. The principal obstacle to an agreement, however, was a difference of 3 cents a ton in the piece work rate.

The miners, originally demanding a 45 cent increase, finally came down to 14 cents, while the operators offered 11 cents and no more.

ASSASSIN SHOOTS 15TH WARD G. O. P. COMMITTEEMAN

Edward J. Arendt, 40 years old, Republican ward committeeman of the 15th ward, was shot and critically wounded by an unidentified assailant last night in front of the home of his sister, Mrs. Gertrude Treacy, at 6444 South Maplewood avenue.

Arendt, who had left his home at 5915 South Fairfield avenue only a short time before, was starting up the steps of the Treacy home when an automobile in which three men were riding drew up at the curb. From the car stepped one man, who fired a single shot that struck Arendt in the abdomen.

Mrs. Treacy, her daughter and Keith Lais, 6501 South Campbell avenue, were approaching the house and saw the shooting. On the way to Holy Cross hospital Arendt said he did not know who shot him.

Before he became unconscious at the hospital Arendt suggested, "Maybe George Downs shot me." A man of that name was a notorious beer runner a few years ago. Arendt's last known business activity was a partnership in the Club Humoresque, a resort at 5928 South Western avenue.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—Premier Mussolini's terms to the league of nations for settlement of Italy's conflict with Ethiopia were sprung on Geneva today in a carefully prepared diplomatic bombshell.

Three fundamental changes in the peace proposal which was put to Rome last week will have to be made before Mussolini can accept it as a basis of negotiations, it was announced.

Terms Are Listed.

FIRST—Much more substantial territorial concessions. Premier Mussolini demands in addition to the annexation of the Ogaden and Danakil deserts a great curving strip of western Ethiopia linking Eritrea with Italian Somaliland and cutting off the Emperor Haile Selassie's realms from the Sudan.

SECOND—Ethiopia must not have an outlet to the sea unless through Italian Somaliland or Eritrea, thus giving Italy control over Ethiopia's foreign trade.

THIRD—Drastic disarmament of Ethiopia. By this the Italians mean that half the African monarch's army should be disbanded and the other half put under the control of Italian officers.

British Cover Up News.

Hardly less important than Mussolini's terms is the manner in which they were made public. The news was given out by the French and Italians and covered up by the British. Up to 11 p. m., at least, the British delegation denied any official knowledge of the Italian reply, although THE TRIBUNE has learned that the second Italian delegate, Sig. Rocco, talked to Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs, about the Italian dictator's terms this afternoon.

Back of this, it is believed, is a critically tense diplomatic drama the exact nature of which is hard to follow, but which within the next forty-eight hours may bring the turning point in the deadlock over Ethiopia.

Delegates Are Pessimistic.

Although general confusion prevails among the delegations here tonight, most of the delegates do not seem to think that the turn, when it comes, will be in a favorable direction. They believe it will lead more likely toward war.

The full import of the contrast between the British silence and the Franco-Italian loquaciousness is clearly brought out by a résumé of the day's events.

The first move was a call by Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief Italian delegate, on Salvador de Madariaga, chairman of the league's committee of five [France, England, Spain, Turkey, and Poland]. Aloisi did not give Madariaga a direct answer to the league's offer, but he did have instructions from Rome which the league had been waiting for and he proceeded to comment on the communique issued after yesterday's cabinet meeting in Rome. His comment was to explain in what respect Mussolini deemed the league's offer inadequate as summarized in the three points previously mentioned.

Madariaga it is understood, enoun-cially communicated the reply to the other members of the committee of five. The Italians did likewise, Rocco calling on Eden and St. Quentin on France, while other Italian delegates called on the Poles and the Turks.

The meeting between Rocco and Eden was particularly important in view of the rumor that Great Britain has given Mussolini forty-eight hours to submit something reasonable for the committee to work on.

Owing to the British not being officially aware of the Italians' answer, it was impossible to obtain any clear cut reaction. Nevertheless, there is every reason to believe that the British consider it just as derisive as Mussolini found the league's offer.

Threat to the British.

It is obvious the British cannot consent to such a threat to the Sudan and Lake Tsana as the Italian occupation of the territory west of Addis Ababa. Mussolini's terms for peace actually are even stiffer than the original Italian demands for the annexation of all non-Amharic parts of the Ethiopian empire and a military protectorate over the remainder.

Likewise, there is no chance that the Ethiopian emperor would accept the proposal even if some members of the league council found it reasonable.

The league officials consider the Italian answer adds nothing new to the situation as it is precisely what Il Duce has been saying all along. Their view is that the league can only continue to await some more reasonable offer. It was reported that Madariaga and Capt. Eden already have instructed Baron Aloisi to tell the Italian government to submit something serious and not just a redefinition of Mussolini's dreams. There is some doubt, however, as to just how strong this was put.

Depends on British Stand.

In reality the chances of the league accepting Mussolini's terms depend on whether the British are getting ready to back down or not. If they are, there is nothing to prevent the committee of five from continuing negotiations with Il Duce on his line instead of theirs, for the committee has full power to decide whether the Ethiopian and Italian answers render a further attempt at conciliation worth while.

The committee will decide this question at a meeting at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

In some quarters it is believed the British are going to back down because they are convinced that Mussolini is no longer responsible for his actions and will not hesitate to go to war with England even if he knows it means his ruin.

A more sensational hypothesis suggested in some quarters is that Capt. Eden is suspending judgment on Mussolini's offer pending tangible guarantees from Rome that the Italian expansion will not menace the British empire. If the response is sufficiently satisfactory, according to this version, Britain might consider Italy's terms. Otherwise, she will prepare to fight.

War Goes On, Italy Says.

ROME, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Italy is willing to discuss compromise measures on a different basis from that offered by the league of nations committee of five, but she is determined on a military campaign in Ethiopia, official commentators said tonight.

It is only by such a campaign that Ethiopia can be eliminated as a danger, these persons said.

They explained that Italy would do everything in her power to avoid a clash with Great Britain and would, if possible, localize the conflict in Ethiopia.

There was much optimism today following yesterday's cabinet meeting and assurances credited to Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, to the effect that British warships are in the Mediterranean only for the purpose of defense.

It was stated that Drummond's formal assurances would make unnecessary an Italian protest to the league council concerning the ship movements.

The newspapers, while declaring Italy will welcome a discussion of modified league proposals, said nevertheless that Italy is going ahead in Ethiopia.

Claims War Is Necessary.

The Voice d'Italia, in a front page editorial, said:

"Everything requires Italy to sacrifice men, materials, and money in order to face the permanent Ethiopian menace which threatens her position with reactions upon the European system. This menace must be eliminated once and for all."

A military order published today converted workmen sent to East Africa into military bodies to fight alongside the regular army when the Ethiopian expedition starts. The workmen were given their choice of volunteering for these military bodies or staying out of them, but it was considered likely all of them, totaling more than 30,000, would be enrolled.

At the same time orders were issued for enrollment of 19 and 20 year old youths in preliminary military and technical squads, so that when they reach the army age of 21 they will be skilled in at least one branch of fighting.

MUSSOLINI FIXES PEACE TERMS

Shaded portion on map as outlined by curved line shows approximately the vast territorial concessions from Ethiopia which Premier Mussolini demanded yesterday as his price for settling Italy's conflict with the African kingdom. In addition to the annexation of the Ogaden and Danakil deserts, Italy demands a great curving strip of land linking its colonies of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. Mussolini also set forth that if Ethiopia is to get a seaport it must be located in Italian territory —either Eritrea or Somaliland, the two Italian colonies bordering on Ethiopia.

HITLER DECLARES HIS NEUTRALITY IN AFRICAN WAR

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today Germany was strictly neutral in the Italo-Ethiopia dispute. The spokesman said Reichsfuehrer Hitler was determined to keep his hands free in case hostilities broke out, in which case he would take the customary precautions to safeguard German neutrality.

Official intimations were that what had been taken in some diplomatic quarters as faint overtures from Premier Mussolini to Hitler—press articles and the inaugural speech of the new Italian ambassador to London recently—had apparently fallen on deaf ears.

"Our position is similar to that of the United States," the spokesman said. "We want to keep out of this affair and will take all measures necessary to that end."

Asked whether Germans would sell arms to Italy and Ethiopia, the spokesman said Germany needed all her arms for her own army. He said Germany's main desire was to live in peace with her neighbors.

KING'S CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS PRAY AS THEY AWAIT WAR

Protect Ethiopia, Amharas Chant at Front.

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Will Barber, Tribune correspondent, on Ethiopian preparations for war. Mr. Barber penetrated into the Ogaden desert to get a first hand view of the Ethiopian front lines. He is the only American correspondent who has been permitted to visit the Ethiopian front.

BY WILL BARBER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Sept. 22—A tiny green, red, and yellow flag fluttered down from a crooked pole, a bugle blew retreat, sounding vaguely American, and 700 soldiers in nondescript clothes and 300 more in smart khaki uniforms presented arms in Belgian fashion. The sun dipped rapidly behind blue mountains far off across a lemon yellow plain flecked with rose and violet.

Three hundred men in khaki—Somali soldiers in Emperor Haile Selassie's motley army—marched off to tentlike grass and twig huts. And then occurred something that probably can happen only in Ethiopia, most ancient stronghold of Christianity in pagan or Moslem Africa.

Pray for Protection.

The 700 Amhara soldiers were dog tired after 9 hours of digging a trench under the sun. But in the square they raised their voices in prayer—"O God, in the name of the Son, in the name of the Virgin Mary, in the name of the Holy Ghost, protect us."

Off in the east 41 miles or so away lay encamped the Italian invader—already deep into the Ethiopian territory of Ogaden. The invader was nearer, perhaps, because the commanding officer scanned the eastern horizon with field glasses from time to time and far flung sentinels stood looking eastward across the plain.

Who knew but when an attack might occur? Who knew but what Italian airplanes might not race westward toward the men praying at the lonely Ethiopian outpost?

"O God, in the name of the Savior, protect us," chanted the men. Eleven times the manly, humble, living prayer, with the soldiers' voices occasionally cracking, was repeated. Eleven times, too, the soldiers asked for God's help in the name of the Virgin and the Holy Ghost.

Prayers Cease at Nightfall.

Night came rapidly, for the African sun leaves no twilight, and the prayers ceased. The soldiers crouched low, rifles between their knees, the priest harangued them and each man uttered his own prayer for the safety of Ethiopia.

Three or four tiny camp fires made pin pricks in the night—they were fires of the Somali soldiers who as Moslems did not take part in the Christian Amhara prayers. After the Amharas had said their prayers they marched off to their own yellow grass tents and to their own fires. It was night now. The red moon was late and all was silent.

Throughout the night there was no squad in the camp. At 5:15 a. m. the sun burst out of the sky. Reveille sounded twice and the soldiers were mustered on the parade ground and for 15 minutes they prayed as they had prayed the night before.

Pray Twice a Day.

In every military camp, fort, and outpost in Ethiopia the same prayers are repeated night and morning, for the Ethiopians are not afraid to pray to their God, who, they believe with iron firmness, is on their side.

The soldiers had not eaten anything since 7 o'clock the night before, but they picked up shovels and from 5 o'clock until noon dug trenches, with their rifles always an arm's length away. The Somalis occasionally sang, but the Amharas toiled silently or talked quietly. At noon, after six and one-half hours of labor, the soldiers ate. Each man cooked his own food.

It was too hot to work between noon and 3 o'clock in Ogaden, but at 3 o'clock the soldiers started again to dig trenches. At nightfall came the prayers, "O God, protect us." Though they were at prayers, the soldiers who man the guns in the blockhouse never moved more than 15 feet away, because the enemy "might attack at any moment."

ENGLAND BLAMES PRESS OF ITALY FOR NAVY ACTION

Explains Massing of Fleet in Mediterranean.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The British government officially placed full responsibility for its rapidly increasing naval and military concentrations in the Mediterranean sea squarely upon the controled Italian press tonight.

The foreign office, shortly after Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin had cut short his week-end at Chequers to return to Downing street, issued a communique stating the unprecedented massing of warships from Haifa to Gibraltar and the increasing land and aerial defenses at such points as Malta and Gibraltar were caused by "the violence of the campaign against the United Kingdom" in Italy.

Cabinet Meets Tomorrow.

As all members of the British cabinet gathered in London for their first full meeting since Aug. 27, official assurances were received from Rome that Premier Mussolini has not yet slammed the door on further attempts at conciliation of his dispute with Ethiopia. The critical full dress session of the cabinet was set definitly for Tuesday.

The foreign office communique which officially blamed Il Duce's press for the British Mediterranean precautions stated:

"His majesty's ambassador to Rome called upon Sig. Suvich, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, on Sept. 20 in order to communicate in the name of his majesty's government the movements of the British fleet and the reenforcements with men and material of British garrisons in the Mediterranean, adding that they are not intended to imply any aggressive intention upon the part of his majesty's government.

Action Is Explained.

"He explained such measures had been taken as a natural consequence of the impression created by the violence of the campaign against the United Kingdom which has been conducted by the Italian press during the last few weeks.

"Sig. Suvich made an analogous communication and stated he was authorized to declare to the ambassador that the Italian military preparations in the Mediterranean basin were of a purely precautionary nature and had no aggressive aims."

A foreign office statement emphasized there has been no special protest from Rome regarding the British naval and military movements and that the British government acted upon its own initiative in ordering Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador to Italy, to deliver this message to the Italian government.

Get Italy's Objections.

Private advices were understood to have been received from Drummond regarding Italy's objections to the league of nations peace plan. These, it was expected, would be used to guide the British cabinet in its deliberations on Tuesday. Prime Minister Baldwin got in touch with all available ministers to arrange important conferences for tomorrow.

The Italo-Ethiopian quarrel, authoritative observers said, has brought Britain face to face with a new challenge to her ancient command of the seas.

Russia Makes Divorces Just a Little Harder to Get

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The soviet government's divorce law, one of the simplest and quickest legal procedures in the world, was altered today to require notification of the party to be divorced before the action may be granted. Heretofore a person desiring to get a divorce had only to apply to the neighborhood registry office and the divorce would be granted.

ETHIOPIAN KING GUARDS AGAINST SURPRISE ATTACK

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie took heart today as he studied week-end telegrams offering hope that war might be averted.

The conciliatory tone of the Italian rejection of the league of nations peace proposals and the British naval display in the Mediterranean encouraged him as he read reports of important conversations of ambassadors at Washington, London, Paris, and Rome.

The emperor's advisers contrasted the moderate tone of Premier Mussolini's league reply with the bluntness of former communications refusing all compromise offers.

Fears Surprise Attack.

Still, the emperor took no unnecessary chances. He continued strengthening his forces at key positions, reckoning that the approaching dry season might encourage Il Duce to launch a surprise attack.

At the same time he thought it unlikely that the dictator would imperil the lives of his own consuls, now plodding through the mud toward Addis Ababa from the Sudan frontier. Foreigners here felt the continued presence of Minister Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci of Italy was the best guarantee against air raids.

Asked when he was leaving, Vinci replied with a casual smile:

Covets His Sovereignty.

Selassie's formal acceptance of the league committee's five peace proposals waited upon his receipt of the full text. His main fear seemed to be that the chief delegate appointable by the league on a proposed Ethiopian commission would prove to be a sort of high commissioner similar to the British high commissioner in Egypt.

The emperor was represented as being unalterably opposed to anything suggestive of impairment of his sovereignty. He feared surrender to the league in this respect might ultimately open the way for Italian control of his country.

Sources close to the emperor indicated he probably would not object to having one or two Italians on subordinate advisory or technical commissions, but would reject outright anything savoring of Italian domination.

The proposal to disarm civilians also has raised difficulties. Every Ethiopian is a potential soldier. The feudal lords have their standing armies, country squires their armed escorts which, as in the middle ages in Europe, are a sign of position and prestige.

Tribes May Deposit Arms.

The thought circulated, however, that the emperor might welcome some scheme of disarmament which would render his semi-independent chiefs in outlying provinces less capable of defying him without antagonizing them at the outset.

One suggestion heard was that all arms save those pertaining to the standing army be deposited in government depots on the understanding that they might be reissued in the event of war.

Under an existing tripartite agreement, Ethiopia is supposed to maintain and register all arms for the control of irregular forces, but this was said in government circles to have failed of satisfactory results.

Americans and Europeans, knowing that clear skies and steady sunshine make air raids possible, scanned the heavens for portents of spring. Natives said flocks of vultures and hawks wheeling lazily over the mountains meant settled weather is near. Spasmodic downpours are replacing the steady downpours of past weeks.

DUNHAM HASTENS EAST TO AVERT CRISIS IN RELIEF

Robert J. Dunham, state Works Progress administration director, and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, left yesterday for Washington on a mission for immediate aid to solve a threatened relief crisis.

It is expected that Mr. Dunham will seek to cut through the red tape and departmental squabbles which have tied up the spending of President Roosevelt's $4,800,000,000 WPA projects and urge the speeding up of Illinois projects so that 166,000 persons eligible may be started on state work relief measures. Mr. Reynolds indicated he would ask the continuance of direct federal aid until the WPA begins to function.

With a probable deficit for the month of $1,000,000, the commission has issued supply orders only for two weeks, and faces the problem of receiving insufficient funds from Washington to carry on.

RENAME CHICAGO BANKER HEAD OF POLISH ALLIANCE

His election capped another turbulent session of the convention of the alliance, in which a hotly contested race for all offices of the organization at times almost resulted in violence.

Francis X. Swietlik, censor of the alliance and leader of the faction opposing Romaszkiewicz, also was reelected. Other officers announced at the completion of the tabulations:

AMERICAN ADVISER TO ETHIOPIAN KING ILL, BUT STICKS TO POST

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Everett Andrews Colson, Maine Yankee who may be described as "a power behind the throne" in Ethiopia, carried on today at Emperor Haile Selassie's side despite doctor's orders to seek a lower altitude. Throughout the present crisis Colson has been constantly at his employer's elbow, guiding the imperial hand.

Most of Selassie's speeches, radio broadcasts, and state papers have been prepared with Colson's advice. With Jacques Auboreon, Swiss legal adviser, and Gen. De Vergin, military adviser, Colson completes what foreigners here call the "Holy Trinity" or Selassie's shadow cabinet.

Colson, who was once a poor boy in Warren, Me., began his financial administrative experience in 1904, when he was chief of the civil service bureau in the Philippine Islands. After serving as auditor in the American expeditionary force in France, Colson went to Haiti as an assistant to the American financial adviser and remained there several years.

He and his wife came to Ethiopia in 1930. Since then the shy, tacitturn Yankee has held the purse strings of the African empire, giving out money sparingly on the basis of true New England frugality. Colson has declined several offers of decorations for his services.

4 DESTROYERS LEAVE SINGAPORE ON SECRET TRIP

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Four British destroyers which arrived last week from China station left today for an undisclosed destination. Local observers believed they might be en route to the Red sea or the Mediterranean.

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The transport Nevasa arrived today from Southampton carrying 1,495 British troops en route to Malta and Bombay. She will depart tomorrow.

ROBBERS ESCAPE ARMED CLERK; IS HE EMBARRASSED!

John Hanlon, 1927 North avenue, Waukegan, is a clerk in a fruit stand on Sheridan road a half mile north of Waukegan. His mind works swiftly.

Last night when two robbers looked disappointed after they held him up in front of the stand and got only $1, Hanlon said he would go back to the rear of the stand and get some more money. The bandits thought it was a good idea.

Hanlon went. But instead of cash he seized his handy shotgun and walked back, pointing it at the robbers, who fled precipitately. They did not know the trigger mechanism was jammed so that the weapon wouldn't fire. Hanlon didn't know it either until he tried to shoot.

He's Good Citizen; Knows What Mussolini Does

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—"What does Mussolini do?" Superior Judge Clarence Harden asked Pietro Puccio, Italian applicant for American citizenship. "Makes war," Puccio replied. Pietro was a citizen today. He also answered other questions.

THE '400' CRACK TRAIN, KILLS 2; DELAYED 3 HOURS

The "400," the North Western Railroad's crack stream-lined train between here and Minnesota's Twin Cities, was delayed for nearly three hours last night by an accident near Wilson, Wis., 45 miles west of St. Paul when it struck an automobile, killing a farmer and his wife. Due to reach Chicago at 11 p. m., the "400" did not arrive until 1:45 a. m.

Frank Kuchenberger, 65 years old, of Hersey, Wis., and his wife, 60, were the persons killed. Engineer E. Karnapp and witnesses said Kuchenberger apparently lost his head as he drove up to a country road crossing with the train approaching at 80 miles an hour, and stepped on the accelerator instead of the brakes.

This was the first time the crack mile-a-minute flyer has had a fatality since it was placed in operation on the Omaha division according to officials of the road, and it was also the first time the train had been late more than 10 minutes.

London Tower Thief Gets Sword, but It Wasn't King's

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Excitement created by a report that an old sword was missing from the Tower of London's armory ebbed today when a tower official disclosed its value—about $1.25. The official revealed, besides, that it wasn't much of a relic, it had not belonged to a king, nor even to a knight, but was used by a drummer at the time of the Georgian Stuarts. Its loss was reported to police as a matter of routine, the official said.

PRESIDENT ENDS VACATION VISIT TO HOME FOLKS

In Washington Today as Problems Grow.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt boarded the special which will take him back to Washington before midnight. The train is scheduled to reach Washington at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—After three weeks of what had been planned as a vacation, but which actually involved much labor and several momentous decisions and announcements, President Roosevelt tonight prepared to board the presidential special. He will be in Washington tomorrow morning.

Faces Several Problems.

The President faces five more days of official activity before departing on a trip to San Diego, Cal. The work includes a radio speech tomorrow in behalf of the organization known as the Annual Mobilization for Human Needs. In that talk he is expected to make clear his position on taxing corporation gifts to charity.

Mr. Roosevelt must also consider ways and means to speed up the spending of his four billion, 880 million dollars work relief fund. A soft coal strike which impended today also will occupy his attention. He has a great quantity of other business to clear up before he starts his westward journey.

A snub was administered indirectly today by the President to Emilio Aguinaldo, former rebel chieftain in the Philippines, who sent a protest to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday against the election of Manuel Quezon to be president of the Philippine commonwealth, charging fraud.

Sends Quezon Congratulations.

Refusing to comment directly upon the charges, the President immediately composed and sent off the following message to President Elect Quezon:

"My most official congratulations upon your election to the highest office within the gift of the Filipino people. Your overwhelming choice by the electorate is a fitting culmination of your many years of patriotic labor in behalf of the country."

Mr. Roosevelt and his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, attended St. James Episcopal church in the morning and later watched the unveiling of a tablet to Jacobus Stoutenburgh, the first white settler in the village of Hyde Park. Stoutenburgh settled in this region in 1742.

The President delivered a short talk about Hyde Park's early history, recalling that his family has been identified with the district for 150 years.

Irving Park Pastor Accepts Eastern Pulpit in Exchange

A dispatch from East Longmeadow, Mass., last night announced that the Rev. Frederick J. Bishop, 4152 North Keeler avenue, pastor of Irving Park Immanuel Congregational church, has accepted a call to a Congregational church in the Massachusetts city. His acceptance was announced as an exchange of pulpits between himself and the Rev. Edgar M. Ross, of East Longmeadow. The Rev. Mr. Bishop could not be reached last night to confirm the dispatch.

ENDS LIFE BY HANGING.

Alexander Stanaitis, 54 years old, 4518 South Fairfield avenue, ended his life yesterday by hanging himself in the attic of his home. His wife said he had been despondent over money matters.

New Deal Spending Is Under Attack.

gotten what Candidate Roosevelt promised the voters.

"A total of 563,000 civilian employés in the executive branch of the government on March 1, 1933, had increased to 644,000 in April, 1934. As of July 31, 1935, the civil service commission states there are 729,769 on the pay roll as reported to them. These figures are exclusive of the 469,000 in the CCC, and, of course, do not include the enlisted personnel of the armed forces.

"It is estimated that more than 70 new boards, commissions and other agencies have been created, although no one knows just how many because of the confusion and intricate machinery of the 'New Deal.'"

Mr. Bolton said that some criticism was raised last year when he estimated appropriations up to that time and included appropriations through the RFC.

"Represent Expenditures."

"While the appropriations may be repaid in whole or in part," he declared, "they represent actual expenditures and as such are chargeable against the cost of operation of our government. Some also disagreed with the use of the sum of 2 billion dollars appropriated for the stabilization fund. In the statement of the budget for the fiscal year 1936, there is found in the general fund balance figures indicating receipts in the year 1934 of $2,811,375,000 as the 'increment on gold.' In the same table, under expenditures for that year, there is shown the sum of 2 billion dollars for exchange stabilization, indicating clearly that this sum was charged as subject to expenditure."

LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING AT WHITE HOUSE AS ROOSEVELTS RETURN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Though in the throes of electric rewiring and kitchen remodeling, the 118 year old White House rallied today to make a "welcome home" to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

They are returning tomorrow for the Monday "mobilization of human needs," annual drive to further the community chests of American cities, and will remain until the start later in the week of their trip to San Diego, Cal.

Their status in the interim would have to be termed "light housekeeping." With cement mixers still at work alongside the completely torn-up ground floor, the White House family again will have to depend on the third floor electric grill, which can cook for three persons comfortably, four at a pinch.

BUS-AUTO CRASH IN FOG KILLS ONE AND HURTS FOUR

80 Mile an Hour Hit-Run Driver Hunted in Death.

A compilation by the Associated Press of week-end trafic deaths on the nation's highways last night showed 100 killed in 24 states.

One person was killed and four injured early yesterday when a south bound Greyhound bus and a small coupé collided during a fog on route 66, five miles south of Lincoln, Ill.

Mrs. Mary Ramirez, 25 years old, of Elkhart, Ill., was crushed to death when her car was telescoped in the crash with the bus. The injured, who were among the 32 passengers, were: Mrs. Grace Licavoili, St. Louis; Francis Smith of Oklahoma; Mrs. S. E. Lakeway and her infant son, Frederick, Willoughby, O. The bus was driven by Marshall Hemstreet, 7635 Crandon avenue, Chicago.

Killed by Hit-Run Driver.

A hit and run driver, said by witnesses to have been speeding at 80 miles an hour, killed John Gestenkorn, 40 years old, 12760 Wall street, Blue Island, early yesterday near Turnpike road on Cicero avenue, south of Alsip. His companion, Mrs. Lucy Lohor, 48 years old, 1345 Harrison street, Posen, narrowly missed being hit by the death car.

Gestenkorn's car had just run out of gasoline and the two were walking to a filling station when the other car bore down on them. The victim was married and the father of three children, police said. Mrs. Lohor said she was separated from her husband. An inquest will be held today in Blue Island.

Three Injured in Crash.

Three persons were injured critically early yesterday on Jackson boulevard, near Damen avenue, when an automobile driven by William Brown, 35 years old, 1906 West 12th street, collided with another car driven by Thomas Colman, 24 years old, 4219 West End avenue.

Brown, his wife, Marion, 28 years old, and Colman were taken to the County hospital, where they were found to have incurred fractured skulls. All were unconscious last night and police were unable to learn details of the accident.

Frank Solecki, 617 West 151st street, 63 years old, of East Chicago, Ind., was killed last night when a bicycle he was riding on 130th street near South Park avenue was struck by a hit-and-run motorist. Witnesses were unable to get the license number of the sedan.

An unidentified man about 40 years old was killed early today by hit and run drivers on 79th street a half mile east of Harlem avenue. County highway police said that apparently he had been struck by one machine and run over by another. Glass from headlights of two makes of cars littered the road. The victim's face was mashed beyond recognition by a wheel which had rolled over his head. The body was taken to undertaking rooms at 6039 Archer avenue, Argo.

Four persons were injured last night in a collision between two automobiles at 77th court and Bloomingdale avenue in Elmwood Park.

Robert S. Harris, 28 years old, 1743 North 79th court in the suburb, whose car was overturned, was on the way to get a nurse for his baby daughter, who is seriously ill. The injured, who were taken to the West Suburban hospital, are: Harris; Walter Solwack, 18 years old, 8030 West Grand avenue, River Grove, driver of the other car; his brother, George, 14 years old, and his sister, Berenice, 5 years old.

Joseph Conrad, 11 years old, 2057 West 51st street, was critically injured yesterday when he was hit by an automobile at Harlem avenue and 95th street near Chicago Ridge. Samuel Iden, 37 years old, of Valparaiso, Ind., the motorist, was charged with assault. Conrad was taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital.

The deaths of Gestenkorn and Solecki brought the total automobile deaths in Cook county since Jan. 1 up to 680, according to figures from the coroner's office. Up until 4 p. m. there were 530 trafic deaths and 12,194 persons injured within the Chicago city limits.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Peril of Skidding in Dead Leaves Told to Drivers

The Chicago Safety council issued a warning to drivers yesterday that fallen leaves constitute an automobile hazard. A bulletin points out that it is as easy to skid in dead leaves as on a wet pavement.

16,000 TAKE PART IN CELEBRATION OF GERMAN DAY

Many Are Turned Away at Stadium Pageant.

In song and stirring pageant the story of the participation of the German people in the founding of the United States was unfolded before an overflow crowd celebrating German day at the Chicago Stadium last night. More than 2,000 persons took part in the spectacle which was presented before an estimated 16,000. Hundreds were turned away at the doors.

Slight evidence of pronounced feeling on Hitlerism was seen in the pageantry or in the audience. The imperial insignia of the dynasty, the tricolor banner of the reich and the new Swastika emblem of Germany under Adolf Hitler were all displayed.

Ovation for German Veteran.

Marching youths, wearing brown shirts, black riding breeches and black visored caps, and swaggering, left hand at hip, in the manner of Der Fuehrer, were cheered, but a gray clad, helmeted veteran of the world war carrying on his back a wounded American soldier was given an ovation.

Gymnastics and other athletic sports, dancing by a ballet of girls and women trained by Miss Erika Thimey, and singing by massed choral groups featured the first part of the program. This was followed with a pageant depicting the contributions of the German people to the culture and industry of the United States.

Their Part in Our Wars.

The participation of German generals in the revolutionary war, the contribution of German statesmen and soldiers to the nation in the crisis of the civil war, the laying aside of enmities between men of German blood who fought one another in the world war were shown.

The German day celebration, in which 207 German-American organizations of the city participated, was directed by City Treasurer Gustav Brand. Attending were notables of the German colony, Mayor Kelly, and prominent city and county officials.

GERMANIA GREETS COLUMBIA

CREW OF DIXIE GIVEN PRAISE BY ROOSEVELT

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared today the "heroic service" of officers and crew of the liner Dixie, which grounded on a Florida reef during the Sept. 2 hurricane, had brought "great credit to our American merchant marine."

The President's commendation was expressed in a letter to I. M. Nobel, New York, chairman of a committee of passengers of the wrecked Morgan liner.

Police Persuade a Blind Husband Not to End Life

Englewood policemen were summoned yesterday to a drug store at 5901 Wentworth avenue, where John Bruckner, 77 years old, 154 West 59th street, who is blind, appeared and announced his intention to commit suicide. He said his wife, Nellie, 75 years old, left him when he berated her for staying out late at night. At the station, where he was detained over night, policemen succeeded in cheering Bruckner and he announced he had changed his mind about dying.

Shot in Fight Over $1 Bill; Seeks Care and Is Arrested

Shortly after he appeared at the Englewood hospital yesterday for treatment of a bullet wound in his wrist, John Bindell, 30 years old, was identified by Philip Hyman, 32 years old, as one of the men he fired at earlier in the day when they beat his father, Samuel, 62 years old, in the Hyman restaurant at 6056 South Halsted street. The elder Hyman was beaten when he refused to accept a torn $1 bill for a food check. Bindell was recently released from the Bridewell. His brother Joseph is wanted for murder, and another brother, Leo, is serving a federal sentence for mail robbery. Englewood police held Bindell in the Bridewell hospital.

Nazis Nab Priest-Editor, 2 Officials of Church Paper

WUERZBURG, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Father Saal, editor of the Catholic diocese paper, and two of the paper's directors were arrested today following street demonstrations against the publication. Police named a committee of Nazis to censor future issues.

JEWS SEEK WAY TO SUSTAIN LIFE IN NAZI GERMANY

Major Leaders Put Last Hope in Hitler.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Jews who feel themselves to be Germans are seeking a formula acceptable to the Nazi government which will permit them to remain and continue gaining a livelihood here.

Representatives of all major Jewish organizations met today. It was one of several meetings since the Hitler government stripped them of their citizenship.

"For us everything is chaos," one committee member said. He explained the Jews were taking this initiative on the basis of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's statement last Sunday that Jews would be permitted to live their own lives and conduct their own businesses.

Fear Death of Business.

The Jews who met today were represented by spokesmen, however, as being none too optimistic. They feared tremendous sentiment aroused against them would curtail their businesses. Professional men, especially lawyers, found it next to impossible to surmount difficulties placed in their paths.

That Nazis expect a further exodus of Jews from Germany was indicated in official party news correspondence suggesting creation of a "liquidation bank" to take over the businesses of Jews who leave.

"When a Jew desires to leave the country," this published suggestion said, "we must make fulfillment of his wish easier. We must make it possible for him to liquidate his business in a manner agreeable to both sides."

Cannot Export Money.

Recent applications to the British consulate for Palestine visas have been heavy, but Jews who obtain them complain they cannot get permission to take their money out of Germany. Some Jews have said they obtained such permits by handing over 70 per cent of their savings to the government.

Exclusion acts against Jews continue to be reported throughout Germany, the latest coming from Munich's lord mayor, who prohibited employment of all non-Aryans in either a direct or an indirect way for anything connected with Munich's annual October beer festival.

GERMANS PROTEST 'SUFFERINGS OF KIN IN FOREIGN LANDS'

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Mass meetings were held throughout Germany today to protest against "the sufferings of our people's brothers" on what was called "the day of German nationality." Demonstrators celebrated the day as the beginning of "the unity of Germans in the reich with those living on its borders and abroad."

At the meeting in this city, held in the theater Des Volkes, 1,000 school children sang and prominent officials spoke. H. Stegg, vice state commissioner for Berlin, told the assembly "there is hardly any problem of German nationality today that stands more in the foreground of German politics than the question of Memel.

"All Germans will agree," he asserted, "that the Lithuanian government's inconsiderate destruction and the fight against Memel inhabitants carried on in the Lithuanian made abnormal situation cannot continue."

MORON REPULSED BY PISTOL FIRE IN NORTH SIDE RAID

North Chicago Degenerate Yanks Girls from Bed.

A moron who tried to pry open the window of a woman's room early yesterday in the Irving Park district fled like a rabbit when the woman's husband, summoned by her screams, fired several pistol shots at him.

David Hardt, 5007 Berenice avenue, reported the incident to the police, who surmised from Hardt's scant description that the intruder was the sadist who has lashed and raped three women of the Austin area in the last five weeks.

The moron tackled the apartment window as Mrs. Hardt was undressing. The Austin degenerate who whipped and raped Mrs. Orlando James in her hotel apartment at 148 North Mayfield avenue last Thursday likewise entered by a window. In the same building on Aug. 17 he ravaged and lashed Mrs. Fletcher Madison.

Push Search for Culprit.

In the Austin district yesterday 100 detectives and policewomen sought suspects. Mr. and Mrs. James scrutinized 193 prisoners at the detective bureau, but failed to spot the rapist.

In North Chicago yesterday morning a moron invaded the bedrooms of four women and pulled two of them from their beds. At 1:30 a. m. he crept into the home of John Wozniak, 1509 Jackson street. Mrs. Wozniak and her daughter, Lillian, 21 years old, awakened and screamed. The intruder scurried out the window before other members of the family dashed in.

A few minutes later he sneaked into the residence of Anton Maciorowski, 1543 Victoria street, about a block from Wozniak. Maciorowski's daughters, Tillie, 25 years old, and Alice, 23, were awakened by being yanked out of bed.

Third Case Within Two Blocks.

The degenerate started to drag Alice out of the window, but ran when the girl's outcry attracted several members of the household. Men of the family and a few neighbors chased the moron for several blocks, but he escaped.

Two weeks ago, at 1511 Commonwealth avenue, just a block from the Wozniak house, Mrs. Ellen Greer, 23 years old, was seized as she put her 18 month old baby to bed and was raped by a man who is believed by police to be yesterday's intruder.

Also within a block of yesterday's invasions lives Mayor John P. Dromey. He ordered Chief of Police Novak to assign extra police to the neighborhood.

H. F. GUGGENHEIM AND LINDBERGH FLY TO SEE ROCKET EXPERIMENTER

Roswell, N. M., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Harry F. Guggenheim, capitalist and aviation enthusiast, flew here today for a surprise visit with Dr. R. H. Goddard, rocket scientist.

"We have not decided whether to remain here for the night or continue the flight," Lindbergh said, declining to discuss their ultimate destination.

This was the second visit of the flyer to Roswell since Dr. Goddard, who is working under a money grant from the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim foundations, established himself here in September, 1934.

Dr. Goddard has described the main object of his experiments as "to send up recording instruments on rockets to a great height—theoretically to exceed the height attained by a balloon."

AUTO ENGINE IS FOUND O. K. FOR SMALL AIRPLANE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The family type airplane approached a step nearer realization today with a report to the bureau of air commerce of satisfactory tests of an automobile engine for aircraft.

Because of its lower cost the bureau has been interested in adapting automobile engines to the small, medium priced planes with which it is experimenting. In order to get exact data on the practicability of the project an aeronautics school was asked to make exhaustive tests.

An ordinary six cylinder engine developing 88 horse power at 3,800 revolutions per minute was mounted on a block just as it arrived from the factory. It was hooked to an airplane propeller with six fabric belts and run for 300 hours in the open under varying weather conditions and at various speeds.

According to the report on this test the engine functioned perfectly except for one minor break in a timing gear and the belt drive gave only a 3 per cent slippage. Several kinds of gasoline were tried, ordinary automobile gasoline being used after the first 144 hours. The report said it proved to be equal in performance to two grades of aviation gasoline.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS PASSED,

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Police today continued their search for a man and a woman who passed four counterfeit $10 bills in Davenport Friday night and Saturday. A secret service agent is due tomorrow to make an investigation.

GEORGE R. WOLF DISAPPEARS OFF COASTWISE SHIP

Providence, R. I., Sept. 22.—(AP)—George R. Wolf, 47, president of the Wolf Coal and Oil company of Chicago and the Arlon Cosmetic company of New York, a resident of East Greenwich, R. I., was reported missing from the New England Steamship company boat, City of Lowell, when it docked here from New York this morning.

A note saying he was "ending it all after dark," and addressed to his wife, the former Mary C. Llewellyn of Chicago, whom he married last April, was found in his cabin.

Mrs. Wolf said her husband "had an enemy and I wouldn't be at all surprised if he had met with some sort of foul play." She declined to amplify her statement.

Wolf left here Monday night, after buying a return trip ticket, to consummate a business deal in New York. His bed on the boat had been slept in last night, although members of the crew could not recall having seen him.

NEARLY MISSES BOAT TO BUY A LAWN SPRINKLER

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. H. C. Phillips of Pittsburgh, Pa., was on the high seas tonight bound for London with a bright red and bronze patented lawn sprinkler, the purchase of which almost caused her to miss her boat.

A delay in getting an apple cargo aboard, however, held up her steamer and allowed Mrs. Phillips to make the boat with but minutes to spare.

"My daughter can't buy a sprinkler like this in England. I'm taking her one as a present," she explained.

Raymond Robins Resting Well; Has Fracture of Spine

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Col. Raymond Robins, 62, injured in a fall from a tree yesterday at his estate at Brooksville, was reported "resting very well" tonight. He suffered a fracture of the tenth dorsal vertebra of the spine. His condition was said to be serious, but not critical. He fell while pruning a tree.

EXTRA SESSION LOOMS IN COLO. GRAFT SCANDAL

Denver, Colo., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A special session of the state legislature loomed tonight in the investigation of the graft scandal involving the secretary of state's office and the state liquor licensing department. Gov. Ed C. Johnson said he would take this action if necessary to get to the bottom of the matter.

The scandal burst like a bomb earlier in the week when William E. O'Toole, unemployed liquor salesman and brother of a Democratic state senator, was seized while said to have been in the act of completing a "shakedown" against the McKesson-Robbins Drug company, a large wholesale firm. It has kept the state house trembling all week and presented Democratic leaders with a difficult political problem. O'Toole has been charged in Criminal court with operating a confidence game.

Secretary of State Quizzed.

The Democratic secretary of state, James H. Carr, after lengthy secret questioning by the district attorney and the state attorney general, has been presented with an incisive list of questions to be answered publicly and under oath dealing with every phase of the operation of his department in general and the McKesson-Robbins company matter in particular. More than twenty witnesses, of whom every one has been held in jail at various times, have made signed statements to the district attorney. The statements are being withheld pending Carr's answer to the questionnaire. This he has promised within a week.

Arrested "in Act."

O'Toole was arrested in the basement of the McKesson-Robbins warehouse last Tuesday night, after members of the district attorney's staf, hidden behind liquor barrels, had witnessed the alleged "payoff."

TODAY'S newest home comfort development can be summarized in a few words:

Air Conditioning, plus Radiator Heating, is now possible to the owner of even a modest cottage.

To such a man is offered the American Radiator Conditioning System, with these important advantages:

1 RADIATOR HEAT — In every room, a radiator of ample size projects first hand radiated heat. Only radiated heat directly warms walls and floors.

2 CONTROLLED HEAT DISTRIBUTION — By heat projectors of the right size, properly located, and adequate controls, this system provides for the easily regulated, even distribution of heat. Never affected by winds.

3 ABUNDANT HOT WATER — For kitchen, laundry and bath. With automatic firing you also get low-cost summer hot water without extra equipment.

4 AIR CONDITIONING — Including ventilation, filtering, washing, humidification and circulation of air throughout the home. Provision is made, without extra cost, for inclusion of refrigerating coils for homes that can afford artificial cooling.

5 UNINTERRUPTED OPERATION — On mild days when you do not need heat for hours at a stretch, you do need continuous conditioning—this system gives it to you.

6 AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD — American Radiator Conditioning Systems, which combine all these essential advantages, are built to fit the budget of even the lowest price home.

ARMY ENTERING NEW ERA, SAYS GEN. MacARTHUR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—In the first cheering report to come from the pen of a chief of staf since 1922, Gen. Douglas MacArthur today said the United States army is entering upon a new era which promises to give the country a defense establishment of a size and efficiency up to minimum needs. The report was made early because of the general's plans to be in the Philippines, where he will organize the island forces when he quits as chief of staf on Dec. 15.

Obstacles Swept Aside.

Obstacles, which for 13 years have impeded proper development of the army, have been swept aside and under the modernization program voted at the last session of congress the army is marching forward, the report states. Gen. MacArthur declares the present year marks the resumption of military preparation on a scale demanded by the most casual regard for the nation's safety and security.

Pictures Model Army.

With necessary legislative support assured, Gen. MacArthur states:

"The regular army will, within five years, become the model of professional and technical ability that it must be as the heart and core of the security forces. It will be in sufficient strength to discharge its important peace time duties and with its small reserve of instantly available and seasoned soldiers will be ready at a moment's notice to move against threatened attack. Its air force will be strong, efficient and capable of teaming with the ground forces to deliver decisive blows against an enemy or to perform any less closely coördinated types of mission that may be required by circumstances.

"The National Guard will continue its steady progress in efficiency and will be sufficiently strong and ready to assure support of the professional element in a major crisis.

Other Branches Described.

"The officers' reserve corps will be trained individually and organizationally to furnish valuable and indispensable reënforcement of our commissioned leadership.

"The ability of the reserve officers' training corps and the citizens' military training camps to fulfill their functions, as sources of trained personnel, will be enhanced.

"Finally there will be assurance that the minimum required quantities of modern weapons, including airplanes, tanks, rifles, cannon, and all other articles and items essential to an army, will either be available when needed or will be produced with the least possible delay."

Hails Increase as Advance.

The report hails the recently authorized increase in the army from 118,722 to 165,000 men as a distinct advance. It holds to be of equal, if not greater import, the authorization of funds to modernize equipment, pointing out that almost all of the army's weapons are obsolete.

In view of these considerations, Gen. MacArthur defines the army's task is to derive the utmost in combative power from every dollar made available for the army. This is to be done, according to the report, through more intensive training, increasing mobility, developing the air corps, revision of existing networks of command and general reorganization.

Toward carrying out this task, Gen. MacArthur lists what he terms legislative essentials for the next five years. The first of these is fighting planes for the air force, setting a quota of 500 planes a year to maintain an air fleet of 2,500 planes. He points out that a plane more than five years old has almost no combative usefulness.

Strong Reserve Needed.

A second need is said to be an efficient and reasonably strong enlisted reserve. The general sets a goal at 150,000.

To encourage enlistment he suggests payment of $12 a year with a promise of a bonus of $100 to be paid whenever the reserve is called out for war service.

A third need is continuation of the modernization program. Gen. MacArthur says that it is impossible to attempt to fill all of the army's requirements for modern weapons and equipment in a year. He suggests a five year program which would give what the general staf considers necessary.

Tells Training Requirements.

The general also urges a minimum of two weeks' training a year for officers of the combative arms of the officers' reserve corps, continuation of the National Guard schedule of training, and funds for training 50,000 men in the C. M. T. C.

Gen. MacArthur states that geographical isolation and cordial relationships across our land frontiers "minimize the need in our country for maintenance in peace of a huge military machine.

"Beyond all doubt, any major war in the future will see every belligerent nation highly organized for the single purpose of victory," the MacArthur report said, "the attainment of which will require integration and intensification of individua and collective effort. But it will be a nation at war rather than a nation in arms.

Machine as a Whole.

"Of this vast fighting machine, the fighting forces will be only the cutting edge; their mandatory characteristics will be speed in movement, power in fire and shock action, and the utmost in professional skill and leadership."

The report stressed the need of economic preparedness.

FALLS IN HOME AND DIES.

NINE IN RACE TO HEAD LEGION; SESSIONS OPEN

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The American Legion occupied the city today and had the situation well in hand as the "zero hour" neared for the serious business of its seventeenth annual convention that opens tomorrow with 1,210 delegates.

Rivals for National Chief.

For the first time in Legion history, the race for national commander is wide open with nine candidates. They are Vilas H. Whaley, Wisconsin; Earl V. Cliff, Minnesota; Harry W. Colmery, Kansas; Maurice J. Devine, New Hampshire; Danie J. Doherty, Massachusetts; J. Ray Murphy, Iowa; Quimby Melton, Georgia; William S. Pritchard, Alabama, and Frank D. Rash, Kentucky.

National Commander Frank N. Belgrano of California, in his annual report, has opposed tying up bonus payment with currency inflation and asserted the immediate payment of the bonus, if considered on its own merits, would have "a fair chance" of passage in congress.

Patman to Talk Bonus.

The author of the Patman bill, Representative Wright Patman of Texas, a Legionnaire, will speak at the convention, it is believed, to seek support of his measure which provides for payment of the bonus through issuance of new currency. It passed congress at the last session, but was vetoed by President Roosevelt.

Governors Ed C. Johnson, Colorado, and Frank F. Merriam, California, personally will extend their invitations to the Legion from the floor of the convention for next year's convention and Cleveland's offer will be presented by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and former Assistant Secretary of the Navy David Ingalls.

The convention opens at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow [central standard time] with Commander Belgrano presiding. The Rev. Park W. Huntington, national chaplain, will deliver the invocation. Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink will sing "The Star Spangled Banner."

CHICAGO DELEGATES LEAVE.

Thousands of Chicago Legionnaires bound for the American Legion convention which opens today in St. Louis obliged trains leaving here yesterday to carry extra equipment. A veritable army of ex-service men passed through the city on their way to Missouri.

The drum and bugle corps of the Police post departed on the Illinois Central railroad. Col. Armin F. Hand is to lead his Board of Trade post band of 100 pieces at the convention. This unit is a former national champion band and is undefeated as state champion.

Mayor Kelly took accommodations to depart at 12:30 o'clock this morning to present to the Legion an invitation to convene in Chicago in 1938.

A clogged gas line compelled Paul H. Miller of Detroit to land his airplane yesterday in a buckwheat field near Highland, Ind., south of Hammond. The plane was not damaged and Miller was able to proceed to St. Louis with his passengers, both officials of the Michigan Legion. With him were John Paul Jones and Charles Simpson of Grand Rapids and his copilot, Max Reno.

MAN AND WIFE DIE IN KENOSHA AIRPORT CRASH

Pilot Badly Hurt; 2 Burn with Plane.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Harold [Bud] Bain, 27 years old, and his wife, Mrs. Peggy Bain, 25 years old, of Sturtevant, Wis., were killed at the Kenosha airport this evening when the plane in which they were passengers crashed from an altitude of 100 feet and burst into flames.

The pilot, Edward Russell, 24 years old, of Racine, was burned and otherwise injured in the smashup. At the Kenosha hospital it was said he had a fair chance of recovery.

Legion Show Performer.

Russell, a veteran transport aviator, had been one of the performers in the American Legion air show held in the afternoon. He flew the plane that was destroyed later in a 15 mile race and finished third. His exploit was loudly cheered by the 5,000 who had attended the races.

It was after sundown when he and the Bains [Bain also was a pilot] took off for Sturtevant and only about 200 of the spectators were left about the field. Heading north, Russell was rising from the ground when something went wrong with the engine. Spectators said they heard a "rasping noise" in it.

With the pilot making a desperate effort to level off, the ship began to sink. It plunged nose downward and the propeller was buried in the ground. Still conscious, Russell climbed from the wreck with his clothing ablaze. The first of the spectators to reach him beat out the flames.

Didn't Know of Passengers.

The rescuers, unaware that he had passengers, did not learn of the death of the Bains until the fire in the plane died down. Apparently they had been knocked unconscious in the fall and were burned to death in the cabin seats.

Friends of the couple, who were married only six months ago, said they had ridden to the air show with Russell early in the afternoon.

CHICAGO FLYER CRASHES IN IRELAND

KANSAS CITY TO KEEP HANDS OFF THIS BUSINESS

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—It seems that stern city ordinance "U-1" wasn't intended after all to keep 10 year old women from conducting a dog washing business.

"The exclusive beauty parlor for dogs"—tan and black dogs washed, a dime; white dogs, 25 cents—can proceed with business, City Manager Henry F. McElroy assured its anxious young sponsors today.

Capitalized with a pooled 15 cents, Joanne Burke, Marion Enggas, and Patty Nordgren issued printed announcements that their enterprise would be open for business in Joanne's garage. They invested a dime in dog biscuits, which were to be a free drawing card, and a nickel in a candy bar.

Neighbors, dismayed by the prospect of dissatisfied clients' yapping, complained to William J. McMahon, building superintendent, who vetoed the venture on the grounds it conflicted with zoning ordinance U-1, which bars business from the section in which the girls live.

But when McElroy learned of the impending appeal he said, "If any of the neighbors near the little girls' homes complain the girls are welcome to come over to the garage at my house. They can wash their dogs there and I'll go in partnership with them."

LOOT SOUTH SIDE FLAT.

Burglars invaded the apartment of Stephen Boge, 2618 West 72d street, Saturday night, took $7 in cash and jewelry and clothing valued at $450.

MOTHER'S VIGIL ENDS WITH NEWS WAITKUS IS SAFE

Grateful that her son, Lieut. Felix Waitkus, was not injured when his solo flight across the Atlantic ended with a forced landing in Ireland, Mrs. Mary Waitkus yesterday expressed satisfaction with his accomplishment. The knowledge that her son was safe overweighed any disappointment that he had not reached Kaunas, Lithuania, the goal he had set for the flight.

"I am satisfied that he landed safely," said Mrs. Waitkus.

Mrs. Waitkus, who lives in Milwaukee, passed two sleepless nights at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Antoinette Russell, 2515 West 69th street, where she had gone to await news. Early yesterday morning she was told that her son had landed, but it was not until several hours later upon returning from church that she knew definitly that he was not hurt.

Mrs. Russell and Anton Waitkus, the flyer's father, who conducts a plumbing shop at 10 West Superior street, also expressed relief that the flyer was safe. His two brothers, Adolph and William, kept their vigil in Milwaukee.

JAVARAS FACES NEW GRILLING IN SLUGGING TODAY

Peter Javaras, the Oak Park florist who is serving a jail sentence for contempt of court because he feared to point out to a jury the sluggers who hammered unionism into his head with a pistol, declined in the County jail yesterday, to reveal what he will do or say when he is brought to the state's attorney's office today.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said he would ask the sheriff to bring in Javaras this morning for questioning. Mr. Dougherty said he expects to seek indictments charging conspiracy to obstruct justice as a result of Javaras' failure in court last week to repeat his former identification of Fred Bohlman and Lawrence Monahan, both union officials, as his assailants.

Javaras was assaulted June 12 because he claimed that as a florist in business for himself he should not be required to join the Florist Drivers' union. After being beaten with a pistol and trampled upon, he named Bohlman and Monahan as two of the "recruiting squad" of the union. Then he joined the union, after which he had a change of mind about his identification of the two.

TWO OF LONG'S AIDS ENGAGE IN A HOTEL BRAWL

Lieut. Gov. Noe Swings on Business Man.

Monroe, La., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A fist fight between Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe and another supporter of the late Senator Huey P. Long provided a violent aftermath to a memorial service to the slain Louisiana leader here today.

Noe, who is a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in defiance of Gov. O. K. Allen's "administration" ticket, was a speaker at the exercises.

After the ceremony he had returned to a hotel, where he engaged in an altercation with A. K. Kilpatrick, Monroe business man, in which Kilpatrick was knocked down.

Ignored on Official Slate.

The Long administration last night announced a slate of candidates, ignoring the lieutenant governor, who had jumped into the ring several days before as a candidate for governor.

Witnesses of the fracas at the hotel said Noe entered the lobby and approached Kilpatrick, saying:

"You told me a damn lie!"

The spectators said Kilpatrick apparently denied the accusation and the lieutenant governor suddenly struck him in the face twice with his right fist, knocking him down.

Calls It Long's Wishes.

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Seymour Weiss, Senator Huey Long's political confidant and treasurer of his organization, said tonight the Louisiana state political ticket announced yesterday in New Orleans had been prepared by Senator Long an hour before he was struck down by an assassin's bullet.

"At the same time he notified Gov. O. K. Allen," Weiss said. "It does not represent my opinion. I am out of politics entirely."

Weiss, however, said he did not know of the elimination of the name of Lieut. Gov. Noe from the ticket. Noe, Weiss said, was listed to succeed himself.

8 SALE BLOCKING FARMERS WILL GO TO PRISON TODAY

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Disconsolate farmers moped about jail cells here today, stunned by federal prison sentences imposed for an offense seldom punished in the corn belt in the past, riotous blocking of a foreclosure sale. They will be taken to Leavenworth prison tomorrow.

"I have decided," grinned United States Marshal Henry L. Dillingham, "that the Stars and Snipes still are on the American flag."

Dillingham and three aids were disarmed, beaten, and threatened with hanging when they sought to auction off the farm of Sam Divelbiss under an order of Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis at Plattsburg, Mo., Aug. 15.

Divelbiss, toil worn and gray, and a dozen friends of the "overall brigade" were sentenced by Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves yesterday to terms ranging from one day to three years.

FEAR FOR BRITISH FLYERS MISSING ON AFRICAN HOP

LONDON, Sept. 23.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Grave anxiety was felt here early today for the safety of Tom Campbell-Black, British aviator, and his co-pilot, J. H. G. McArthur, last reported over Wadi Halfa on the Egypt-Sudan border on an attempted record flight from London to Cape Town and return.

They hopped off Sunday from Cairo at 4:28 a. m. [11:28 p. m. Saturday, Chicago time], on their 2,000 mile journey to the southern tip of Africa and expected to reach Kisumu in Kenya at 3 p. m. [10 a. m. Chicago time].

They had not been reported here at 3 a. m. today [10 p. m. Sunday, Chicago time], after being overdue 12 hours. They reported "all well" when flying over Wadi Halfa four hours after taking off from Cairo.

Auto Fumes Kill Veteran Cemetery Superintendent

Christ Meyer, 66 years old, 1615 Hollywood avenue, an employé of the Rosehill cemetery for 35 years, was found dead from automobile engine fumes yesterday in the garage at the rear of his home where he had been working on his car preparatory to taking an outing with his wife.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Plan Tree Moving.

September 22, 1935.

Mr. Wallner says he never moves trees until after the first killing frost. About two days after the temperature drops to 32 degrees above zero he considers trees safely in the dormant stage for winter. Unlike the winter moving of trees when balls of frozen earth can be left around the roots, fall transplanting makes necessary a different plan.

The method used depends upon the size and kind of the tree, according to the chief gardener. He follows the practice of moving all kinds and sizes of evergreen trees, including cedars, arbor vitæ, and spruce, with a ball of earth attached to the roots.

Balls of earth are moved with deciduous trees more than two inches in diameter when they are transplanted in the fall. Deciduous trees include fruit trees, elms, small oaks, maples, birches, poplars, honey locusts, and similar trees, that drop their leaves in the fall.

"In moving two inch deciduous trees in the fall when a frozen ball of earth cannot be kept around the roots, I dig around the tree and under the roots, completely undermining the root system," said Mr. Wallner. "I make the ball of earth as smooth as possible and disturb the soil as little as I can, using sharp tools to prevent the ball from cracking.

"I dig under the tree, leaving only a small amount of soil while I wrap the earthen ball. I wrap the ball with strips of burlap made by splitting open feed bags and then sew the strips together. The overlapping strips may be held in place with long nails, but it is best to sew them with a big needle and coarse twine.

"Then I soak the ball of earth with water, which causes the soil to expand and tighten the burlap. This system is somewhat more expensive than moving the trees with frozen balls around the roots, but it is better for trees up to ten inches in diameter. Trees larger than this should be moved in midwinter, when the frozen earth clings to the roots.

"Whether I move trees in balls of earth in the fall or winter, I always use great precaution to see that in digging the tree is completely undermined," added Mr. Wallner. "Here is where many make the mistake of attempting to raise the tree to the surface before it is completely freed at the bottom. Then the ball of earth can be easily rocked from side to side while dirt is tamped under it. In this way the tree with the soil held in place with burlap can be brought to the surface and loaded on a tree moving wagon or sled and transferred to the new location."

Mr. Wallner says he moves trees successfully on the farm in the fall if the trunks are not more than 10 inches in diameter. He finds it more difficult to move large oaks and chestnuts because they have tap roots.

"In moving trees in the fall, whether the roots are covered with soil or not, they should be transplanted promptly in the new location. The work should be done carefully and before the ground freezes. When trees are dug up and allowed to stand unprotected the roots dry out and die. If not moved immediately after being dug up the root system should be covered with leaves, old hay or straw. Do not expose them for any great length of time to the winds and sun. Even if exposed for a half day the trees are damaged. Freezing the exposed roots will kill the trees."

According to Mr. Wallner's plan, the hole where the tree is to be set should be from 1 to 2 feet deeper and wider than the ball of earth. This space should be filled with loose earth, not sod, and tamped dry. Clay should be replaced with fine black dirt. Sod causes air pockets which interfere with trees becoming established. German peat moss mixed with the soil is helpful. The moss is also valuable as a mulch on the surface of the ground around the trees; it is especially valuable around evergreens in the fall.

Michigan Avenue Trafic Tied Up by Pipe Repairs

Michigan avenue trafic through the loop area was tied up yesterday by the rerouting of cars over Wabash avenue and State street during the completion of water pipe connections on the boulevard between Randolph street and Jackson boulevard. Trafic jams at the Michigan avenue bridge over the Chicago river were the principal cause of delay, Sunday drivers entering and leaving the boulevard system at the south end of the blocked off strip without difficulty. A crew of eighty men, working for 24 hours under the direction of Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, completed the coupling of new 16 inch water pipes which will serve boulevard frontage when the Harrison street pumping station is completed.

'ARIEL' RETURNS TO NEWARK, N.J.; JOHN IN WEST

Barrymore at Hotel

Newark, N. J., Sept. 22.—(AP)—True to the tender, pet name, "Ariel" [a character from Shakespeare's "Mid-Summer Night's Dream"], bestowed on her by John Barrymore, Elaine Barrie, that screen idol's 20 year old protegé, flew back to Newark airport today—but not on the wings of love. She was a discouraged "Ariel" who alighted from a Transcontinental and Western air liner without the handsome "Caliban" [a character from the same drama as "Ariel"] in quest of whom she rushed by plane and train as far as Emporia, Kas.

Questions as to her future moves in the frantic attempt to effect a reconciliation with Barrymore, who is now speeding westward, were met with silence. Miss Barrie refused to speak or to give her autograph to persons at the airport.

A heavy set man who stepped off the plane with Miss Barrie said:

"We make no statements."

Apparently tired after the luckless chase, Miss Barrie said she was going to New York:

"To sleep."

She wore a gray suit trimmed with gray Astrakhan lamb, a green blouse, and a black velvet beret. Waiting for her at the airport were her mother, Mrs. Edna Jacobs, and a young man. The four entered a taxicab and started for New York City a few minutes after the plane arrived.

REDS AMBUSH FRENCH FASCIST CARAVAN; 21 HURT

Claim 250,000 Turn Out in "Mobilization."

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A test mobilization disturbed by a clash with communists today massed thousands of Croix de Feu Nationalists in forests and fields throughout France under the command of Col. François de la Rocque, the man who would be dictator. The highest estimate of total attendance gave the figure at 250,000.

DE LA ROCQUE.

Between midnight and dawn the roads were jammed with automobiles as the veterans assembled—ostensibly to commemorate the victory of the Marne.

The mobilization—designed to test how fast the throngs could be assembled—was kept as secret as possible to avoid "attacks by unpatriotic elements."

Scatter Broken Bottles.

Four Croix de Feu men were beaten severely and 17 hurt slightly, De la Rocque announced later, adding the hundred Croix de Feu members refrained from fighting back.

Another communist attack on a political meting was reported by farmers attending a meeting of the "Peasant Front" at Blois. A brawl started when about 100 communists and peasants clashed after the meeting and several persons were hurt when gendarmes charged the crowd.

"The Popular Front [Socialists and communists] want us to fight their apaches, but we must not fall into a trap," the colonel told his followers at the four meetings he addressed near Paris. Other meeting places were near Lille, Marseilles, Angouleme, Bordeaux, Tarbes, Saint-Etienne, Nancy, and Clearmont-Ferrand. Mobilization also was extended to the colonies, with a meeting at Algiers.

Await Time to Fight.

Ten thousand entered the forest near Senlis, where some early comers slept under the trees until dawn.

Jumping to the platform surrounded by banners of 42 regional sections, the leader was greeted with wild cheers of "Vive De la Rocque." He then told the men of the communist attack at Caen.

"We won't fight back until the time comes for mass mobilization; then we will fight as a single unit," he declared.

POLICE OF SALVADOR BEGIN DRIVE TO END CUSSING IN STREETS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Sept. 22.—The police of this city are campaigning against the use of bad language in public.

These efforts are particularly applied to conductors and drivers of motor buses, trucks and other public vehicles. The police are ordered to arrest any one using loud, boisterous, profane, or obscene language in public.

The authorities say this action is necessary because in many places where two or more persons congregate they "use language that would make walls blush." Too, children and women overhear these gross remarks, it is said. Several arrests have already been made and the offenders fined.

CONGRESS LEADER NAMED TO FORM SPANISH CABINET

MADRID, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Santiago Alba, president of congress, announced after a half hour conference with President Alcala Zamora today that the president had asked him to form a government.

The announcement came as a great surprise since it was believed the president would again call upon Alejandro Lerroux to form another government along the lines of that which resigned Friday. The president's desire for a government on a wider basis resulted in the selection of Alba, a member of the Radical party who formerly was a Liberal Monarchist but who became a Republican two years ago.

"The president asked me to form a government which will enable Spain to continue the present economic program and insure harmony among the various political factions," Alba said.

"The president desires a strong government able to cope with the international as well as the national situation. He is anxious to avoid resorting to dissolution of congress."

It was understood that the Leftists may refuse to participate in municipal elections this autumn, thus creating a dangerous political situation.

WHO BUYS YOUR MOTOR CARS?

WE KNOW—From Facts! Surprising facts—the kind of definite, group data that shows what and where your distribution should be in the important Cleveland market.

Based on these figures, several motor car manufacturers have changed their dealer locations and obtained better sales almost immediately. If you are in the automotive industry, we should like to place this information at your command.

In A. B. C. Cleveland there is a population of 1,111,000 or 278,000 families. But over 70% of all motor car sales, year after year, are consistently made to 51% of Cleveland's families. We can locate these families for you with intimate detail.

There is more factual information about Cleveland than any other city. Let us give this unpublished information to you in your office or ours—before, and not after, the auto shows are under way! Write or wire the time and place.

How Many of These Questions Can You Answer?

In what sections of Greater Cleveland are your own sales strong, weak or normal?

What are competitive lines doing in these sections? And what has been their past record?

Do low priced cars sell better in low economic areas, or in high economic areas?

Do used cars sell better in low economic areas, or in high economic areas?

Is your dealer organization in Greater Cleveland located according to new car sales opportunities?

How many automobile owners are there in Greater Cleveland? How many one-car, two-car and multiple-car families? Where do these families live?

Would you be interested in a quarterly report showing the new car sales, by makes, in 27 small districts of Greater Cleveland?

PLEA TO PROTECT CONSTITUTION IS MADE BY BORAH

Partisanship Assailed by Idaho Senator.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah tonight denounced "intense partisanship which sometimes places party interests above country" as the "greatest danger" that now besets constitutional government.

"I am speaking," he said, "of that partisanship which, under the lash of party interests and the insatiable appetite for political power, submerges or takes the liberty of the citizen and rides roughshod over the national charter itself."

The senator, mentioned as a prospective Republican candidate for the presidency, spared no political faction in his address.

Into a plea for preservation of the constitution he wove an appeal for adoption of a foreign policy which "offers peace to all nations, political commitments, express or implied, with none."

Hits "Partisan Bigotry."

"Twice at least in our history—leaving aside the civil war—the most fundamental tenets of our personal liberty were disregarded or permanently imperiled, local self-government assailed, and our free constitutional government brought to the very verge of destruction through sheer partisan bigotry, if not sheer partisan madness," he declared.

"The most vital guarantees of the constitution, placed there for the future security of the citizen, were tossed aside in the interest of party.

"Every attack of any moment that has ever been made upon the Supreme court of the United States has been made at the behest, or under the inspiration or direction, of some political party for what was regarded as party advantage.

Recalls Party Dictatorship.

"We talk much in these days about dictators, here and aboard. We have had party dictatorship in this country more than once—a dictatorship which respects neither the rights nor privileges of the citizen nor the plainest principles of constitutional law.

"It is not the changes which come as the result of experience and dispassionate consideration upon the part of the people which we need fear. It is the changes which are brought up and put through or defeated in the midst of party rage."

Senator Borah said that "if we permit ourselves to be drawn into another foreign war . . . we shall inevitably experience in time a change in our whole structure of government."

Resolution Is Cited.

"During the closing days of the session," he said, "congress passed a joint resolution unmistakably pointing the course of this nation in the event of a foreign war, or wars. In technical scope the resolution is far from complete.

"But even so, its import and its purpose are clear and unmistakable. It plainly discloses that it is the policy of this nation to remain aloof from all foreign wars. It plainly marks a milestone in our return to the long established policy of this government—'Peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none'."

Women Trade Unionists End Two-State Conclave

Addresses were delivered on the federal securities act and movements for uniform labor legislation at the closing session of the two day annual interstate conference of Illinois and Wisconsin women trade unionists and auxiliary members at the Joseph T. Bowen Country club in Lake county yesterday. Speakers included Dr. Peter T. Swanish, chief of the division of statistics and research of the Illinois department of labor, and H. Herman Rauch, director of the unemployment insurance division of the Wisconsin industrial commission.

G. O. P. TIMBER IN ILLINOIS

This is the fifth of a series of sketches of Illinois Republicans who have been mentioned for party nominations for state offices in next year's election.

Whenever a group of Illinois Republicans mention the material available for the next state primary, it is almost certain that the name of Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton will be among those discussed. It also is likely that while most of the discussion will center around him as a possible candidate for attorney general, there will be others who will urge that he should run for governor.

CHARLES W. HADLEY.

Hadley has been noncommittal about the matter, but he started away on his vacation last Saturday and may have something more definite to say when he returns.

Those who propose Hadley for governor say that those who mention him for attorney general do so almost entirely because of the fact that he ran for the attorney generalship four years ago. They add that one thing alone is sufficient to warrant his consideration for the governorship. That is his record as the man who carried the Len Small state interest suit to victory in the Circuit court and up to the Supreme court for the decision which forced Small to settle for $650,000. Fourteen years as state's attorney of Du Page county preceded this service.

Hadley also acted as a special assistant attorney general under Brundage in prosecuting the famous Rock Island vice ring, a long battle in which he won convictions over Clarence Darrow, and in spite of a local feeling that some of the crimes committed were justifiable.

In 1928 Hadley announced himself for attorney general. Carlstrom was running for governor. A harmony anti-Small movement led Carlstrom to withdraw from the governorship contest in favor of Louis L. Emmerson. As a part of the shift Hadley withdrew from the race for attorney general, leaving Carlstrom practically a free field for his old post.

Four years later, in 1932, Hadley did run for attorney general. There was a large field. He ran 20,000 behind the winner, John E. Northup of Chicago, but he carried downstate overwhelmingly.

JAP RIVER FLEET TO ENTER RUSSIA, MOSCOW IS TOLD

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The official press published reports today from Khabarovsk on the Manchurian frontier that Japanese Manchurians plan to dispatch a river war flotilla into interior waters of soviet Russia.

In connection with the reports, which gave no reason for the attempt, the press recalled that the soviet government has repeatedly warned that any attempt to invade soviet waterways could lead to "grave consequences."

The Japanese attempt was said to be planned for late September by the Sungari river fleet, which would try to make its way through the Kasakevicheva channel near Khabarovsk.

"According to reliable information," the press said, "the plan has aroused a great dispute among Japanese military authorities."

KING ZOG GRANTS CLEMENCY TO 40; 1 REBEL MUST DIE

TIRANA, Albania, Sept. 22.—(AP)—King Zog today granted clemency to all but one of more than forty persons condemned to death for participation in last month's short lived revolt at Fieri.

The king ordered them imprisoned for various terms, but refused to halt the execution of Hekuran Manekie, convicted of killing Gen. Ghilardi in a surprise attack at Fieri. Manekie also was accused of two previous murders.

The clemency decree followed an appeal by various foreign diplomats, some of whom believe the king's action has forestalled a blood feud provoked by a desire for vengeance.

CATHOLICS FLOCK TO EUCHARIST CONGRESS IN CLEVELAND TODAY

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Catholics in almost unprecedented numbers approached the altar rails in the churches of Cleveland and its suburbs today and received the sacrament of holy communion in preparation for the opening of the seventh National Eucharistic congress tomorrow.

Similarly, the nation over, Catholics responded to their respective bishops' requests to observe this as a special Eucharistic congress communion Sunday.

The early arrivals for the four day religious festival arrived in increasing numbers during the day. Those without reservations were turned away by the larger hotels. They sought accommodations through the congress headquarters.

Police and firemen of the city have been ordered to prepare to handle the largest crowd in Cleveland's history. Spokesmen for the congress have predicted that 150,000 from out of town would be in attendance. In a large New York delegation expected tomorrow will be Alfred E. Smith, who is to address a general assembly Tuesday night.

Idaho Boys Hail Borah; Merry-Go-Round Is Free

Parma, Idaho, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Ask any Parma youngster today the name of the greatest man on earth and the universal answer is: "Senator William E. Borah." Senator Borah paid a visit yesterday to the fall festival at the Idaho village, birthplace of Gov. C. Ben Ross, and purchased a roll of tickets for the merry-go-round. All Parma youngsters had free rides.

G. O. P. PREPARES MACHINERY FOR 1936 CAMPAIGNS

State Committee to Meet in Peoria Friday.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Operations of the Republican party, it was predicted yesterday, will produce important news developments this week in the fields of national, western, and Illinois activity.

Today Harrison E. Spangler, national committeeman from Iowa and one of the sponsors of the Grass Roots conference, is expected in Chicago and it is said he will be ready to announce plans concerning the opening of the western G. O. P. headquarters here.

He leaves here to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the national committee which will be held in Washington on Wednesday. There the general outlines of the precampaign activity for 1936 elections are expected to be agreed upon.

Move for Knox Begun.

On Friday there will be a meeting of the Illinois state committee at Peoria. Invitations have been sent to an even hundred leaders who are not members of the committee. Factional lines have been ignored. An effort has been begun to have the committee indorse Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper editor, for the presidential nomination. The chances for excitement are said to be excellent.

Political reporters are invited to take luncheon with Committeeman Spangler at the Palmer house this noon with the promise that he would have some news. This is believed to concern the western headquarters topic, on which Spangler and two other members of the national committee, John Hamilton of Kansas and George A. Ball of Indiana have been acting as a subcommittee.

Expect Spangler to Head Office.

It is believed that Spangler will be appointed to take charge of the Chicago office for several months at least, assuming charge of the party's affairs in the big territory from the Alleghany mountains to the Pacific ocean.

The Illinois member of the national executive committee is Mrs. Bertha Baur of Chicago, who since her recent return from Europe has been in the east and is expected in Washington today. In addition to the appointed personnel, totaling fifteen members, the officers of the national committee are ex-officio members of the executive committee. Thus it is expected that at the meeting Wednesday in Washington there will be a second Chicagoan—George F. Getz—national treasurer.

New Policy in Evidence.

Interest in the Illinois state committee meeting has been growing steadily ever since it was called by the new state chairman, John H. Searing of Carbondale. Searing's predecessor, Justus L. Johnson of Aurora, was ousted chiefly for trying to keep old factional leaders in the background. Searing wishes to gather all leaders around a friendly table.

VETERAN ASSAILS BUROCRATS' HOLD ON SOCIAL WORK

Warns Churches of Autocracy's Rise.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A veteran of four years' service in France with Canadian army yesterday told the Rev. Canon David E. Gibson's congregation at the Cathedral Shelter, Washington and Peoria streets, that politicians now control welfare and social work so extensively that all free institutions of the country must either fight or succomb to burocrats.

The speaker, Maj. Grant W. Comstock, M. C., delivering an anniversary address recalling Canon Gibson's ordination, pointed out that all autocracy, ancient or modern, is based upon governmental control of religion and all works generally assigned to the religious field, such as education, care of the sick, the poor and the luckless.

Religion the First Step.

He explained that when autocrat or burocrat gains control of these it is comparatively easy to seize the reins of industry, commerce and politics.

Reasons given by Maj. Comstock for priority of religious, educational and welfare institutions in social control were based principally upon the fact that control of such institutions, either by autocrats or governmental bureaus, tends to wipe out consciousness of human need among people generally.

"We are nearing the point where America must decide between a type of charity bred by avarice for votes or a charity born of genuine love of fellow men springing from Christian conscience," said Maj. Comstock.

Who Will Run Agencies?

"The question simply is this: Are our churches, homes, hospitals and social agencies to be run by the government in power and for that government for price and patronage, or are these to be left to private conscience, from whence they all spring?

"This is the fundamental question today. One answer leads to Berlin, Moscow or Rome, to Hitler, Stalin or Mussolini, with their contempt for human values. The other reply declares its faith in human values. Good Samaritans are never products of systems of taxation but of voluntary interest in human welfare."

Secretary Morgenthau and Wife Arrive in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Henry Morgenthau Jr., United States secretary of the treasury, and Mrs. Morgenthau arrived today aboard the Conte Grande. They will visit Portugal and Spain until Oct. 16.

SWEITZER TO ASK JURY IN FIGHT TO REGAIN OFFICE

Robert M. Sweitzer, former county treasurer who was removed from office by the county board because of his failure to turn over to the county $414,129 of funds entrusted to him during the 24 years he was county clerk, is expected to ask Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher today that a jury be permitted to pass on his warranto petition for restoration to the office of county treasurer.

Attorney Benedict J. Short, who is to appear in Sweitzer's behalf tomorrow in the Criminal court of Judge John C. Lewe in connection with criminal charges against Sweitzer, said he was not ready for trial there and would ask reasonable deday. This action has no relation to Sweitzer's fight to regain his office, Attorney Short declared, adding that I. Harvey Levinson is Sweitzer's attorney.

A WAR THAT MAY BE STRANGLED.

A glance at the map shows how, if he starts it, Mussolini's war might be strangled at Suez.

If the British are able to maintain a blockade off Port Said the Italians will have to sail around Africa to supply their army. Even if they are permitted to get their supply ships past Gibraltar it is not likely that they have enough of them to maintain an adequate service over the long sea route. If the Italian navy and air force are able to break the blockade the British will still control both banks of the canal and would have to be driven off before Italian ships could pass through.

It is, of course, far from certain as yet that the British intend to bar the canal to Italian shipping if Mussolini persists in his plan of conquest, but the concentration of British naval forces in the Mediterranean, and particularly in the eastern Mediterranean, indicates all too clearly that the British are anxious to impress Mussolini with their ability to do so.

Closing the canal to Italian ships would accomplish swiftly what a commercialized and financial boycott might accomplish slowly. The boycott would strangle Italy; closing the canal would strangle the war.

Barring Italian ships from the canal would present an interesting legal problem which Italy might take to the league court for decision, though it is doubtful if she would win and still more doubtful if a decision would come in time to do her much good. It is also by no means certain that Britain would pay much attention to an adverse decision. She has always been touchy about the canal, the most important single link in her imperial communications, and while she has generally been anxious to preserve the legal niceties they have never been allowed to interfere with the reality that Britain is the actual, though not the legal, sovereign over the waterway.

When the canal was first projected in the early part of the nineteenth century the British government, which controled the sea route around Africa but feared it might not be able to control the canal, opposed the plan and succeeded in obstructing it for many years. British opposition was so strong that the opportunity to dig the canal fell to the French. Ferdinand de Lesseps, the French engineer, was granted the concessions by Said Pasha in 1854. Fifteen years later the canal was opened to world commerce.

The canal company, as such, has no political rights. It is a business corporation of which the British government owns 44 per cent. Of the 32 directors only 10 are British, while 21 are French and one is a subject of Holland. The British stockholding was doubled in 1875 when Disraeli arranged for the purchase of the 176,602 shares held by Khedive Ismail of Egypt, but the administration of the canal has always been French and the headquarters of the canal company are in Paris.

Several more or less binding international agreements covering the canal were reached, but it was not until 1888, at Constantinople, that the status of the waterway was fixed. It was then agreed by all the great powers except the United States, which was not represented, that the canal should be open to all vessels of all nations, at all times, whether in war or peace. Britain made certain reservations with a view of protecting her position as against the Egyptians, and these reservations were accepted by the other powers.

In 1898 the Spanish fleet passed through the canal on the way to the Philippines. In response to an inquiry from our state department the British foreign office said that though the United States had not signed the Constantinople convention the route was also at our disposal. In 1904-'05 the Russians sent their fleet through the canal to meet the Japanese, Britain's ally in the far east. Again, in 1911, the Italians used the canal in their war against Turkey, and this fleet movement was not prevented even though Egypt was at that time nominally Turkish territory.

These precedents seem to point toward the principle that the canal may be freely used by any belligerent in any war. It would be more accurate to say that the canal may be freely used by any belligerent in any war about the outcome of which the British are not too greatly concerned. The contrast is presented by the events of the world war. In 1914 the British closed the canal to their enemies. The legalities were in part preserved by orders permitting the search of any vessel passing through the canal. If contraband was found aboard the vessel was not seized until after the passage of the waterway was completed, but the distinction was obviously of no practical importance.

If Italy does go to law to obtain her rights under the 1888 treaty she will not have an easy time making a case. Italy joined the league of nations and in so doing subscribed to articles 16 and 20. Article 16 authorizes the league to order the boycotting of a nation which levies war and the use of armed force to make the boycott stick. There is no specific mention of closing international waterways to the ships of the offending nation, but the terms of the treaty, if freely interpreted, are probably sufficiently broad to permit that action. Article 20 abrogates all previous treaties if their provisions run counter to the league covenant. That being so, the court may see fit to disregard Italy's rights under the 1888 treaty, particularly in view of the fact that the judges of the court are likely once more to adopt the views of their respective foreign offices.

In any event, Britain's sea power gives her practical control of the situation. As long as her superiority on the sea continues she is in a position to prevent the Ethiopian war. She may choose not to risk her fleet, but it is difficult to believe that she would have gone as far as she has if she were not willing to go the rest of the way.

THE COMING MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Work started last Tuesday on resurfacing and reconstructing 1,000 miles of Chicago city streets. Thirty-eight thousand men will thus be employed when the project is going full tilt. The cost is 33 million dollars. Ordinarily there would be a referendum on an expenditure so vast. The bond issue would be explained by the mayor and analyzed critically by the civic organizations. Maybe it would be ratified, but likely not, for bond issues don't go well during depressions.

But who said anything about a referendum? The 33 million isn't to be supplied out of a bond issue, which is later to be extinguished by local taxation. It's an outright gift from Washington, with no strings attached, at least none to be spoken of. Of course there is to be a bond issue, and it will be repaid by taxation. But it's federal bonds and federal taxation. From the standpoint of local politicians it's the nuts. You get the money which the other fellow raises—every advantage of spending money, but none of the disadvantages.

And what is the more amazing, this is just a drop in the bucket. Mayor Kelly took to the table when he had lunch with the President and Mr. Farley a list of projects as long as Joe Louis' arm. The prospectus added up 451 million dollars, with downstate and Chicago taking share alike. And the mayor left the table smiling. Get your pencils ready. If 33 million dollars will provide jobs for 38 thousand men, what will 451 million dollars do?

Federal money has been treated by the Roosevelt administration as a swag to be passed out to friends. The south, the west, and New York have been getting theirs from the beginning. At long last we have been cut in. No treasury could ever stand up under this kind of abuse. The end must be a collapse of federal finances. It will be fun, but only so long as the money lasts and the credit stands up. This will be a merry Christmas in Chicago—a merry Christmas though we regret it for the next 50 years.

WIDENING THE FIELD OF AIRPLANE SERVICE.

The Eastern Air Lines, in offering a much improved service between Chicago and Miami for the coming season, has disclosed a plan that has the earmarks of novelty and gives us an insight into what will probably be the course of air transport development in the future. Small airplanes, flying at lower levels, are offering service at intermediate points that will enable passengers to connect with the larger transports at metropolitan stops. Both local and express service, we would call it, if applied to land transport.

In order to offer the public competitive fares air lines must reduce operating costs. Minimum flying costs call for larger capacity ships, which in turn can only offer their best performance at high altitudes in sustained flights. Their efficiency is soon destroyed by too frequent groundings. The number of "hops," however, for which thirty-five or forty air passengers will be available at anything like frequent intervals are extremely limited—perhaps the New York to Chicago route is the only one existing at the present time. Some sort of feeder system must be devised. Much smaller ships that can fly economically at low altitudes will both parallel the course of the big transports and fly on branch lines to deliver passengers to the air leviathans at refueling fields. Thus each air line, instead of offering service to a bee-line across the country, will include a wide swath of territory made possible by the speed of the small, low flying craft.

Against one pitfall the air line managers should especially guard. Operating economy and lower speeds are usually complementary and make possible a dangerous tendency. The plane's only asset is its speed. Better not drop back from 18 to 20 hours before asking the Pennsylvania and New York Central what their mistake meant to the Broadway and Century.

Editorial of the Day

[Illinois State Journal.]

Editorial writers comment on the enthusiasm with which the Italian soldiers gather for the prospective adventure in Africa. The conduct of the recruits, depicted on the screen, discounts the idea that the military dictator of the nation is forcing the youth of the country into regimentation under the colors. It is apparent that the soldiers are anxious to be off to war. It is equally apparent that the cheering onlookers are in emotional sympathy with them.

Since the world war Italy has been busy with the work of reconstruction and rehabilitation. It has accomplished wonders, and has practically recovered from the worst effects which it suffered in that frightful struggle. There is much more peacetime work to be done, and the nation has every encouragement to continue with its industrial program. Already it can see the goal of an Italy that is economically self-sustaining and independent. Why should it turn from this bright prospect to play at the bloody game of war?

Only the shade of Old Adam can furnish an explanation for that human weakness which inspires a hankering for participation in military operations, and Adam's reply to the query would probably be a lying alibi. Possibly he would say that the maid who binds her warrior's sash is responsible for the senseless emotionalism. All we can know is that the war spirit dates back to the beginning of mankind; that there is nothing unique in the Italian manifestation.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

"JAPAN IS BUYING SCRAP IRON for a Possible War"—Headline. But you can't convince the doughboys who fought over in France that they didn't shoot scrap iron in that war too. I asked a soldier in the front line after a bombardment if Jerry had shot over any high-explosive shells. "Hell, yes," said the soldier, "and cook stoves, railroad rails, lamp posts, sewer pipe, ice boxes, used automobiles, brass statues, burglarproof safes, and miscellaneous junk." In the next war if they don't shoot anything more than scrap iron it will be a great relief to the men in the trenches.

THE EASY MONEY BOYS down in Washington are having a terrible row over which one can spend the most money. Do you remember back to the days of long ago when saving, not spending, was supposed to be the aim of those we put in office? How times have changed, to be sure!

THERE CERTAINLY DOES seem to be good in everything, as the poets have often remarked. One of my pet peeves has been rock gardens. I always wanted to pick up the rocks and throw them at the man who built the garden. But being in a hurry last August while in old New York state I absent-mindedly photographed a corner of a rock garden before I realized what it was. And the darned thing, when it was developed, turned out to be one of the best pictures I made. So I have to back down on rock gardens to a certain extent—I'll admit they make lovely photographs. But what in heck could one do with 'em in winter?

MR. MUSSOLINI'S hesitation in putting on his big war makes us all feel like the nervous man in the hotel. It seems that when another man asked for a room in the hotel the clerk told him that he had only one room left but he hated to give it to him.

"What's the matter with the room?" demanded the man.

"Nothing is the matter with the room," replied the clerk, "it's one of the best rooms we've got in the house. But, I'll tell you, it's right over the room of one of our very best patrons. He's been here for years. And he's very, very nervous and the least noise disturbs him and makes him furiously angry."

"Oh, that's all right," said the man. "I'll be as careful as can be and I can promise you I won't make the slightest bit of noise."

"Well, all right," said the clerk doubtfully, "but you'll have to be awful careful."

The new guest took his key and after he got off the elevator tiptoed noiselessly down to his room. He put the key gently in the lock himself, he was that afraid the bell-hop would be clumsy, and stole stealthily into his room. He sat quietly down for awhile, but began thinking of many things and forgot for a moment the nervous man in the room below. So when he came to take off his shoes he let one drop with a bang on the floor. Then he remembered and was overcome with confusion and waited to see what the nervous man below was going to do about it. He waited in tense suspense for a long time, but nothing happened. So finally he dared to take off the other shoe and lowered it as softly as a feather to the floor. Then he got off the rest of his clothes, put on his pajamas and slipped into bed. Ten minutes passed, then a half hour, and then an hour, and the man had been fast asleep for some time when he was awakened by a knocking at the door. He crept over to the door and whispered:

"Who's there?"

"I'm the man who lives in the room below you," said a voice outside. "For God's sake drop the other shoe!"

RETURN.

The broken sigil, the edge of the sword;
The guarded eyes that shun his look,
The muted lips' betraying crook;
Breath burdened in the lung,
The indefinite sentence hung.

Water leaves its mark on sand;
The hammer calluses the hand.
But of the reach of mind to mind,
Of colors visioned for the blind,
Never any sign remains;
Labor lost, and labor's pains.

He will build a house so high
No eagle's wing shall pass it by
Without a poised reluctant pause,
An eye that ponders what this was
That blocked alike the cloud and wing,
Moveless, yet a moving thing.

This end shall see him going forth
Toward a goal of greater worth;
The spoken doom shall only be
The silver knife that cuts him free.
And every hour that he has lost
Will pay him four-fold for its cost.

JOHN DILLON HUSBAND.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

ERYSIPELAS OR "THE ROSE."

THERE are many contagious diseases, such as scarlet fever and measles, that are accompanied by skin eruptions. Typhoid fever is also attended with the appearance, particularly on the abdomen, of what are called "rose spots." Cerebrospinal meningitis is sometimes called "spotted fever" because of the character of the skin eruption. These are all examples of general or systemic diseases and the skin lesions are really incidental and not primary.

Erysipelas, however, is a disease that involves the skin. It is due to a particular strain of the streptococcus and usually remains limited to this structure although general symptoms are always present. It is extremely contagious and, for many years prior to the era of aseptic surgery, appeared at intervals in the surgical wards of hospitals. The streptococci probably gain entrance to the skin through a tiny wound or scratch, perhaps too insignificant to be noticed. This may occur through rubbing or scratching the nose or some part of the face with soiled fingers or finger nails. It is particularly prone to appear at the change of seasons when chilly days and nights follow hot periods. Colds, overwork, loss of sleep—in fact, all conditions that lower resistance are predisposing factors.

It does not take erysipelas long to develop. There may be a period of from two to five days in which the patient feels somewhat below par, when suddenly there is a sharp rise in temperature, usually preceded by a chill. Vomiting is quite common. In most instances the first evidence of the disease will be a reddened area on the skin. This is swollen, hot, and shiny and the patient will complain of burning and a feeling of tightness. As a rule the lesion appears on the face, around the nostrils, across the bridge of the nose; or sometimes about the ear. The area gradually spreads and its advance can often be seen hour by hour. As the fiery edges creep into the clear, normal skin the original site will begin to fade and lose its swelling. On the average it requires three or four days before any given spot will return to normal. When the infection spreads over the entire face swelling may be extensive; the eyelids may be so thickened that the eyes cannot be opened and the ears appear as great pendulous masses. When the scalp is attacked the characteristic redness is not prominent, but the area is swollen and tight, causing severe pain and headache.

The diagnosis is not difficult. The redness, swelling, and creeping character of the eruption as well as the general symptoms characterize the condition.

Inasmuch as the disease is extremely contagious, any person with erysipelas must be completely isolated and no contact permitted with other members of the family. If quarantine is thorough and effective there is little danger that it will be spread to others even in the same household.

Rest in bed, a light, nutritious diet with an abundance of fruit, and good nursing constitute the best treatment. A gauze mask should cover the infected area. Anti-streptococcic serum and serum obtained from patients who have recovered from the disease are of undoubted value. Ultraviolet radiation and X-rays have both been used and certain observers believe that ultraviolet offers the greatest aid in controling the spread of the infection and in shortening the course of the disease. Occasionally, blood transfusions will change the picture from a severe illness to one that is relatively mild.

WALKING PAIN.

J. S. writes: My father, who is 62, has some difficulty in walking. A pain in the legs will strike him suddenly. This is so severe that he has to stop. After a few minutes the pain eases and he can continue. Our physician says this is probably intermittent claudication. What is this disease? Is it serious?

REPLY:

I believe your physician is correct. The principal symptom is pain in the legs after walking for a short time. It is often observed first when one is walking rapidly. The sharp, stabbing pain may be so severe that movement is impossible. After resting a few minutes walking may be resumed. The attacks are somewhat similar to angina pectoris, the difference being that the pain is in the legs and not in the region of the heart.

The pain is probably a symptom of arteriosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries. Much may be done to relieve the cause through more rest, reduction in the diet [partial starvation for a short time], and attention to the circulation. During the rest periods hot packs to the legs will be helpful. These may be followed by gentle massage. Pain is the "cry" of the muscles for more oxygen—that is, more blood.

HAY FEVER.

A. C. B. writes: I have had hay fever for seven years, and now, for two years, it has been accompanied by asthma and heavy bronchial colds. I actually become bedridden. Shots taken four years ago have been of no benefit. What would be the best procedure in my case?

REPLY:

You are suffering from the absorption of a protein such as the pollen of ragweed or of some other plant. Each year your sensitivity may be increased. A careful search should be made for the offending protein, followed by an effort to eliminate it from your surroundings. Vaccines are of positive value, in a high percentage of cases, if they are made from the identical substance causing the irritation.

HAY FEVER.

G. W. writes: Do you consider it advisable for hay fever sufferers to sleep with all the windows open or closed? Would an electric fan help and if so where should it be placed?

REPLY:

Obtain two ordinary single sash wire screens and place between them a half inch layer of cotton. Fasten them together and fit tightly just inside the lower window sash. On the inside, box in an ordinary 12 inch fan that will blow air into the room through the cotton filter. This homemade device will filter pollen out of the air. The entire apparatus must be airtight and all cracks closed with putty or some frame calking gum.

TUBERCULOSIS.

A. R. writes: About ten months ago, following a cold, a lung hemorrhage occurred. An X-ray of the chest showed an infection in the lower lobe of the right lung. My physician made a diagnosis of tuberculosis, but I didn't believe him, as I began to put on weight. After reading your article on yeast infections in the lung I wonder if this is my ailment.

REPLY.

Gain in weight does not mean that tuberculosis is not present. A careful examination of the sputum should be made to determine the type of infection.

NOISY CELEBRATIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—My neighbor has drinking parties very often, and at these parties the noise made may be heard for a block. They keep neighbors awake all night. I asked them to stop it after midnight, but it keeps going on until 3 or 4 a. m. We have stood it just long enough and are becoming nervous wrecks from the restless nights we have had. Is there any limit set when noises of this kind must cease? L. K.

Officers report they interviewed the party complained of who stated that he is captain of a neighborhood club which has a meeting in his basement on the first Saturday of each month, and that when this meeting is in session they have a keg of beer on tap. This club has a membership of about 60 [all neighbors], and the club was organized for the benefit of the people interested in horse shoes. The officers state they were assured that in the future these meetings would be held in some hall and that there would be no further cause for complaint. Patrolmen have been instructed to visit this location to see that the violations complained of are abated. JAMES P. ALLMAN, Commissioner of Police.

DATE A FACTOR.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—In 1907 my mother, American born, married an alien. A few years later he was naturalized. While my mother knew that she had lost her citizenship at the time of her marriage, she was under the impression that she had regained it when my father became a citizen. Is this correct? M. C.

If the inquirer's mother was married to an alien prior to march 2, 1907, she did not lose her American citizenship thereby. If the marriage occurred between March 2, 1907, and Sept. 22, 1922, she lost her citizenship, but in this event she regained it if her husband was naturalized prior to Sept. 22, 1922, under the laws then in effect.

BUILDING REGULATIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise whether a house can be built on a 25 foot lot in this city. There is a cottage on the rear of the lot at present. I understand the law now is 30 feet. Is this correct? A. B.

It is quite possible to design a building in compliance with the building ordinances for erection on a lot twenty-five [25] feet in width. There are no ordinance restrictions as to the minimum width of a building lot.

RICHARD E. SCHMIDT, Commissioner of Buildings.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Canoes are considered very dangerous conveyances for people who cannot swim, but the truth is that a canoe with four people in it will not sink, even though it is full of water and completely submerged—provided the people remain in the canoe and keep their heads. This has been demonstrated hundreds of times to audiences along lake beaches. Canoes are built of very light cedar wood and canvas and will float whether right side up or not. The human body will almost float, even in a sitting position, and the added buoyancy of the canoe supports the people in the canoe when all are submerged to the chin.

TRANSFERS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—For five years I have waited for a universal transfer system between the elevated and surface lines, and now under the very limited concessions made by these lines I, like thousands of others, am going to be deprived of all benefit.

In spite of the fact that the Logan square elevated terminal is closer to Fullerton avenue at Kedzie, all eastbound riders of Fullerton avenue surface cars must lose time by riding to Milwaukee avenue, taking another car, and transfer to the elevated at California avenue.

I am convinced that this entire system has been arranged to disgust passengers, thereby forcing them back to the old system of paying two fares, and as a result I shall discontinue riding both the surface lines and elevated and shall ride the trains in their places. DISGUSTED.

PLEA FROM A WAGNERIAN.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Lo, the opera season will soon make its entrancing appearance, bringing forth top hats, high C's, gallery patrons, claques, and reports of the ladies' wearing apparel on the opening night. It is my suggestion that the sponsors of THE TRIBUNE Music Festival organize a mighty campaign to persuade the opera officials to give us the complete "Ring" cycle. Many of us would rejoice to see "Lucia," "Rigoletto," and "Trovatore" shelved for a season or two; the season is cluttered up with the repetition of these operas.

Is our opera company a first class organization capable of producing the "Ring" cycle or is its proper label a hick town company? YALE LEVIN.

BECK FOR PRESIDENT.

Elcho, Wis., Sept. 17.—I am a Democrat, but the record to date of the Roosevelt administration is so nauseating to me that I have decided to vote the Republican ticket at the next election—provided the party selects a candidate who posesses ability, courage and will protect the constitution of the United States, and is not affiliated with machine politics or politicians. Both old parties are rotten, in my judgment, and both need new leadership. Unscrupulous politicians are primarily, I believe, responsible for the present sad state of affairs in our country and throughout the world.

I present the name of the Hon. James M. Beck [Pa.] for your consideration and, I hope, your approval.

E. M. SAMUEL.

THE OLD STORY.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Machiavelli in Italy, Elizabeth and Cromwell in England, the current Washington dynasty here—golly, history does repeat itself.

MAX FREUNDEN.

THE BUTCHER'S SATURDAY NIGHT.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—I believe by speaking my mind now I am expressing the opinions of the three thousand meat cutters in Chicago and their wives.

Nothing is more disgusting to me than last minute shoppers on a Saturday evening. Why stores keep open any longer on a Saturday evening than any other I can't understand. These women who rush into a meat market at 9 o'clock on a Saturday and get "huffy" because the shoptender is tired and grouchy should be deprived of their meat. I am quite sure if she had to work fifteen hours on her feet, from early morning till late at night, while every one else quits work at noon and goes out for a good time early Saturday evening she soon, too, would protest these long, inhuman hours. I believe that if women would only stick together and do all their shopping before 6 the bosses and unions would soon get next to themselves and give the shoptender and butcher an even break.

MRS. R. R.

NATIVE SON MAKES GOOD.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—I have waited a year to write this, because I wanted to be sure I would be satisfied before committing myself.

I was born and raised in the so-called sunny state of California, and, although I am only 23 years old now, I was very much dissatisfied and wanted to make my home in Chicago. I visited the World's Fair in 1933 and made up my mind then that Chicago was the city for me. Chicagoans don't realize what a wonderful city they live in, and it takes a stranger coming to the city to live to really explore the many places of interest and find what a fascinating place it really is.

I have lived in Chicago a year now, and every day I become fonder of it. I wouldn't trade a square foot of Chicago for the whole state of California!

DON WARNER.

THE LOOP AGAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Congratulations on your timely and wide-awake editorial on the removal of the elevated structure in the loop. London's inadequate transportation facilities in earlier days were responsible for the decentralizing of its business and shopping districts. Shall we permit the present unsightly and noisy "L" structure to further cramp Chicago's downtown expansion and force business to seek quarters in scattered parts of the city, or shall we encourage downtown growth by removing this obsolete eyesore? W. T. PADGETT.

SENTIMENT IN INDIANA.

La Porte, Ind., Sept. 13.—We down hereabouts are getting the greatest kicks from your editorials on the repercussions of the Raw Deal and its Marxian asininities, and wish you to know of our appreciation. Thank you. X. C. SAY.

TELL BETRAYAL OF PROBATIONS BY 9 CRIMINALS

Their Failure to Make Good Shown by Records.

Judges of the Circuit and Superior courts who have sat in the Criminal court during the last year were called upon in a survey yesterday to furnish the facts upon which probation was granted to nine criminals who failed to appreciate the mercy shown them. Under the law the judges may grant probation to persons convicted of certain designated crimes not including murder, rape, and kidnaping.

The Chicago Crime commission has compiled a list of men indicted for new crimes in the last six months after having escaped punishment for previous crimes by probation, or who had been paroled after serving a portion of their sentences. The crime commission's study of men whom courts and state officials had expected to "make good" revealed that many of the convicted men were not grateful to the authorities for the mercy they received.

Many Crimes by "Repeaters."

The numerous crimes committed during the last few months by these "repeaters" caused an inquiry by the crime commission. W. C. Jones, chairman of the state parole board, recently gave a partial explanation of the kindly treatment accorded a list of convicts.

Then came the turn of the judges. From a long list of probation cases, nine "histories" were selected. They involved men on probation for previous crimes who were sent to prison during the summer months for later offenses. The histories, as supplied by the crime commission, and the explanation, as supplied by the judges, follow:

2 Youths Fail to Make Good.

Casimir Nowicki and John Goryl were granted probation on April 27, 1934, by Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein, who found them guilty of larceny. They broke into the garage of George W. Zavadil, 3513 West 58th place on Feb. 13, 1934, and stole an automobile. Nowicki is one of seven children, and is 17 years old. He was graduated from the Sawyer school in 1931 and went to Tilden High school from 1931 to 1933. He had no previous record and worked at a garage. Goryl is 19 years old and one of four children. He was graduated from school in 1931 and worked for six months. His mother is a janitress.

On May 17, 1935, both were sent to the penitentiary to serve two terms, each, of 1 to 20 years. They were convicted twice of larceny.

"I don't remember the case," said Judge Epstein, "but it must have been a minor one. I didn't put any one on probation who had committed a serious offense."

Another Muffs His Chance.

Thomas Oman was granted probation on March 9, 1934, by Superior Judge Grover C. Niemeyer, upon a finding of guilty in a burglary case. Oman, 18 years old, lived at 5327 South Union avenue. On Oct. 21, 1933, he and another youth broke into the home of Policeman George R. Higgins and stole five guns. His companion was sentenced to 1 year to life. He was one of four children, was graduated from the Wentworth school where he had been irregular in attendance. He never had a regular job but worked at times with his mother in a concession booth at White City.

Oman's year of probation was up when on May 15, 1935, he was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 20 years upon conviction of larceny.

Judge Niemeyer said he did not specifically recall the Oman probation.

"I never placed any defendant on probation who had a previous record," said the judge. "At the time I placed Oman on probation the investigation must have shown that he had no record and was a good probation risk."

"It Will Happen," Says Judge.

Patrick Walsh was granted probation by Denis E. Sullivan, then chief justice of the Criminal court, on April 17, 1935. He and two others stole the automobile of Wade Butler, 2561 Maypole avenue. All were given probation. Walsh was 17 years old. He was one of four children and was living with his parents at 447 North Avers avenue. His father had not had steady work in four years. The boy had a juvenile court record of truancy and was a poor student in school. Judge Sullivan decided he should be on probation for two years.

Two months later Walsh was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 10 years upon a plea of guilty of larceny.

"I don't recall the case," Judge Sullivan, now on the Appellate bench, said yesterday. "Did he get into trouble again? Well, that will happen."

Robber Repeats Offense.

Richard DeBenny was granted probation by Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti on April 4, 1934, upon conviction of robbery. He was 20 years old at the time, lived at 65 West Maple street and was a newsboy. He was accused of robbing Walter Barratt, 5258 Dakin street. At the expiration of the year of probation Chief Justice Sullivan extended the probation for another year.

On Aug. 12, 1935, DeBenny was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 20 years upon conviction of robbery.

"I recall that the identification of DeBenny was not positive," said Judge Allegretti in looking up his records to see why he had shown mercy to DeBenny. "He had no previous record and was a worker. He was married in the county jail and the girl he married was about to become a mother."

Court Mercy Fails Again.

Chester Kayser, granted probation by Circuit Judge John Prystalski on Feb. 15, 1933, when a robbery charge was changed to petit larceny. Kayser was 19 years old and lived at 5656 Calumet avenue. He came here from Louisiana in 1930. His mother was dead and his father deserted him. He had never worked steadily and had only gone to the 4th grade in school. He had been arrested once on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon but had been acquitted.

Before the year of probation was ended, a warant was issued for Kayser's arrest as a violator. Another year had elapsed, however, before he was captured. On July 25, 1935, he was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 year to life upon conviction of robbery.

Involved in Grocery Holdup.

Judge Prystalski said he did not remember the facts in this probation case. According to the records, the evidence showed that Kayser, with the other two, held up the grocery store of David Gordon at 5900 Calumet avenue on the evening of Dec. 23, 1932, and took $10 from the cash register.

The judge showed a report made by the probation office which said the boy had no previous police record, despite the fact that Kayser, himself, admitted he had been in the Boys' court on a charge of disorderly conduct and discharged. The record also said that the restaurant where Kayser had worked as a dishwasher had agreed to rehire him.

The Story of Another Backslide.

David Sinneberg was granted probation by Superior Judge John C. Lewe on Oct. 5, 1934, and his co-defendant in an automobile larceny case was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 20 years. Sinneberg was 17 years old then and lived at 3407 West 13th place. His father had been in an insane asylum for twelve years and one of his brothers was a fugitive accused of killing a policeman. Sinneberg went to the Hertz school and was a "problem case." He had been tried in the juvenile court on an automobile theft case but was not punished. His occupation was given as fruit peddler.

One month and three days after being placed on probation, Sinneberg was sentenced to six months in the house of correction for carrying a gun. Since then he had been indicted for murder and attempted robbery and his case is still pending.

He "Fools" the Judge.

"Sinneberg was caught in a stolen car with an older man, Nathan Omanski, who had a long criminal record," Judge Lewe said yesterday. "There was a gun in the car alongside Omanski. Sinneberg sat in the rear seat. His testimony, and that of Omanski, was that he didn't know the car was stolen and that he didn't know there was a pistol in it.

"I watch all probation cases very closely. I had Sinneberg call at my chambers several times after he was put on probation. He certainly fooled me. He told me he was employed and he seemed to be leading an honest life.

"The Juvenile court refuses to furnish us with the records of boys tried there. We are unable to get those juvenile records on offenders who come into the Criminal court after they outgrow the Juvenile court."

The Case of Arthur Hodge.

Arthur Hodge was granted probation by Judge Lewe on Sept. 28, 1934, after conviction of robbery. His right name is supposed to be Willie Gordon. He was charged with the robbery of Joe Dion, 6141 South Damen avenue, on Sept. 10, 1934. An examination by Dr. Harry Hoffman, court psychiatrist, showed him to be mentally normal.

His probation record showed him to be 20 years old and that he lived at 6014 Prairie avenue. He was born in Birmingham, Ala. His father is dead. He was one of eight children. He was sent to the Parental school for truancy from the Carter school and he has a Juvenile court record as an incorrigible. He was charged with slashing another boy with a knife and again was charged with burglary. Both times he was paroled by the Juvenile court to his mother.

Court Can't Get Earlier Record.

He was sent to the St. Charles School for Boys in December, 1928, and there had two demerits for immorality and extreme insubordination. Prior to his appearance before Judge Lewe he was arrested in Washington park with a gun in his possession. In the Boys' court he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment, but the sentence was vacated and he was placed under the supervision of the Colored Big Brothers. He was listed as being a porter.

His probation was not completed when, on Aug. 20, 1935, he was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 10 years on a verdict of guilty of larceny.

"I don't remember the Hodge case," Judge Lewe said. "I'll be glad to look it up. What I said about our inability to get Juvenile court records applies to the Hodge case. I did not know Hodge had that kind of record."

"Fine Looking Boy" Betrays Trust.

Harold Powell, 18 years old, 6548 Perry avenue, was granted probation by Circuit Judge William V. Brothers on Jan. 16, 1935, upon a plea of guilty of automobile theft. He and another youth stole the car of John C. Feltes, 6353 Normal boulevard. Powell was an usher and had no previous police record. He was ordered to make restitution of $13.08.

The ink was hardly dry on his probation record when he was in trouble again. On April 26, 1935, he was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 10 years upon conviction of larceny. Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court discharged him from probation on the previous case.

HUSBAND DISCHARGED; WIFE AND CHILDREN PICKET BOSS' CHURCH

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Three women and five children of ages from five to 10 years picketed the Central Methodist church today with placards protesting discharge of a husband and father.

The protest appeared to be directed toward Frederick Klein, president of the Alexander Smith and Sons Carpet company. Although a member of the church, he did not attend the service.

The placards said: "Mr. Klein, give my husband his job back, and "we have to feed our children."

DATO DISCLOSES EDITH M'CORMICK TRUST SITUATION

Predicts It Will Again Be Worth $10,000,000.

Real estate owned by the Edith Rockefeller McCormick Trust will approach again its former value, according to a prediction last night by Edward A. Dato. For ten years Dato and his partner, Edward A. Krenn, were Mrs. McCormick's advisers in real estate investments totaling more than $10,000,000. Mrs. McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller and divorced wife of Harold F. McCormick, died in 1932.

Mr. Dato was discussing the efforts of his company, Krenn & Dato, Inc., and the Edith Rockefeller McCormick Trust to have the government recognize certain losses in relation to income tax. The fight is being made in Washington to resist a tax levy of $50,558 upon the trust and $37,019 upon the real estate concern.

"My best judgment is that the McCormick Trust will pay 100 cents on the dollar in settling all claims against it," asserted Mr. Dato. "Then I believe there will be a comfortable fortune to be divided among the beneficiaries named in Mrs. McCormick's will."

Curious Series of Associations.

Mrs. McCormick named Krenn, an architect whom she met in Switzerland and befriended, as heir to five-twelfths of her estate. Through her friendship, Krenn was encouraged to come to Chicago where he formed a partnership with Dato, a Russian engineer who had been a schoolmate of his in Switzerland.

"I had an engineering business here," Dato explained last night. "I took Krenn in with me. Then Mrs. McCormick put money into the firm and Krenn said she wanted him to have a 60 per cent interest. I let him have 60 per cent of the profits but only 50 per cent of the stock. Then we each gave Mrs. McCormick 1 per cent of the stock. She returned it before her death.

"I managed the business and we each drew a salary of $40,000 a year. We formed the Krenn & Dato Realty Trust, the assets of which have since been transferred to Krenn & Dato, Inc., the real estate concern which still is a live corporation.

Enterprises Partly Philanthropic.

"We organized the Krenn & Dato Construction company as a subsidiary of the real estate company and it is now being liquidated and is taking no contracts. Subsequently the Krenn & Dato Contracting company was formed and I am its president but Krenn is not connected with it.

"Through the McCormick trust we bought property and erected hundreds of buildings. We bought large tracts of land and subdivided them and erected fine homes by the hundreds. Mrs. McCormick wished to do something of lasting benefit and the opening of subdivisions was a philanthropy with her.

"When she knew she was dying she wanted an arrangement made so that Krenn would have $2,000 a month for the rest of his life. She willed him five-twelfths of her estate. I, personally, and not the firm of Krenn & Dato, Inc., agreed to take his inheritance and give him the annuity. An agreement to that effect was made.

Another Set of Complications.

"Three months after her death Krenn asked that the contract be canceled. I agreed and now we are once more partners in our interest in the Mrs. McCormick estate. We are to share the five-twelfths and the claim for $1,200,000 we held against Mrs. McCormick's estate and the trust.

"While I was sick and my attorney was out of town Krenn entered into an agreement concerning a judgment for $100,000 obtained against us by the trustees of the Sheridan-Brompton Building corporation. He agreed not to appeal and the trustees became his, and in a way, my trustees in the matter of our interest in the McCormick estate. Krenn surrendered his right to vote his stock. I didn't.

"That's why the Sheridan-Brompton trustees speak for us in the McCormick estate matter. The attorneys who were formerly against us now represent us. My original agreement with Krenn, by which I acquired a half interest in his inheritance, called for my releasing him of certain indemnities and agreeing not to sue him for thirty years. By that time all the property should be worth as much as it was prior to 1929."

WIDOW OF POET BROWNING'S SON DIES IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Fannie Coddington Browning, widow of Robert Wiedemann Barrett [Pen] Browning, only son of the poet, died suddenly on Friday at her home, Hayward Heath, here.

Fannie Coddington was an American and a collection of Robert Browning's letters published in 1933 evidenced the poet's attachment to her. In 1928 she published in Boston a booklet "Some Memories of Robert Browning" in which she tells how in Venice, when the poet was dying she opened a parcel and showed Browning the first advance copy of "Asolande," at which he glanced and which he presented to her. Two or three days later Browning died.

After "Pen's" death in July, 1912, his widow was often urged to write a full volume of reminiscences, but contented herself with the one booklet. Her last years were rendered difficult by financial losses.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The outcome of the Joe Louis-Max Baer fight in New York tomorrow night will be forecast in a dramatic broadcast during the "Grandstand Thrills" program over W-G-N at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Twenty-four hours before the Yankee stadium engagement, a blow by blow description—with the name of the winner—will be presented over THE TRIBUNE station.

The dramatization is based on the advance findings of 14 leading sports authorities of the nation, Dick Wells, who writes the show, explained. Not even the actors participating in the broadcast will know the name of the predicted winner until Wells, who will do the sports announcer's part, reveals him. If you don't agree with Wells' forecast, tune in on the broadcast at 9 o'clock tomorrow night over WENR or WMAQ when Clem McCarthy will give the official results.

A poll of widely known radio figures yesterday revealed that Louis will win if broadcasters are expert dopesters. Amos 'n' Andy, fight fans who have seen both in action, pick Louis on his infighting ability. Quin Ryan and Bob Elson expect Louis to win. Quin says Louis will finish off Baer before five rounds are over. Jan Garber foresees brutal punishment for Baer. Others in the Louis camp include Lanny Ross, Frank McIntyre [Capt. Henry], Ozzie Nelson, who predicts a knockout in the sixth, and, of course, the four Mills Brothers.

Paul Whiteman and Ben Bernie say Baer will win and Deems Taylor is inclined to side with them.

Chicago girl stars are betting on Joe Louis. Virginia Clark, Betty Winkler, and Joan Blaine all insist the brown bomber will win. Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady, is betting on Baer, but if she wins there will be no more money in the family because Walter Wicker, her husband, is sticking to Louis.

In the east the ladies seem to favor Baer. Peg La Centra, who played with Maxie in his last radio series, is sure he will win. Jessica Dragonette, Francia White, and Niela Goodelle are other Baer enthusiasts.

Cupid is going on the air. Beginning on Oct. 7, W-G-N will broadcast a series of dramatic programs from the marriage license bureau and from the Marriage court in the county building. On Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons, at 1:45 p. m., prospective brides and grooms will be interviewed by Quin Ryan and then three actual wedding ceremonies will be broadcast. W-G-N has effected an agreement for exclusive broadcast privileges from both the Marriage court and the license bureau.

4,368 VISIT NEW HOME OF W-G-N IN FIRST PREVIEW

The size of the crowd that poured through the new studios of W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE'S radio station, during its first hours of open house yesterday demonstrated why the previews of the auditorium were arranged for the public before the actual "visible broadcasts" begin.

In six hours 4,368 people passed through the structure, whereas for formal programs only 588 people may be admitted to the auditorium at one time. A line of first comers waited for the doors to open at 10 a. m. At 2 p. m., the announced closing time, the counter in the hand of Policeman Armand Bordenat, who was stationed at the top of the entry stairway, had clicked off 3,481 guests. Other visitors were still arriving and it was decided to keep the doors open until 4 p. m.

Another Preview Today.

The preview will be repeated today, tomorrow, and Wednesday from 10 o'clock in the morning to 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Some of yesterday's throng said they had misinterpreted the announcements and expected to find programs in progress. It was explained again that when the public broadcasts begin free admission can be had in the order of application for tickets.

More than 500 such applications were filled out in the public service office in the lobby of Tribune Tower yesterday, most of the requests being for from two to four tickets.

Visitors Praise New Home.

Some of the applicants wrote on the margins brief words of praise for the preview and the new building.

The most frequent question on the lips of the initial visitors was "Where is the music coming from?" It filled the auditorium with the beauty of natural tone and so evenly that there was no chance of detection of the general direction of the concealed amplifiers. The lighting effects, the sharp slant of the auditorium for purposes of better vision, the richly covered, deep cushioned seats and the soundproofed walls attracted appreciative comments.

They'll Wed in December

Miss Helen Johnson and William M. Pearce, whose engagement to be married was announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Johnson of Evanston. Mr. Pearce, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Pearce of East Orange, N. J., was here for the announcement party on Sept. 15, but left yesterday for the east. The wedding is planned for late in December.

Alice Dickinson Is Engaged to G. H. Robinson

Elizabeth Zimmerman to Be Talbot Wegg's Bride.

BY JUDITH CASS.

At two parties yesterday afternoon, one in Washington, D. C., and one in Chicago, two engagements of great interest were announced. In Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Reynolds Dickinson announced the engagement of their elder daughter, Alice May, to Gilbert Hall Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ives Robinson of Chicago and Golf, and in Washington Mr. and Mrs. William Zimmerman Jr., former Winnetkans, announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Talbot Wegg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Wegg.

The young people who gathered in the Dickinson home on Astor street ostensibly to welcome home the popular "Allie May" and her sister, Miss Dorothy Dickinson, after a summer spent in the Dickinsons' Charlevoix home, were surprised to find the party a repetition of one they attended last March 31 when Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson announced Dorothy's engagement to William A. Little. Those of Miss Dickinson's and Mr. Robinson's friends who have been in touch with Charlevoix and Harbor Point, Mich., this summer where their romance flourished, were almost as surprised at the news as were the young couple's friends who summered in town or in other parts of the country.

Bride-to-Be a Fourth Generation Chicagoan.

Ever since her debut at a tea at home in November, 1931, Miss Dickinson has been one of the most popular young women in Chicago society, and as popular with her elders as with her contemporaries, for as a fourth generation Chicagoan, being a great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William R. Stirling, she has an extensive acquaintanceship. She attended the Girls' Latin school and Miss Hall's school at Pittsfield, Mass., and was graduated from the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr. She is a member of the Junior league.

Mr. Robinson was graduated from Dartmouth in 1926, and two years later he was graduated from the School of Business Administration at Harvard university. While no date has been set for Miss Dickinson's marriage to Mr. Robinson, it will not take place until after the first of the year. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson already are in the midst of wedding plans for their younger daughter's marriage to Mr. Little, which will take place in November.

Miss Zimmerman and Fiance Chicagoans Till Recently.

Both Miss Zimmerman and Mr. Wegg lived in Chicago until recently. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman, who gave the party yesterday in their home in Clarendon, Va., moved to Washington about two years ago when Mr. Zimmerman was made assistant Indian commissioner.

Miss Zimmerman received her early education at the North Shore Country Day school and then went to Smith college. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Edward J. Phelps, is a resident of Kenilworth.

Mr. Wegg is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wegg of 47 East Elm street, who also have one daughter, Mary, now Mrs. Samuel Frothingham of Bedford Hills, N. Y. Young Mr. Wegg, who went to Washington a year ago last April to be architectural engineer for the Public Works administration, prepared for Harvard at St. Paul's and after finishing college he studied at the Beaux Arts in Paris. He and Miss Zimmer-

Good Morning!

Without its music "My Song For You" would class as just farce comedy—which could be more adequately described by changing the "a" in farce to "o" and adding a "d" to the word. But—you see Jan Kiepura is there singing in his rich tenor voice. And so music lovers are sure to feel—and rightly—that the time consumed in making the picture was not wasted.

Mr. Kiepura—far more intriguing as a singer than as an actor or a personality—renders beautifully "Ave Maria," selections from "Aida," and the theme song, "My Song For You"—a hummable tune that will likely be popular.

The incredible and too long drawn out story is concerned with the singer's romance with a Viennese girl whom he meets while filling an engagement in the Austrian capital.

Direction and the acting of the principals seemed to me artificial and strained. Some creditable bits are contributed by supporting players.

See you tomorrow.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Baby Leroy Weinbrenner has learned to sing, thereby causing disharmony among other tenants in the apartment building in which the 2½ year old actor lives with his mother, Mrs. Gweneth Weinbrenner. The other tenants spoke to the landlady about how loud and continuously the boy actor sang. The landlady didn't wish to ask the baby and his mother to move out, so she doubled the apartment rent. Mrs. Weinbrenner agreed to pay it, much to the landlady's surprise. Now the other tenants are wondering how that helps them.

Prince Sigvard Bernadotte of Sweden seems permanently installed in a movie career. Having finished as assistant director on "The Perfect Gentleman" with Frank Morgan and Cicely Courtneidge, the prince has taken a lease on a Beverly Hills house and grounds.

Stepin Fetchit was getting $2,500 a week on his new Twentieth Century-Fox contract, which is a film record for a colored man, but he doesn't seem likely to keep drawing that sum. He became involved in a flareup on the set of "The Littlest Rebel" late last week. The director wasn't successful in inducing Step to do what the script called for, and the last word from the studio is that the actor left the lot and hasn't been back. There is some speculation whether Stepin Fetchit wanted to be rid of his contract, even with its $2,500 a week, because Warner studio wants to get him to play the Angel Gabriel in "The Green Pastures."

A full fledged Austrian count, Rudolph Steffanelli von Prenterhof und Hohenauer, has played extra in thirteen pictures in seven months.

Committee of Notables Formed; Site Picked.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The "greatest world's fair in history," commemorating the 150th anniversary of the full establishment of the American government with the inauguration in this city of George Washington as first President, will be held in 1939 and 1940 on a tract exceeding 1,000 acres and reaching from Flushing Bay to Kew Gardens, Queens.

Plans for the project, which is likely to represent an investment of $40,000,000 when the gates are thrown open on April 30, 1939, for the first of two six month exhibition periods, were made known today by George McAneny, chairman of a steering committee embracing many distinguished residents.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia attended last Tuesday evening at the Ritz-Carlton hotel a dinner at which it was decided to hold the fair, that had been under informal discussion since last May. The governor and the mayor expressed enthusiasm over the enterprise.

Within the next two weeks steps are to be taken to incorporate a non-profit membership corporation to promote the fair. If profits accrue it is believed they will be devoted to city relief purposes.

The steering committee includes Mr. McAneny, who is president of the Title Guarantee and Trust company and who formerly was president of the board of aldermen; Percy S. Straus, president of R. H. Macy & Co.; William Church Osborn, chairman of the Citizens Budget commission; and Grover A Whalen.

"I have been very much interested in hearing of the possibility of an exposition to be held in New York in 1939 in commemoration of the inauguration of George Washington as first President. I hope you will keep me in touch with the decisions and plans."

Among others at the dinner were the following, who were made members, with the steering group, of a general preliminary committee which is to be developed into a general organization of about 300 persons representing all fields of endeavor:

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith; Jesse I. Straus, ambassador to France; Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the New York Trust company; Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society and of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York; Henry Morgenthau Sr., former ambassador to Turkey; Louis K. Comstock, president of the Merchants' association; Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines corporation; Matthew Woll, of the American Federation of Labor; Frank L. Polk, former undersecretary of state.

Gray and Sapphire Blue

Black and Ginger Brown Used in Hats.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

At last a grand break for the red heads! A stunning and distinctive color combine of ginger brown and black that will do everything for the red heads who hitherto have been neglected in the color schemes.

Of course, you don't have to be a red head fully to appreciate this color duet, but it's simply a knock-out for all the Titian tressed shoppers who are sick of the many obvious greens, golds, and browns.

One of the most famous of American hatmakers is featuring brown and black hats, black hats with tufts or ostrich in ginger brown, bows of ginger brown, facings and even entire crowns of the ginger tone against the dull black brim.

Ginger brown gloves to wear with black dresses and these brown and black hats also keep this new color scheme. We saw one vivacious copper topped executive in a black dress, a pair of ginger brown gauntlet gloves, and a black and ginger brown combine hat.

There are plenty of black suits trimmed with lovely spicy brown flat fur collars, big dramatic affairs with deep wide gloves to match. There are lots of sleek black coats loaded around the shoulder line with ginger brown fur. So if you crave this spicy new color combine, trot down and do your shopping early because these different clothes are going fast.

These black and brown hats and costume accessories are the answer to the frenzied search for proper costume accents for mink or other brown fur coats, especially when they are worn over black dresses.

Fashion photograph . . . Another short fur coat and wool dress get-together marked with a very interesting price tag. The slim, pocketed dress is a dark sapphire blue wool with plaited fullness at the hemline. A high neckline and long sleeves and a tailored simple silhouette keep it an extremely smart street dress. The gray fur coat is lined with the blue wool of the dress, with sharply cut revers jutting out over the gray fur jacket. Available in a Chicago shop.

A SUBURBAN matron buying a painting in a department store art gallery overheard a young man ask a saleswoman if she had any etchings of Yale university.

CHICAGO fashion show. Long silver curtains at the top of a short flight of steps at one end of the room. Rows of little gilt chairs and, far enough away to give an air of elegant restraint, a string orchestra. Every chair occupied by a woman holding a little programlike folder with pencil attached, in which to write down numbers of the gowns she favors. For future reference, madame hopes. There are champagne and coffee, tea, sandwiches, and cakes. Waiters try to pass plates to the ladies, who, eyes fastened on the slim silhouettes of the mannequins, heroically refuse food. Two men—obviously American dress manufacturers, accept plates with alacrity.

FOUR women sitting together keep up an undercurrent of conversation as the models part the silver curtains and make their promenade wearing gowns and wraps faintly reminiscent of the renaissance and of ancient Greece, of regency and Victorian days, of Venetian and peasant modes. These are coats from Chanel and Schiaparelli, evening gowns from Molyneux, daytime models from Mainbocher . . .

"MAINBOCHER came from right out here in Austin—did you know that? He doesn't try to keep it dark, either . . . tells everybody in Paris he got his start in Austin, Chicago. . . . Do you suppose that is a teagown or a dinner dress? Might be a nightgown; you can't tell this year. . . . This one coming now is a rather nice suit—but it's just another suit . . . doesn't mean anything. And that metal cloth teagown with the green velvet ascot . . . it looks definitly newrich. . . . Well, I suppose madame has to buy for all tastes . . .

"I CAN'T wait to see if they show any trouser dresses. A friend of mine bought one at Schiaparelli's in Paris at her August showing. Black—over red satin trousers. It'll take nerve to wear it. . . . Trousers are marvelous to dance in. . . . American models are so much lovelier than the ones in Paris . . . those poor little half-starved creatures. O, that Chanel black wool coat is di-vine, but this dress coming now looks like a campus model at $27.50. My dear, that little outfit looks sort of professional, don't you think? A word I abominate is 'hostess gown.' . . . A Paris cable in the New Yorker says that political matters are really what decides clothes purchases, and that Italian women at the Paris openings all bought a high necked black satin model to wear to wartime dinner parties. . . . I think if they were to show a dinner gown with earmuffs attached here I'd buy it, and put on the earmuffs when the Roosevelt discussions begin."

BORDER BREED

By William MacLeod Raine

SYNOPSIS.

Young Dan Clifford is driving a mule team carrying freight when he meets and befriends 17 year old Milly Sutherland. She and a young brother and sister are en route to Los Pinos, wild border town of the untamed west. Their father died on the way. In Los Pinos Dan has a run-in at The Last Chance with Jasper Ford, gambler and killer. Through Polly Doble, Dan gets Milly work washing, and Ah Sin, a Chinaman, to help her. Jasper Ford orders Dan to leave town. Dan knows it is wise to obey. Dan's friend, Sam Jones of the Rangers, appeals to Ford without effect. When Ford forces his attentions on Milly, Dan knocks him into the creek, then forces him to accompany him to The Last Chance for a drink for his chill.

INSTALMENT VII.

DAN PAYS A FINE.

The Last Chance bulged with the milling crowd. Around the keno, faro, roulette, and chuck-a-luck tables fixed groups resisted the pressure of the more restless ones. Hard faced dealers and croupiers raked in the money. The hum of voices, the rattle of chips, the shuffling of feet made a constant din.

Dan brought his reluctant prisoner through the front door and pushed him up to the platform raised above the level of the rest of the floor. The incurious glances of the men drifted to them and were held by sheer amazement. Jasper Ford was known as the best dressed man in town. Now his immaculate clothes were soggy, his hair lank and wet, his cold classical face a map of impotent fury. One of the gambler's eyes was blackened and almost closed, the other was swelling. Apparently he was here by compulsion.

In an incredibly short time the games were suspended and all attention focused on the two on the platform. There was drama there, perhaps impending tragedy. The noise died down.

"Mr. Ford took a bath in the acequia," Dan explained. "He's some chilled. I promised him a drink. Jim, will you fix him up a stiff one?"

"Some one give me a gun," Ford cried huskily. "I'm going to kill this smart aleck."

With his left hand Dan drew the other man's revolver from a coat pocket. "Sho! You don't want a gun. After I kicked you into the ditch I took one gun away from you. What would be the use of another to you? You hadn't ought to fool with guns. Liable to get you into trouble."

obvious explanation, that the famous gunman had been manhandled by this youth, flung into a ditch, disarmed, and been dragged to public humiliation. The story was not credible, yet it had to be accepted.

"Don't push on the reins," Dan said. "You haven't had yore drink yet."

The raging eyes of the bad man fastened on those of one of his associates. "Throw me a gun, Stone," he implored.

"Obigod, I wouldn't do that, Stone," a voice advised. "We'll sweat the game and let them play their own hands."

Two or three of Ford's crowd had begun to move toward the platform. Dan was relieved to see friends of his pushing through the mob. Not only was there Sam Jones, but his eye picked up the wagon boss Pete Mulrooney and a huge teamster known as Yorky.

"There will be no shenanigan," Mulrooney shouted. "Fair play for the kid. Eh, boys?"

There was a murmur of assent. Men who had feared Ford and his associates and suffered silently under their insolence were picking up courage at this surprising discomfiture of the killer.

"Is the alcalde of this burg present?" asked Dan.

A man pushed through the jam. "I'm mayor. What do you want with me? he wanted to know.

"I want to settle up. There's a fine of five dollars for throwing refuse into the acequia. I flung this scalawag in a while ago. Here's the five." Dan flipped a gold piece in the direction of the mayor.

There was a roar of laughter. It died away when Ford shouted his defiance.

"Laugh on, you fools. Inside of twenty-four hours this smart aleck will be buried in Boot Hill. And if you get funny with me he won't be alone."

"So says Mr. Jasper Ford," Dan came back with a cheerful grin.

The difference in his attitude was amazing. Half an hour ago he had been a humiliated boy, ready to scuttle away out of danger to save his life. Since then he had gained complete poise and assurance. He was not afraid to stand up with the eyes of Los Pinos on him, the focus of the town's astounded attention. He did not fear what the future would bring. This dreaded killer was not invulnerable. The fellow had been soft as putty in his sinewy young hands.

The lank ranger had pushed close to the platform. "Ain't you gettin' pretty brash, Dan, after this hellamiler gave you twenty-four hours to get outa town?" he asked, loud enough for all to hear.

"He yapped around so much he got to annoying me, Obigod, so I had to cuff him around some," explained Dan.

"Boy, you take the cake," Jones chuckled. "Didn't anybody ever tell you this wolf was dangerous?"

"Why no! Is he?" Dan's face was full of innocent surprise. "I never would have guessed it. He doesn't look thataway to me."

Ford made a snatch at the gun in the young man's holster. Dan caught his wrist and twisted his arm. The gambler fought against the grip, could not break it, and at last collapsed with a yelp beneath the torturing pain.

"You better be good," advised Dan. "That's no way to act. First thing you know you'll hurt yoreself."

Again Ford cried out that he was going to kill him.

"I reckon I better take you home," Dan said. "Got to put you to bed, or you'll be getting pneumonia and you won't be able to put on that show you're promising the boys. But you'd ought to take that drink first. Have you got it fixed, Jim? Mr. Ford is kinda delicate. We don't want to take any chances of losing him."

Again some one barked out a harsh laugh and cut it short abruptly lest it prove dangerous.

A capper for the house, by name of Le Page, pushed forward to the platform. He was a rat-eyed, narrow-chested man with a bad reputation as a quarrelsome vindictive fellow, and swift on the draw.

"Think Jas is in danger, do you?" he sneered, looking up at Dan. "Don't get biggity, fellow. Your grave is already dug."

Sam Jones stood at his elbow. "You takin' a stack of chips, Mr. Le Page?" the ranger asked, almost in a murmur.

The gambler turned on him. "Are you claiming I can't open my mouth?" he demanded.

"Nothing like it. But we're innocent bystanders, wouldn't you say? I'd hate to find out officially you or any one else was inciting to riot."

"I don't have to do that," retorted Le Page. "That fool mule skinner has done all the inciting necessary. At the proper time Jas will riot for about a quarter of a second and after that everything will be lovely."

"That's your guess." The favorite oath of the ranger rolled out. "Mine would be different. No one can tell. But you can bet yore bottom dollar, Mr. Le Page, that the kid will get a run for his money. I'm going to see to that personally. This is between him and Jas Ford. A lot of bully puss gunmen aren't going to start hurrahing him."

"The thirty dollars a month you get for chasing greaser rustlers through the brush seems to cover a lot of territory," the capper said out of a corner of his mouth. "Too much, I'd say. Once I knew a man who lived to be a hundred minding his own business."

What had started as an individual difficulty between two men had begun to take on a broader aspect, to define the schism that the town already felt but not openly recognized. Led by the professional gamblers, the rifraf that had swept into the town had changed it from a gay and roistering frontier village to a nest of vice. The citizens of the town were robust men, ready to fight, but not willing to stake their lives against those of professional gunmen and ruffians who struck at night from the dark. Now a boy, one of no fame in the community, had challenged and made ridiculous the most redoubtable of the desperadoes.

The bartender Jim brought Ford the glass of whisky Dan had ordered. Furious, the gambler seized the glass and flung it into the face of young Clifford.

Deliberately, but swiftly, Dan gripped the man, whirled him round, and kicked him from the platform. Still without hurry, the mule skinner went down the steps and moved through the crowd to the door. He heard voices, some approving and others denouncing, but he looked neither to the right nor the left. Pushing through the door, he strode down the street.

Shoulder Grace Based on Free and Easy Pose

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"To settle an argument will you please tell which is right? My friend says I should throw my shoulders back. I say I shouldn't. When I throw mine back I can't walk naturally and my back sways in and my chest sticks out in the most bird cage sort of way! LEE."

You win the argument, Lee! Shoulders thrown back do just the things you enumerate.

No, the shoulders are held free and easy. But that doesn't mean so free and easy that they slump forward, creating those shoulder hollows and caved-in chest effect that make an imported model look like $1.98.

The shoulders are just about the most important feature of a woman's whole build-up. If the shoulders aren't carried properly the well poised head and neck are impossible of accomplishment.

You see, now, young woman, that you just don't have style to your appearance unless you hold the head up smartly. No matter how snappy your hat or coiffure, you don't go over in the big way you might with well held shoulders. Try a little experiment. First let your shoulders slump. Note the lack of style about that head and throat. Then straighten the shoulders and see how instinctively your head goes up and note how much better the neckline is, too.

To get the free and easy movement in the shoulders give them a good shrugging up and down and around and around. Then, before your mirror, try for a straight line out at each side along the shoulder level.

When you walk a help is to walk with palms turned forward, this for practice work around home, say. But you get the feel of the straight shoulder line when you practice this little walking trick.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Every once in awhile some forward step in the cosmetic field is so pat, so obviously what women want or need, that we can't imagine why it wasn't thought of long ago. Just such an item is the under-arm cream designed for use with a small, curved feminine razor—and the smart thing about it is that it not only serves as a shaving cream, but as a deodorant as well.

Many women don't use shaving cream or soap and therefore subject the tender under arm to undue irritation. Perhaps when their cream serves two purposes they'll remember it!

This cream is smooth in texture and very pleasantly scented. It takes only a moment to rub it in, and it is nongreasy so that there is no danger of staining clothing. As a rule it is wise to use it both before and after the razor, allowing the second application to be entirely absorbed. If your skin is so sensitive that it becomes somewhat agitated, even when you do use a shaving cream the second application will prove extremely soothing as well as assuring you daintiness.

This double purpose cream may be purchased separately in a generous sized jar, or you may like to get it in the compact little box containing also the feminine razor. The package is a neat and attractive one, made colorful by the fact that the razor handle comes in a variety of colors. The razor itself is small and curved to facilitate its use, and it is altogether a very well made and efficient article.

You will find this duet in several Chicago shops, at a most reasonable price for any pocketbook.

Help Your Child to a Rich Life Through Hobby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

He hadn't any toys. They were a "waste of money. Money should be spent for useful things."

He didn't go anywhere except to visit relatives, usually grownup ones.

Much of the time he did nothing—living on the fringes of the adult life of his family. Sometimes he'd say, "I don't know what to do—what shall I do, mother?"

He was a perfect example of the child who hadn't any of what we described yesterday as the "needs of the child"—that is: the real interest of his grownups in him as a person, experiences inside and outside his home to stimulate him, and play and other materials.

Today we shall make it our business to suggest what those materials consist of.

We can't make full lists, but perhaps we can approach the subject from an angle that would serve as a working basis over a period of years for supplying your child with play and work materials.

The clew is to watch your child attentively. What are the natural interests of his age? Of the experiences he has, which ones hold him and tend to appear again and again in his talk and his play?

Discovering things in this way as you go along with your child from month to month, try to supply materials with which he can express or play out the things which capture his imagination. And be sure, in buying play or work materials for him, that you suit them to his years, remembering that the small child first learns the use of his big muscles and—vice versa—the older child gradually develops coördination with his finer muscles.

And remember, too, that sometimes the freedom of the house provides a whole world of profit and amusement for a small, or even a larger, boy or girl.

You may need some plaything suggestions as a general guide. Lists have been worked out carefully and scientifically to fit the needs of children at certain ages. We have a graded toy and plaything list which we shall be glad to send you on receipt of a stamped, self addressed envelope.

man plan to be married in the early winter, but no date has been set.

John W. Holloway and his brother, Larz A. Holloway, and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Trainer Jr., will be going east next month for the wedding of George Allen Holloway and Miss Betsey Paddock, which will take place in Pittsfield, Mass., on Saturday, Oct. 12. The bride-to-be is a daughter of Mrs. Brace W. Paddock of Pittsfield and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway of Glencoe and Tyringham, Mass. The service will be read at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in Christ church with a small reception later at Mrs. Paddock's home.

The former Ruth Holloway, now Mrs. Edward T. Herndon of New York, will be one of Miss Paddock's four bridesmaids, and Mr. Herndon will be an usher. John Holloway will be his brother's best man and Larz Holloway and Mr. Trainer will be among the ushers. George Holloway and his bride will live in New York, where he is engaged in business.

Because it will be Monday night and there is a whole week of prewedding festivities ahead of their young guests, Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey have decided not to have dancing with the dinner they are giving tonight at the Saddle and Cycle club for Miss June Cornell and Kellogg Fairbank Jr., who are to be married next Saturday in Lake Geneva. Instead, the 40 guests Mr. and Mrs. Harvey have invited tonight will partake of a leisurely dinner and drift off home at a reasonable hour to get some much needed rest.

Winnetka Fashion Show to Have Baby as Model.

The youngest model in the Winnetka fashion show, to be held on the afternoon of Oct. 8 for the benefit of the Northwestern university settlement, will be Douglas Bard, son of the Roy Bards; in fact, he probably will be the youngest model ever to have modeled for charity in or near Chicago, for the young man will be just three months old at the time of the show. He will wear the very smartest attire for such a very little man and his perambulator will be pushed by a correctly clad nurse in the person of Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith.

Three dozen of the prettiest young women in north shore society will model in the show, which will be given in Christ church parish house, starting at 2:30 o'clock. The women of the Winnetka board of the settlement are working hard to make the affair the most successful they ever have given and they report that the ten exhibitors are planning to display exceptionally lovely clothes, including everything a lady of fashion wears from the time she dons her negligee for breakfast until "after the ball."

Druce Lake Camp Board to Meet Miss Case at Diner.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wells are entertaining members of the board of the Druce Lake camp at dinner tonight to meet Miss Mary Ellen Case, who arrives in Chicago today to lecture during the week at Ferry Hall as a benefit for the camp. Miss Case, who is on her second year's leave of absence from Smith college, where she is a professor, will stay with Mrs. Arthur W. Cushman in Winnetka for the first three days of her visit here. Miss Case will give her first lecture, "A Critical Symposium of the Literary Year," at 11 o'clock this morning at Ferry Hall, and other lectures will follow at the same hour tomorrow and Thursday. The final lecture will be given at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night in the same place.

The Crystal room of the Union League club is certain to be filled to capacity on Friday of this week for a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, for Clifton M. Utley is to speak on "Germany in 1935—An Eye Witness Account." Mr. Utley, director of the council, has just returned from a three month European trip, and the greater part of his time away was spent in Germany.

Three Private Schools to Open This Week.

By the middle of the week all of the children attending private schools on Chicago's north side will be back at work with their books and pencils. The Francis Parker school and the University School for Girls opened last Wednesday; the Girls' Latin school is opening today, the Boys' Latin tomorrow and the Harris school on Wednesday.

The Boys' Latin has an impressive number of small boys from prominent Chicago families entering kindergarten and first gradé this year. Among the pupils in the kindergarten class, which will not open until Sept. 30, are Townsend Brown, the Charles Edward Browns' son; Nathaniel Reed, the Philip Loring Reeds' youngster; John F. Cuneo Jr., Tommy Marshall, son of the Thomas L. Marshalls [Elizabeth Carpenter]; Adlai Stevenson Jr., Louis C. Sudler Jr., and one little girl, Jean Byfield, daughter of the Ernest Byfields. Entering first grade at the Boys' Latin are Alfred M. Wolfe Jr. and Billy Hodgkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins.

Among the pupils entering the Harris school are Joan Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Phelps Dunham, who have moved back to Chicago; Peggy Reeve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Reeve; John and Harrison Anderson, sons of the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church; Treat McCormick Jr., Walter Benson Jr., and Marilyn Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald's daughters, Camille and Annie May, are returning to the University school for their second year. And Miss Celia Coit, daughter of the former Mrs. Merrill Coit, now Mrs. Thomas Russell Ludlam of New York, is expected back this fall. A new little student is Emily Jean Packard, daughter of the Robert C. Packards of 230 East Delaware place.

Two Pieces Smart for Fall

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

School and college girls, as well as older women, nearly always are attracted to two piece dresses, because they may be worn also as separate pieces. Today's dress features a skirt and tunic in two different lengths. Make the skirt of a light weight wool and the tunic of a novelty silk, or wear a sweater with your skirt, and make the shorter tunic or blouse of satin crêpe or plain angora.

The pattern, No. 3309, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material for the shorter length blouse; 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the full length blouse, and 2⅛ yards of 35 inch material for the skirt.

Handsome Quilt Motif Based on Tree of Paradise

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Tree of Paradise" dates back to 1810 and frequently is called "Pine Tree." It was pieced as the companion quilt to the "Little Beech Tree" pattern, but left the little beech tree far behind in the popularity race. "Tree of Paradise" makes a handsome quilt. There are 12 pieced blocks, measuring 15 inches square, and 6 plain blocks, set together according to a quilt diagram accompanying the quilt pattern.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

"Cooking After Office Hours," a booklet of tips and recipes for business girls who cook, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Candied yams is a term we always have fancied as particularly expressive of food goodness, so the knowledge that it's usually used inaccurately comes to us as more or less of a disappointment. True, the moist sweet potato, especially in the south, frequently is called a yam, but we read that the true yam seldom is seen in these parts and that its use as a food in this country is limited.

However, we probably shall go on misnaming sweet potatoes occasionally, just to enjoy the sound of the name—d'y'mind? But not when marketing, for then's a time when it's wise to know just what you want in the way of sweet potato texture and flavor and to ask for it by name. The yellow Jersey, for example, is a yellow, dry fleshed potato grown mainly in Iowa. The more moist, darker hued varieties are the Nancy Hall, grown in the Kaw valley of Missouri and Kansas, or the Porto Rico of the south.

It's good to have a fairly definite knowledge of the food content of the sweet potato, too, when you're jotting it down as a part of tomorrow's menu. Due to its higher sugar content, its calorie value is somewhat higher than that of the Irish potato, and it contains an abundance of vitamins A and B.

Every one has a pet recipe for candied sweet potatoes (candied yams really sounds yummier, now doesn't it?) and almost every one votes piping hot baked sweet potatoes as a favorite, so let's skip mention of those two for now. But for a change how about a stuffed baked sweet potato? They're baked until soft. To start with, the tops are cut off lengthwise, then the contents are scooped out, mashed, mixed with cream, butter, and seasonings, whipped until fluffy, and piled back into the shells for browning. Crisp diced bacon or chopped pecans make interesting additions both for flavor and texture.

A sweet potato salad made with cubed pineapple, celery, roasted peanuts, and green pepper is something you shouldn't miss. As a main luncheon or dinner dish for a full evening meal you may want to make it a masterpiece with the addition of left-over chicken or cooked meat. The ingredients may be varied, but this working plan offers a starter:

Sweet Potato Salad.

1 cup cooked sweet potatoes, cubed
1 cup diced canned pineapple
1 cup diced cooked chicken
2 tablespoons chopped peanuts
¼ cup minced celery
¼ cup chopped green pepper
Mayonnaise

Toss the ingredients together lightly, using just enough mayonnaise to hold the mixture together. Chill thoroughly and serve on crisp salad greens or in red apple cups.

According to CULBERTSON

SAFETY FIRST.

When I was learning to drive a car my teacher taught me all the finer points but forgot to show me how to use the brakes. That is why I am one of the fastest and worst drivers in America. In bridge also, not to know how to put on the brakes when partner flashes the red light [especially in a loud, emphatic tone of voice—Pppasss] stamps a player as a member of the nation's largest fraternity, the Order of Errant Knights of Losing Bridge.

Self-preservation is the first law of bridge as of life. Back of every bid and every play we find the safety principle. "Am I safe and can I survive the invisible rocks of distribution or partner's stupidity?" is the first and most important question to ask one's self about any bid or play. Long and painful experience has taught me a number of simple rules and safety devices to avoid unjustifiable penalties. For instance, never stick out your head with a risky bid without an out. I am not saying "do not risk," for people who never take reasonable chances have equally no hope of winning, but you must have an out, a safe out, some other bid or support for partner's suit, or a conviction that the opponents, through sheer ignorance, will not double you.

But the best safety device I know is what I call the rule of two and three. It means that if your partner has passed or has not yet bid, you should not expect or gamble on more than two winners in his hand, if vulnerable, and three winners if not vulnerable. Thus, if your own hand contains seven winners, you can go only as high as three spades vulnerable, but you can gamble on four spades if not vulnerable. The reason for the rule of two and three is that your maximum justifiable loss, even to save a game, is 500 points.

There is much more to it than that, but if you stick to this rule you will save, in the course of your life-time, even more than 1,500,000 points. I can guarantee it, for every time I break the rule I get the ax.

The Safety Play.

Before playing the trump suit or any suit, for that matter] visualize the possible ways in which the opponents' cards in that suit may be divided between their two hands. Then play as though you actually expect the worst possible division, unless, to make your contract, you must take a chance on finding the best.

The bidding [East-West vulnerable]:

1 Sp.	Pass	2 Ht.	Pass
2 N. T.	Pass	3 Sp.	Pass
4 Sp [Final bid.]

West opened the king of diamonds and, fearing that South might discard one or more losing diamonds on dummy's hearts, he continued with the ace. Then he led a low diamond to South's queen. South, who could discard his clubs on the heart suit, had to limit the loss of tricks in the trump suit to one trick. South led a low spade, West played the six, and South put up the king. The play defeated him. If he had thought out his problem, he would have played dummy's nine of spades, for if West had all the outstanding trumps it would win and if East were able to take it, then there would be only two spades left, which would be taken care of later by the ace and king.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

QUESTION—You hold ♠ K-Q-J-10-9-7-3, ♥ 3, ♦ J-9-4-2, ♣ 6. What do you bid, not vulnerable?

ANSWER—Four spades. With a long and powerful suit, but no outside strength, your best bet is to start with a high bid, hoping to shut out the opponents. But with the same suit, if you have another ace or a K-Q, the proper bid would be one spade.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Virginia Underwood Ruffner, daughter of Mrs. William Rogers Ruffner and the late Mr. Ruffner of Highland Park, Ill., to Edward Brant Wintersteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Wintersteen of Schenectady, N. Y., took place Thursday evening at the home of the uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shumway Ruffner, in Rosendal road, Schenectady.

She was given in marriage by her uncle, Charles Shumway Ruffner. Her sisters, Mrs. Harrison Tyler Todd of Schenectady and Miss Louise Ruffner of Highland Park, attended her. Mrs. Todd wore a gown of powder blue velvet made in Elizabethan style, and Miss Ruffner wore a similar gown in a russet shade. They carried quaint bouquets of yellow and russet flowers.

Mr. Wintersteen was attended by his brother, John Brant Wintersteen, as best man; Devereux Hanson, and Harrison Tyler Todd.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Arenville Howard of Long Island, an aunt of the bride; Mrs. Richard K. Paynter Jr. of Princeton, N. J., a cousin; Mrs. Charles S. Brewer of Utica, N. Y., and Prof. and Mrs. Frederick W. Peterson of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Taking Young Sister Into Home Sometimes Starts Difficulties

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Taking in the in-laws sometimes has this unhappy feature: The adopted relative, young and foolish, proceeds to fall in love with the husband of her sister.

Lovey's case runs true to fictional form. She was invited in to live with her married sister because her mother and father died and there seemed no place else for the young one to go. She had a beau of her own, but presently she found herself preferring to go places with her married sister and her husband. The married sister, after a time, because a baby was on the way, would persuade Lovey to go on out to the movies or to dances with her husband, until Lovey now feels she is in a bad pickle, hopelessly in love with the man to whom her sister is married. So jealous of him that when he praises her sister, she goes into a tantrum.

It's Lovey's next move with which we are concerned, and we think it should be an early one and off the premises entirely. After all, when a woman reaches 19 she is no baby. She's fairly wise in the ways of the world, as girls are nowadays. She should have character enough to recognize the danger that lies in her remaining on in the present atmosphere. She should get out.

Regardless of her sister's innocent protests, she should move on and away, if she can afford no more than a tiny room elsewhere. And she should get a beau of her own and give him a chance to see her.

WEAK, PALE, WASHED OUT SKINNY GIRLS!

"It's Glands Starving for Iodine That Keep Folks Rundown and Skinny," Says "JIMMY" BRADDOCK!

Weak, rundown, skinny folks—take Jimmy Braddock's advice. Use his quick method to gain new strength. He put on 26 lbs. of solid flesh in 6 weeks.

He says, "Tests convinced me rundown conditions, poor blood and skinniness come frequently from iodine-starved glands. When these glands — particularly the important gland which controls weight building—lack NATURAL PLANT IODINE (don't confuse this with ordinary chemical iodine,) even diets rich in fats and starches fail to add weight and strength. That's why thin folks often have huge appetites, yet stay skinny."

With the discovery of Kelpamalt—a mineral concentrate made from a huge 90-foot sea plant harvested off the Pacific coast, you can now be sure of your needed ration of plant iodine in concentrated, easy-to-take form. 1300 times richer in iodine than oysters, Kelpamalt builds rugged strength, adds weight and banishes fatigue. Its 12 other minerals stimulate the digestive glands which produce the juices that enable you to digest fats and starches. 3 Kelpamalt tablets contain more iron and copper than 1 lb. of spinach or 7½ lbs. of fresh tomatoes, more iodine than 1,386 lbs. of lettuce, more calcium than 6 eggs.

Start Kelpamalt today. Even if you are "naturally skinny," you must add 5 pounds the first week or the trial is free. Costs but little to use. Sold at all

OFFICIALS HELP OBSERVE START OF 'L' TRANSFERS

Street Car Ride Opens the Day's Celebration.

A chartered street car traveled east in Lawrence avenue yesterday to Kimball avenue, where forty passengers alighted and marched into the elevated railroad station at that corner and presented transfers given them on the street car. The transfers were accepted and the passengers were entitled to ride anywhere on the elevated system.

They didn't take the elevated road ride, however, but remained at the Ravenswood "L" terminal for a celebration. The passengers were public officials, business men, and members of the Northwest Associated Communities, who were celebrating the inauguration of the transfer system between surface and elevated lines, which became a reality yesterday through the efforts of Mayor Kelly.

State Official Heads Party.

Commissioner Charles E. Byrne, who presided at the hearings of the Illinois commerce commission which gave the order for the surface lines companies and the Chicago Rapid Transit company to put into effect a one fare system, headed the group. Christ Jensen, Thomas J. Bowler, and Ald. H. L. Brody, Democratic committeemen of the three wards which will be benefited by the transfer system at that point, were present. Ald. Joseph C. Ross, one of the sponsors of the plan, was absent, due to illness.

For the first time in the history of Chicago it was possible after 12:01 a. m. yesterday to ride both on a street car and the "L" lines for one fare. Commissioner Byrne said the commerce commission soon will rule on the question of whether or not the Chicago Motor Coach company shall join in the one fare program.

Expect Real Test Today.

H. A. Johnson, general manager of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, said the transfer system went into effect smoothly and that no difficulties were experienced during the day.

"Of course, Sunday trafic is light and the real test will come tomorrow," Mr. Johnson said. "We believe, however, that it will only be a short time until the users of the service will be thoroughly familiar with the plan. It will probably be several days before we can determine the real extent of the use of the transfer system."

Commissioner Byrne said he felt sure the two lines would benefit through increased business.

VON PUTTKAMER FIGHT TO REGAIN SON HITS SNAG

Efforts of Curt von Puttkamer Sr., to force relatives to bring his 9 year old son and heir to a $750,000 estate into court today appeared to have failed last night after deputies reported they were unable to serve writs of habeas corpus. Those named in the writs issued by Circuit Court Judge Michael Feinberg, and returnable today, are Mrs. Nellie Himmel, 1125 Lunt avenue, the boy's great aunt, and her son, William B. Himmel, 2719 Ashbury avenue, Evanston.

The court proceedings followed the suicide of the child's mother, Mrs. Florence Hill von Puttkamer, who leaped from her New York apartment Sept. 12. Mrs. Puttkamer had won a divorce from her husband and also custody of the child, Curt Jr. After her death it was learned she had left her son a $750,000 trust fund.

The father, an insurance broker who lives at 315 Webster avenue, announced, through his attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, that he will seek an auxiliary writ today which will permit service whenever those named are located.

OPEN CONVENTION OF POSTMASTERS HERE TOMORROW

Postmasters of the nation converged on Chicago yesterday to attend the 35th annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters which convenes tomorrow for a four day session in the Hotel Sherman. Postmaster General James A. Farley, Gov. Henry Horner, Mayor Edward Kelly and other notables are to speak.

Problems of the four postoffice classes, the air mail division, and postal inspection will come before the convention for discussion. Advance indications pointed to the largest attendance in the organization's history.

Mr. Farley will arrive early tomorrow and will be welcomed with a special reception. He will be escorted through the loop to convention headquarters by a detail of 100 uniformed letter carriers, an American Legion post band and the Chicago Postoffice band. His address, concerning efficiency of the service, will be broadcast over a national radio chain.

PACKERS SCORE ON LONG PASS; DEFEAT BEARS, 7-0

SECOND PLAY OF BATTLE SENDS HUTSON ACROSS

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 22.—The Chicago Bears were run into defeat by the flying feet of Don Hutson on the second play of their opening league game with the Packers today. The former Alabama end, who led THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's nation-wide All-American poll, crossed the goal on a 83 yard pass play. The final score was 7 to 0.

Thirteen thousand fans, overtaxing the small high school stadium, had hardly settled back from seeing Arnie Herber return the opening kickoff 17 yards to the 17 yard line when Hutson raced up the field past Beattie Feathers, took a pass from Herber, and raced 45 yards to the goal. Bob Monnett, diminutive half back, went into the game and kicked the extra point.

Hutson Too Fast.

Blame for the defeat will rest largely with Feathers, regarded as one of the fastest men in the league. Standing in midfield he waited for Hutson to race up to him and allowed the end, the fastest man on the squad of 43 All-American college men last month, to get past him. After Hutson took the pass, Feathers was close enough to touch him in a lunge, but it was useless to give chase. No man on either squad can approach the southerner's fleetness.

George Grosvenor, rookie half back, supplied the spark for the Bears' attack in the second half, but at the height of his rampages the Bears switched to passes and missed two excellent opportunities to score. The Packer line had the better of play in the clinches and was much improved over last week, when Green Bay lost to the Chicago Cardinals, 7-6.

The Bears' running attack, with Grosvenor out of the game, missed Bronko Nagurski, who was not in uniform, and Feathers, who went out in the first period with an abdominal injury.

Teams Try 40 Passes.

It was a wide open game, a total of 40 passes being thrown. The Bears attempted 24, completing five for 84 yards. Green Bay made good seven of its 16 for 182 yards, one of them being completed by penalty for eight yards. The Packers piled up eight first downs and made 110 yards by rushing, giving them a total yardage gained of 292 yards. The Bears had a total of 204 yards gained from scrimmage. They also led in first downs, getting 11, all but two by running the ball, and the Packers 8. Grosvenor with 52 yards and Ronzani with 51 were leading ground gainers.

After the Packers scored it took the Bears several minutes to untrack themselves. Before they finally got into the ball game the Packers were back to the Chicago 18 yard line. Joe Laws started this drive by returning one of Feathers' punts 26 yards to the Bears' 27 yard line. Monnett and Bruder moved it up nine yards in two smashes, and a pass failed, leaving it fourth down, a yard to do. Ignoring the possibility of increasing their lead with a field goal, the Packers played for six points and lost the ball on downs when Monnett failed to gain.

Bears Start March.

After the next exchange of punts the Bears started their first march, picking up three first downs in a row and advancing the ball to the Packers' 18 yard line. The climax of this drive was a 41 yard pass, Ronzani to Molesworth, who was downed on the Green Bay 18 yard line. Molesworth picked up two yards

Cardinals Crush La Crosse, 41-0, in Exhibition Game

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cardinals scored a 41 to 0 victory over the La Crosse Hellemans in an exhibition game here today.

The Cardinals, after taking the opening kickoff, marched 63 yards for a touchdown, Pangle assisting with a 38 yard dash around end. Berry went over from the four yard line and place-kicked the extra point.

Three Cardinal touchdowns were tallied in the second period. A short pass, Mikulak to Bill Smith, was good for the first. Paul Pardonner drop-kicked the extra point. Nichelini pased 27 yards to Dougal Russell for another touchdown and Smith place-kicked the point.

A forward double lateral with Russell on the end led to another touchdown. The play was good for 40 yards to the La Crosse 16 yard line, and Nichelini plunged over from the 4 yard line. Again Smith placekicked. In the fourth quarter Nichelini went over, Pardonner dropkicking again for a point.

Bill Smith raced 45 yards for the last touchdown but his placekick try was wide.

Goodman and Little Beaten by Pros, 1 Up

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Tommy Armour of Medinah and Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, who were slightly embarrassed last September in a special match with Lawson Little of San Francisco and Johnny Goodman of Omaha, exacted a full measure of revenge yesterday at the North Shore Golf club by defeating the amateurs, 1 up, in an 18 hole exhibition match.

A gallery of more than 3,500 pursued the four-star twosome over North Shore's course.

Armour's Putt Wins.

Cooper shot the best golf of the day, turning in a 70, two under par, but it was Armour, who has done more than a little to put the finishing touches on Little's game, who scored the finishing blow, a twelve foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 18th hole. That putt enabled the two professionals to reverse the 1 up victory Goodman and Little had scored against them at Indian Hill last year.

Par—Out	453	444	534—36
Par—In	445	345	344—36—72
Cooper—Out	452	444	433—33
Cooper—In	537	344	344—37—70

Armour-Cooper—In	535	344	343—34—67
Little-Goodman—In	444	345	344—35—68

Armour and Cooper win, 1 up.

Get Pair of Deuces.

Little and Goodman each shot birdies on the second hole to go one up, but Armour and Cooper came back to square it at the short third with mutual deuces. Goodman dropped an eight footer on the fourth to put his side up again, and Little made it two up on the sixth, where he ran down one from 30 feet. Cooper got birdies on both the seventh and ninth to even it as they reached the turn in 33 each.

A par by Little sufficed to win the 10th, but Cooper ran down a 15 footer at the 11th to square it again. Goodman's birdie on the long 12th set himself and Lawson one up again, but Cooper came back with a 20 foot putt for another birdie at the 15th. Then came Armour's decisive putt on the 18th green.

LOUIS FINISHES DRILLS; FIT AND READY FOR BAER

Joe Brings Back Golden Days of Boxing.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—Joe Louis, boxing's greatest attraction since Jack Dempsey, tonight was in the position of having nothing to do until Tuesday. The colored athlete, who came from obscurity to world fame in 15 months, is through with his training and waits with impatience for the biggest test of his career.

Louis has worked long and faithfully for Tuesday night's battle with Max Baer at Yankee stadium. He feels he is ready and is anxious to prove it.

The arduous part of training was completed at Pompton Lakes yesterday with seven rounds of sparring. Joe was on the road with Trainer Jack Blackburn this morning. Tomorrow he will do a little shadow boxing and other limbering up work, after which all conditioning equipment will be packed away. The Louis entourage will motor in from Pompton Lakes Tuesday morning for the weighing in ceremony at the offices of the New York boxing commission.

Harlem Already Celebrates.

Meanwhile New York is overflowing with fight fans from all parts of the country. Nowhere, however, is there quite the excitement over the impending duel as on Lenox avenue up in Harlem. That thickly populated district isn't waiting until after the bout to celebrate. It already is a crater of seething joy. Up there Louis is the idol of the mob. Up and down the avenue from happy throats boom gutteral paens of Louis affection.

"What's the matter with Louis? He's all right. Who's all right? Louis!"

And how the boys and gals bear down on that Louis name!

No match between a white and colored boxer since the Johnson-Jeffries bout at Reno in 1910 has aroused so much interest. And it hardly is fair to compare the two. The Louis-Baer fight will draw more than four times as large a gate and certainly has stirred wider support. At least ten foreign countries will be represented in the press rows at this one.

Boxing's Golden Days Return.

Boxing today finds itself back in the golden days. A million dollar gate seems assured. If the crowd reaches 85,000, which is 5,000 under the estimate of the promoters, it will be the largest gathering that ever has seen a bout in New York.

Mike Jacobs, president of the Twentieth Century club, which is running the show, is openly amazed at the way it has caught on. As Tex Rickard used to say, "He never has seed anything like it." When the match was arranged Jacobs scaled Yankee stadium to gross $644,000. Within ten days, however, the demand for tickets had become so heavy he revamped the layout so drastically that a sell-out would amount to $1,200,000.

Only Five Million Dollar Gates.

There have been only five million dollar gates in boxing history, and Jack Dempsey was a contestant in every one. The revival of boom days must be credited to Louis. Baer, even with the magnet of championship involved, drew only $205,000 against James Braddock last June.

Speculators are doing a land office business in choice seats. As high as $125 has been paid for a seat inside five rows. Prices of $40, $50, $60 and $75 for tickets with a face value of $25 are ordinary quotations. New York merchants and business organizations estimate that the fight will mean a turnover in excess of a million dollars to the city. Hotels are reaping a harvest because far more fans are coming from out of town to this fight than have attended a

Sox Lose, 6-3; Then Defeat Indians, 9-2

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Sweeping curves and hopping fast balls, propelled plateward by Monte Stratton, a gangling rookie right hander from the American association, routed the gloom from the White Sox baseball camp today. Handcuffing the Indians' sluggers, Stratton pitched Chicago to a 9 to 2 victory in the second game of today's double-header to snap an eight game Cleveland winning streak.

Sad Sam Jones' creaking arm restricted the Indians to three hits in the first six innings of the opener, but then lost its cunning and the Indians batted out a 6 to 3 decision. The Sox outhit Cleveland twelve to nine in this game, but couldn't solve Mel Harder in the pinches and the Indian star recorded his 21st victory of the season.

Three Runs in 7th Clinch Opener.

A three run attack in the seventh gave the first game to the Indians, erasing a Chicago lead and routing Jones.

Stratton got off to an inauspicious start in the second game, yielding two runs in the first inning, but settled down and pitched a brand of ball that may win him a regular starting berth with the Sox next season.

While Stratton was limiting Cleveland to eight hits his team mates were pounding the Indian hurlers for thirteen. Al Simmons and Luke Appling each contributed a double and two singles to the rout.

By dividing today's double-header, which was played before 14,000, the

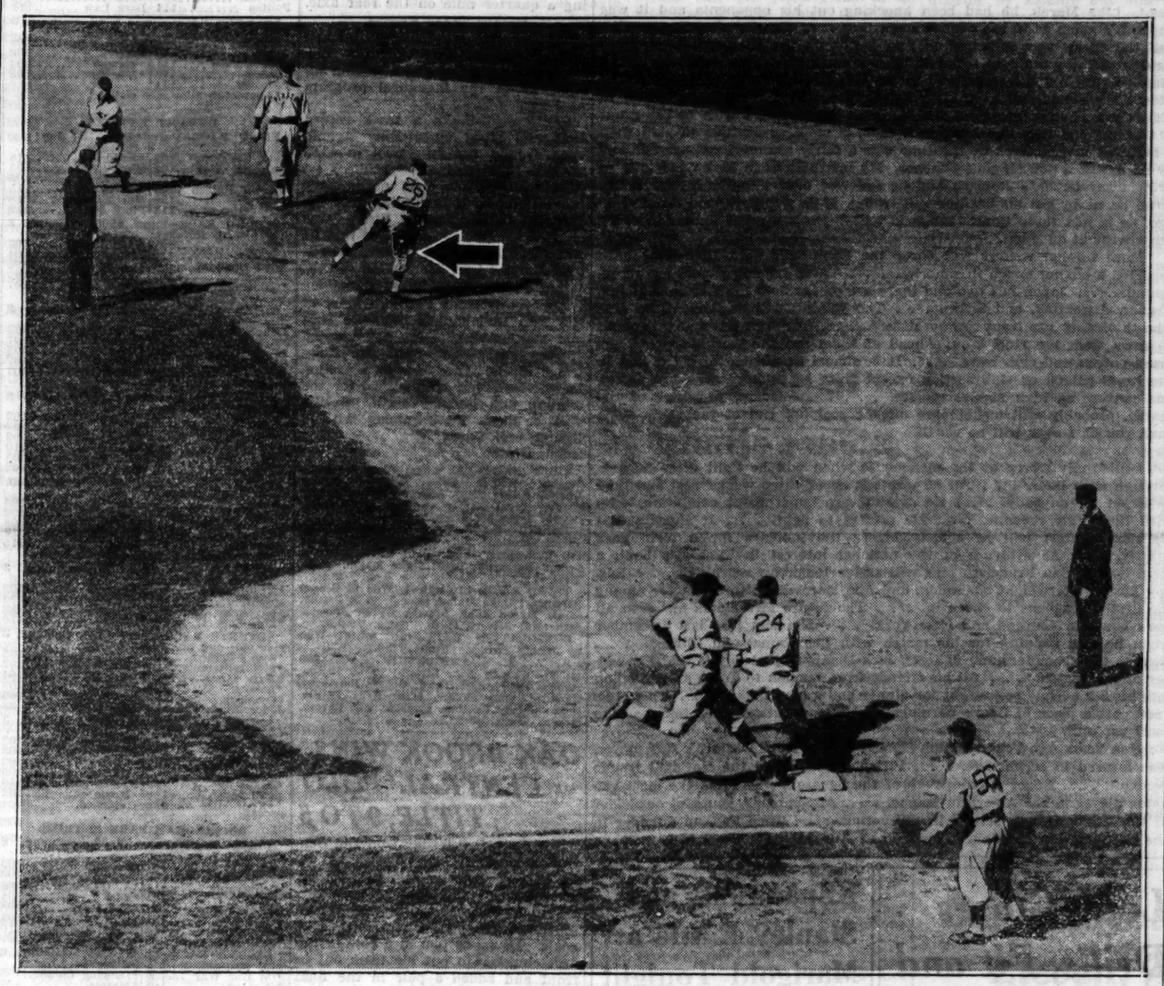
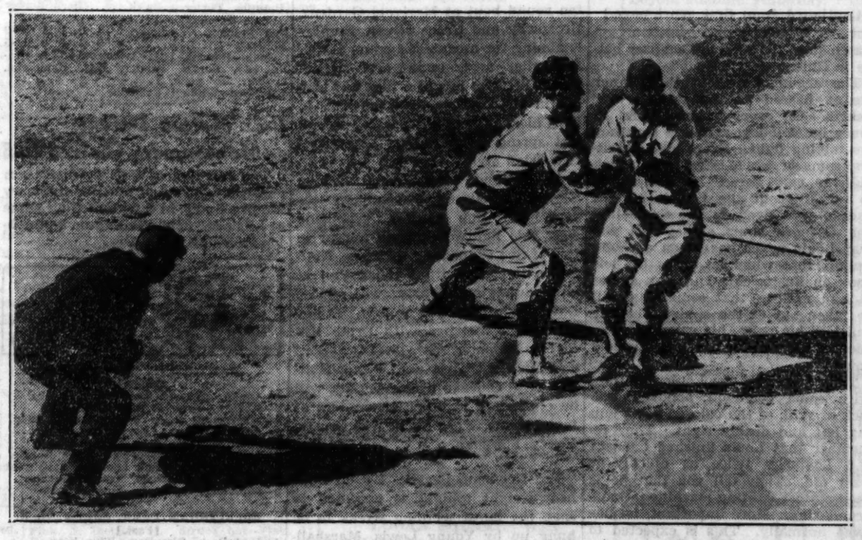
FOLLOWING THAT FIRST CUB RUN AROUND TO PLATE



Floyd Young, Pittsburgh second baseman, has the ball but no place to throw it in first inning of yesterday's game with the Cubs at Wrigley field. Here's the play: Augie Galan was on first when Billy Herman hit a grounder to Young. He fumbled ball, and by the time he got hold of it Galan was safe at second and Herman at first. Photograph shows Galan rounding second, Shortstop Arky Vaughan near bag, and Young with ball in his hand. Herman is just about to step on first. The Pittsburgh first baseman is Gus Suhr, the coach is Red Corriden, and the umpire is George Barr.



Here's Mr. Galan again! He's scoring the Cubs' first run in that same first inning, Catcher Tommy Padden getting the ball too late, and Umpire Klem calling the Cub runner safe. Galan had gone to third on Lindstrom's sacrifice and then he beat the throw home when Gabby Hartnett grounded to shortstop. The Cubs won, 2-0, for their 18th in a row. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Body of Chinese Davis Cup Player Is Found in River

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The body of Wing Lock Wei, 43, who several times headed China's Davis cup teams, former Shanghai banker and son of the late Sir Bosham Wei, Chinese ambassador to the Court of St. James, was recovered from the Hudson river today. Wei disappeared Saturday night. A bill of lading and $35 were missing from his pockets when the body was found. Wei had just signed a contract to give two nightly talks a week on Chinese customs over a national broadcasting network.

Cincinnati Makes 7 Errors in Opener.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A double victory over the Cincinnati Reds, 14 to 4 and 3 to 1, today enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to cut the Chicago Cubs' first place margin to three games. The Cards play Pittsburgh tomorrow and Tuesday and then will meet the Cubs in a five game series.

The victories today were sweet for Manager Frisch, as Dizzy Dean, who won the second game, showed the usual Dean form, and a recruit, Mike Ryba, from Columbus, went in after Bill Hallahan was removed for a pinch-hitter in the second inning of the first game and pitched almost perfect ball for seven innings. He yielded two hits and one run.

Reds Fall Apart.

Cincinnati cracked in the field in the opener, making seven errors, and the game was practically over when the Cardinals blasted out six runs in the second inning to overcome the Reds' 3 run lead. St. Louis added two in each of the third and fourth innings and in the eighth counted four more.

Dean, coming back to form after several weak efforts, yielded only three hits and struck out 10 in registering his 28th victory of the season. Brother Paul has won 19, giving the Deans 47 of the Cardinals' 93 victories.

Collins' Double Decides Game.

Al Hollingsworth then tied up with Dean in a pitching duel until he cracked in the last half of the eighth. Jack Rothrock walked and Frisch sacrificed. Joe Medwick was purposely passed, setting the stage for Jim Collins, who doubled, scoring both runners.

Bill Terry to Retire as Active Player in 1936

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, today announced his retirement as an active player at the end of the current season. If he can find a capable replacement Terry intends to become a bench manager next season, devoting all his time to piloting the club.

Terry, one of the oldest first basemen in the National league in point of service, said he would continue to play to the end of the 1935 season and would remain on the active playing list until he found a substitute. He would not, however, consider himself as a "regular" player in 1936.

Terry, who will be 37 years old Oct. 30, first broke into organized baseball with Atlanta in 1914. He came up to the Giants from Toledo in 1923 and has been a member of that club ever since. In June, 1932, he was appointed manager when the late John McGraw suddenly decided to retire and led the Giants to a pennant and the world championship the following season.

CHICAGO SENDS 1,000 FIGHT FANS TO LOUIS BOUT

Special Trains, Planes Carry Parties East.

Put together all the Chicagoans who have suddenly found important business to be transacted in New York this week and you'll have a lot of boxing fans. Hundreds of them left yesterday over the New York Central and Pennsylvania lines and they'll all be as close to the ringside as possible when Joe Louis battles Max Baer at Yankee stadium tomorrow evening.

Along with the busy business men, of course, went the regulars who never miss anything in the line of fistic entertainment, baseball thrills or horse racing highlights. The railroads didn't get all the business. Many left by automobile, and other fans are planning to go by plane today and tomorrow morning. Out on the south side, where Baer supporters, if smart, are neither seen nor heard, the automobile and hitch-hike system of getting to New York were in favor.

Chicagoans Back Louis.

Adding them up, Chicago's delegation is estimated at 1,000, with a majority favoring Louis and willing to back up their judgment with cash, tax tokens, cases of Scotch, and other media of exchange. In Chicago yesterday betting commissioners held Louis the 9-5 favorite. Eastward bound fans were hoping to get better odds from Baer's backers in New York.

Among the folks who shouted most loudly for Louis were the fans who watched the young colored fighter when he was winning the Golden Gloves light heavyweight championship back in 1934. They produced records to show that he licked Ario Soldati of Rockford and Joe Bauer of Cleveland in semifinal and final bouts March 10 of that year, and insisted they knew right then and there that some day he'd be champion of the world.

Special Trains Carry Parties.

Numerous air-minded boxing enthusiasts will leave this morning and others will wait for after breakfast flights tomorrow. C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines, said bookings had been heavy. Two special planes will leave tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and a third may be needed. Transcontinental and Western Air officials announced that a fight special will take off this morning at 8:30 and all regularly scheduled planes will be crowded with fans. United Airlines has put on an extra plane leaving at noon tomorrow.

Commissioners Will See Bout.

Among those who will see the fight but did not join the special train groups are Sheldon Clark and the members of the Illinois Athletic commission, Chairman Joe Triner, George Getz and Packy McFarland.

Those reserving places on the Arvey-Ross special were:

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — IRON MAN MELTS

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A few days after Jimmy Braddock had won the world's heavyweight boxing championship he was invited to appear on a national radio broadcast that featured Al Jolson. . . . Braddock was first supposed to punch the bag. . . . He stepped out from the wings of the stage to a position in front of the microphones. . . . To his embarrassment and the amusement of the spectators he missed the bag completely the first two times he tried to hit it. . . . So he wound up his right the third time and let loose a terrific wallop. . . . It landed with such force that it ripped the bag from its moorings and it sailed into the lap of a front row patron. . . . Joe Louis will make his home in Chicago immediately after Tuesday's bout with Max Baer, but he is pulling for the Tigers to beat the Cubs in the world series. . . . He has ventured $1 out of his estimated $250,000 from Tuesday night's earnings on Mickey Cochrane's club. . . . Nobody knows the exact site of Louis' marriage to Miss Marva Trotter of Chicago. . . . It is thought to be at a friend's home in Harlem.

Skepticism expressed in the public prints about Louis' ability to take punishment has got under the skin of Johnny Behr, coach of the Chicago Golden Gloves squad. . . . This is what Behr has to say: "In 1933 I took the Central A. A. U. boxing team to the national championship in Boston and on our team was Max Marek and on the Michigan team was a young man named Joe Louis, then only 18, competing in his first big time tournament. Like Marek, he had been knocking out his opponents and it was anybody's guess as to the winner when they met. Shortly after the opening bell the crowd was surprised to find Marek on the floor, put there by a straight left to the face. Had it been a hook Max still would be there. Marek weathered the round and in the last two hit Louis with everything except the stools and at the final gong Joe still was in there taking it. Marek won, but it was a hairline decision. The point I wish to bring out is that a youngster, like Louis was then, is more susceptible to pain than a matured man. Marek at the time was a fairly seasoned campaigner and by no means a powder puff puncher. My instructions to Max were to keep firing away at Joe's stomach and he followed orders to the letter. Louis, however, never lost his head or quit trying. If he was that good three years ago, he is just three times that good today. He is a great fighter in every sense without question."

More foreign writers will cover the Louis-Baer fight than ever have reported a boxing match in America. . . . Three London papers are represented. . . . Japan has two and there are others here from Cuba, Holland, France, Argentina, and Spain. . . . The yelping will be fierce from fans who think they are front row spectators. . . . The first row really is about 20 rows from the ring. . . . Ahead of them are the working press, the press patron and club rows. . . . It is almost impossible to get a seat in the press patron or club section except from speculators, who are asking and getting as high as $125 apiece. . . . Mike Jacobs, promoter of the match, probably will make more off the scalping end of the show alone than you or I ever will be worth.

Louis' only worry at the moment is when will he fight after he gets through with Baer. . . . All he wants is about three weeks' rest and then he is set for anybody. . . . He doesn't care much about exhibition tours with their easy revenue. . . . He prefers to fight. . . . It appears that his next contest will be shortly before the holidays for a New York charity. . . . As evidence of the national interest in Tuesday's bout, a train load of San Francisco fans will arrive tomorrow morning. . . . Barney Ross, welterweight champion, and Abe Marowitz, attorney, were among the first Chicagoans to check in. . . . The future Mrs. Louis has seen all Joe's bouts in Chicago and New York. . . . She met him last December when he was training for his match with Lee Ramage in Chicago. . . . Next to the promoters and fighters, Jack Dempsey probably is the real winner of this match. . . . All his friends from London to Tokio are dropping into his 8th avenue restaurant for dinner and a handshake. . . . Then, too, Jack gets a piece of Baer's earnings. . . . Some estimate his take as high as 17 per cent.

Ten Years Ago Today—Ralph [Moon] Baker, Northwestern's star player, was injured in scrimmage. . . . Pittsburgh clinched the National league pennant. . . . Roger Peckinpaugh of the Senators was voted the most valuable player in the American league. . . . Al Simmons, youthful outfielder of the Athletics, was second in the voting. . . . Theo Fay, an outsider in the betting, won the Joliet handicap at Aurora.

The arguments about the winner are as heated as the struggle for tickets. On every street corner, in every hotel lobby, at every bar they are talking fight. Even boxing writers, some of whom saw Corbett lick Sullivan, can't agree. Some urge you to forget about the Braddock fight and to rate Baer on the Schmeling and Carnera bouts. They tell you that Louis never has taken a sound wallop, that when he drops his left hook on Baer's chin and Max smiles at him unhurt, that something will be taken out of the sphinx, that he will lose his poise, his calm, his confidence. Baer never has been knocked down.

Then speak up the Louis admirers with some comment about Baer's lack of skill, of the colored boy's jolting left and deadly right. They remember that Louis finished Carnera and Levinsky twice as quickly as Baer did. They tell you that he is the greatest fighting machine in modern boxing. More important, he has lived normally. This is expected to weigh heavily if the fight goes the full 15 rounds. Condition tells in a long match.

Baer in his professional career has had 48 fights. He won 30 by knockouts, 10 by decisions, lost 7 on decisions and one on a foul. Louis has had 24 as a pro and 20 of his opponents failed to go the route. Louis has done all his professional fighting in the last 14 months. Baer meanwhile has gone to the post only twice when there was anything at stake—against Carnera and Braddock.

Budge Defeats Shields in Coast Tennis Tourney

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Donald Budge, red-haired Oakland, Cal., youth knocked Francis X. Shields out of the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament today when he won a straight set semi-final round match, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Kapanowski and Stanley Battle at Marigold Tonight

Gene Stanley, slugging Detroit middleweight, tonight will attempt to continue his victory march at the expense of Frank Kapanowski in a ten round bout at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Stanley is aiming for a contest against Frank Battaglia, a triumph over whom would lift him into the first ten boxers in the division. Kapanowski, in his Chicago debut against Bill Treest last spring, displayed an aggressive, two fisted style.

Al Nettlow, international Golden Gloves featherweight champion this year, and Bob Tinsley, promising west side lightweight, will appear in two of five supporting matches. Nettlow will clash with Wilmer Van at four rounds and Tinsley will oppose Davey White at five rounds. Bobby O'Dowd is matched with Ernie Kilcoyne, Minneapolis bantamweight, and Mickey O'Shea and Walter Statkus, rival Chicago welterweights, will be opponents in other encounters at four rounds. Pete Bartu will wrestle Henry Foreman.

Pat Newman, Seattle, Wash., light heavyweight tonight is expected to snap the latest winning streak to be hung up by Young Lewis, Marshalltown, Ia., in the windup bout of the wrestling show at White City Casino, 63d street and South Park avenue. Lewis will be in quest of his fourth consecutive victory in the match, scheduled for one fall with a 60 minute time limit. Preliminary encounters will bring together Bob Pearce and Bill Brooks, Jim Demetral and Ernie Peterson, Charlie Grubmyer and Paul Miller, and Charles Peterson and Gerard Lauth.

Emil Pappas, Rockford light heavyweight, has agreed to meet Mickey Patrick, East Chicago, Ind., in a six round contest at the Coliseum Thursday. Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., heavyweight, sustained a ruptured jaw muscle in his eight round technical knockout loss to Lorenzo Pack last week that may necessitate his removal from the card. Sykes is booked to fight eight rounds against Frank Andorf, Minneapolis. Another eight rounder matches Everett Rightmire with Lenny Cohen. F. M.

Babe Stapp of Indianapolis, who specializes in leading from start to finish, yesterday won his second 50 mile automobile race at the Roby speedway.

Sending his sleek blue racer away in front, Stapp won by three-quarters of a lap, with Frank Brisko of Milwaukee second and Emil Andre of Chicago third.

For 40 laps Wilbur Shaw of Los Angeles gave Stapp an argument, trailing him by less than a half mile most of the way. But when he was nearing the north turn and in full view of the crowd of 12,000, Shaw lost a rear right wheel and skidded around the bend. He succeeded in bringing his car to a stop after riding a quarter mile on the rear axle.

Breaks Track Record.

Stapp's time was 39:23 4-5, almost eleven seconds faster than the time he made last Sunday in leading all the way in the inaugural program at Roby.

Stapp also broke a track record that had stood since Billy Arnold sped around the mile oval in 43.65 seconds in May, 1932.

In winning the first preliminary ten mile race, a qualifying test for the 50 mile windup, Stapp was clocked in 43.56 seconds. For this he was awarded a gold trophy, offered by Promoter Carl Stockholm.

Petillo Finishes Sixth.

Apparently Kelly Petillo, winner of the 1935 Indianapolis 500 mile race last May, entered a car not adapted to the sharp turns of the Roby track, for he failed to win a preliminary. However, he qualified for the windup and finished sixth. Petillo will be back next Sunday with a lighter car.

FOURTH R

French Stops Foes with Men on Bases.

the day's attack with a sneaky, bounding single to Young. Herman hit the same kind of ball and Young fumbled this one. The two runners were pushed along on Lindstrom's bunt. Hartnett grounded to Vaughan, who threw to the plate, but Galan beat the ball. Demaree then rammed a hard grounder at Lavagetto, who slapped it down and recovered in time to nail Herman at the plate. Cavarretta fanned for the third out.

Two Pirate hits with none out in the second caused the Cubs some uneasiness, but French wriggled through undamaged. Young singled to center and Hack made a diving stop to hold Lavagetto to a single on a hard drive close to the bag. The runners advanced on Suhr's bunt. French decided it would be a swell idea to walk Padden, filling the bases. This was done, whereupon the threat vanished when Blanton struck out and Jensen bounced gently to French.

Three Hits—No Runs.

French was in a similar fix in the third. Despite three hits the Pirates couldn't get a man over the plate. Hafey led off with a single to left and L. Waner followed with a one base safety to right. Vaughan worked French into a 3 and 2 hole, but finished with a roller to Herman on which the two runners advanced. Young bounced to Hack, who whipped the ball to Hartnett in time to nail Hafey at the plate. Then Lavagetto scratched a bounding single over French to load the bases, but relief came when Suhr grounded into Cavarretta's hands.

The Cubs worked themselves into scoring position in their half of the third, but this also faded into a harmless threat. Galan singled to center with none out and raced to third on Herman's single to right. Then the Cubs suddenly went in for pop-ups in a big way. Lindstrom lifted one that dropped into Vaughan's hands. Young grabbed one that was vertically propelled by Hartnett, and Demaree concluded the inning with a tall fly to L. Waner in center.

The Cubs' fourth hit off Blanton was a single with which Cavarretta opened the fourth inning. Nothing came of it. Hack put him on second by sacrificing, but Jurges popped to Young and the same fellow threw out French.

Hafey pushed open the Pirate fifth with a single to center for his second hit, but a real threat never developed. French took L. Waner's bounder, threw the ball to Jurges at second, and Jurges whipped it to Cavarretta for a double play. Vaughan ended the inning with a bunt to Cavarretta.

French in Trouble Again.

French, after keeping things in fairly good order for several innings, was back on the spot in the seventh. Padden started this disturbance by singling to left. Blanton bunted and Hack tried to make the play at second, but Padden beat the throw. Jensen also bunted, but the ball went on the fly to Hack. Some of the tension was relieved when Hafey lofted to Herman. Things tightened up again when L. Waner ran the count down to 3 and 2. Then he sent a short low liner to center, but Lindstrom was playing in close and grabbed it.

An error provided the Cubs with a chance in the home half of the seventh. Vaughan fumbled on Jurges' grounder to start the inning and French sacrificed. Galan sent a fly to short left center and Jensen, after a long gallop, made the catch. He couldn't recover his balance in time to make the throw to second for a double play on Jurges, who had traveled almost to third base. Vaughan then picked up Herman's roller and threw him out.

Coming up as leadoff man in the eighth, Lindstrom banged a single into left, and for the fourth time during the battle the Cubs worked the bunting game. This time Hartnett pushed the runner along. Demaree then lined a whistling drive over short. Vaughan leaped for the ball, but it went on its way into left center for a double, Lindstrom scoring. Demaree went to third on Cavarretta's infield out and died there when Vaughan tossed out Hack.

With the start of the ninth French threw another scare in the crowd by walking Padden. Thevenow was sent up to bat for Blanton. He rammed a drive back at French, who deflected the ball toward Herman. Herman did the rest. Jensen singled over short and Padden could have scored unmolested, but, one run being of no value, he stopped at third. French then fanned Hafey and the frequently annoying L. Waner closed the fight with a grounder to Cavarretta.

While the second place Cardinals are battling the Pirates today and tomorrow the Cubs can sit back and watch their league lead expand or contract. Just to keep themselves on edge the Cubs will put in a two hour practice session this morning and again tomorrow morning. They'll steam away to St. Louis Tuesday night for the five game series which will settle everything.

Rather than risk making a joke of the battle by having spectators on the field P. K. Wrigley, president of the Cubs, ordered that general admission ticket sales be stopped as soon as the grandstand was loaded to capacity. The ticket windows shut down more than an hour before starting time, leaving thousands on the outside with money in their hands, but no place to spend it.

Ticket scalpers did a rushing business, but not for long. A squad of federal operatives swung into action and nabbed all the speculators in sight.

Jensen fouled off French's first pitch of the game and it nicked one of the fingers on Hartnett's right hand. After having the bruised digit taped Gabby went back to work. Then, an instant later, another foul by Jensen ruined the camera of a photographer who was operating to the right of the plate.

Les Mann, one time Cub outfielder, and Max Carey, famous as a fly chaser with the Pirates, sat in the press coop. Mann is leaving shortly with an American Olympic baseball team which will play a series of games in Japan.

As soon as Wrigley field was cleared of spectators the R. C. Wieboldt company, contractors, started work on the temporary bleachers to care for the world series crowds. Cranes, lumber and tools were moved onto the scene last night and actual construction will start this morning. The seats will begin at the top of the walls in left field and right field and extend more than half way across Waveland and Sheffield avenues. They will be nearly 800 feet long and will accommodate 12,000.

FIRST GAME

An error by Earl Averill who permitted Tauby's single to roll to the fence gave the White Sox a run in the first inning of the opener. Tauby went to third on the error and scored on Zeke Bonura's single.

A pass to Garbark, single by Harder, error by Hopkins on Galatzer's sacrifice bunt, and a single by Hughes gave the Indians two in the third, but the White Sox forged to the front again in the fourth. Bonura singled and stopped at third on Appling's double. Hopkins then lined a single to center to bring in both runners.

Sewell Is Out at Plate.

Three singles and a base on balls failed to produce a run for the Sox in the sixth. Hopkins walked, but was caught between second and third and retired on Sewell's single. Radcliff singled and Simmons followed with another, but Sewell was out at the plate.

Singles by Knickerbocker and Garbark, a double by Galatzer, and single by Hughes gave the Indians three in the seventh and routed Jones. Vosmik tripled in the eighth off Phelps and scored on Hale's long fly for the final Indian run.

SECOND GAME

Stratton got the first two batters to face him in the second game but passed Averill. Vosmik then hit a triple to the center field bleachers to score Averill and crossed the plate himself when Hale doubled to right. The Sox were held to one hit by Thornton Lee for the first three innings, but tied the score in the fourth on a pass to Simmons and consecutive singles by Bonura, Appling and Hayes.

A pass to Shea and double by Simmons added another in the fifth and a base on balls to Appling and double by Dykes brought in the fourth Chicago run in the sixth.

Simmons' Single Scores Radcliff.

Radcliff opened the seventh with a double and scored when Simmons lined a single to right. Bonura strolled and Appling sent both runners in with a double.

The final Chicago rally was started in the eighth after the first two batters had been retired. Radcliff walked, Simmons singled, Tauby doubled, Bonura walked and Appling singled before Vosmik went back to the left field bleachers to make a sensational gloved hand catch of Hayes' drive.

Indians' Threats Fade.

The Indians threatened in the eighth and ninth, but Stratton pitched himself out of trouble. Winegarner and Galatzer singled in the eighth, but Hughes went out on an easy infield grounder. Vosmik singled and Hale doubled in the ninth, but Stratton struck out Trosky and Knickerbocker was out on an infield hopper.

TEMPLETON POLO TEAM WINS FROM LONG ISLAND, 16-15

Westbury, L. I., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Templeton, with a great show of power in the opening periods, moved into the final round of the Monty Waterbury cup tournament, last of the important polo events of the season at the Meadow Brook club this afternoon. Giving Long Island seven goals on handicap, the guest brothers, Mike Phipps and Stewart Iglehart took those back in the first two periods, and then thanked their foresight for they needed all of those goals to win, 16 to 15.

It was still another of the big games of polo to be decided in the final period, for Long Island came from behind at the start of the eighth and it required a last minute goal by Mike Phipps to finally turn the match to Templeton.

Giants Rally to Win from Dodgers, 5 to 2

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Clyde Castleman's pitching and Travis Jackson and Dick Bartell's hitting carried the Giants to a 5 to 2 victory over the Dodgers today in the final contest of their three game series.

Castleman pitched five hit ball for his 15th victory of the season, and Jackson tied the score at 2 to 2 in the third when he doubled with two on bases. The Giants took the lead in the seventh when Dick Bartell led off with his 14th home run.

Browns Win, 1 to 0; Rookie Stops Tigers

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The American league champion Detroit Tigers were held to three hits by Earl Caldwell, late of San Antonio, Tex., today and the St. Louis Browns won a brilliant pitchers' battle, 1 to 0.

Lynwood [School Boy] Rowe yielded only four hits and fanned ten, but was guilty of a fielding lapse that cost him his chance for his nineteenth victory of the season. With Carey on third in the sixth, a high bounder from Burns' bat bounced off Rowe's glove. Burns was safe and Carey scored.

Twenty-four thousand saw the final game of the regular season at Navin field, bringing the attendance for the year to 1,170,000, a new record.

JAPAN'S SOUTH AMERICAN SALES MOUNT STEADILY

Volume Is 13 Times That of Three Years Ago.

TOKIO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Surging over or around such barriers as tarifs, quotas, and exchange restrictions, only slightly deflected by the abrogation of commercial treaties, Japanese merchandise continues to flow into Latin America in a steadily mounting flood. The volume is almost twice what it was a year ago, four times as large as two years ago, thirteen times the trickle of three years ago.

Japanese officials and merchants have complained that American commercial propaganda is causing them loss of trade in Latin America, but returns of the Japanese ministry of finance fail to support such complaints.

Big Gain This Year.

These figures show that for the first four months of 1935 Japanese exports to South America gained 144 per cent over the corresponding months of 1934. Exports to Central America [which in the Japanese returns always include Mexico and the West Indies] gained 36 per cent. In Latin America as a whole the gain was 93 per cent.

The growth of Japan's Latin American markets is shown by the following totals of Japanese exports for the first third of each year: 3,168,000 yen for 1932; 10,351,000 for 1933, 21,288,000 yen for 1934, and 41,060,000 yen for 1935.

Japanese Sales Exceed Buying.

Japan sells to Latin America four and a half times as much as she buys from that part of the world. From some of her best customers there Japan buys little or nothing. In recent months four Latin American states—Cuba, Colombia, Peru, and Ecuador—with anxious eyes on such trade balances, have given notice of denunciation of their commercial treaties with Japan, hoping to make new reciprocal treaties that would make their dealings with the great industrial power of the orient more profitable to them.

INT. HARVESTER PROFITS RISE AS SALES GAIN

Preferred Dividend Will Be Earned.

Earnings of the International Harvester company will cover preferred dividend requirements this year for the first time since 1930. This is indicated by nearly nine months of substantially increased business.

S. G. McALLISTER.

One of Chicago's great enterprises, the Harvester company has been "living on velvet" for the last four years. Its $7 annual dividends on the preferred stock have been maintained unbroken, and payments, though reduced, have been made to common stock holders out of the comfortable surpluses built up in the preceding ten years.

From President Sydney G. McAllister on down, officials of this leading maker of agricultural equipment refuse to break the traditional silence which has reigned for years between the annual reports. Accordingly, the results of 1935 operations will not be known in detail until next spring.

Moving at Strong Pace.

But authoritative information was obtained yesterday that International is keeping pace with, if not leading, the farm implement makers whose record to date is a 60 per cent increase in sales volume over the same period of 1934.

The Farm Equipment institute admitted yesterday that its encouraging previous estimate of $320,000,000 in domestic sales of agricultural machinery may have to be revised upward slightly. Last year's sales aggregated 200 millions, a sharp gain over the 1933 and 1932 depths of 120 and 117 millions, respectively. The 1931 total was 225 millions.

While this year will be the best since 1930, when the industry's volume was 380 millions, Harvester and other companies are quick to assert that the greatly increased farm buying has not yet restored the industry to more than 75 per cent of "normal."

Costs Show Increase.

Other modifying factors in the apparently rosy picture are increased costs of material and production without corresponding boosts in prices of the finished products. This has cut down unit profit, but it was learned that Harvester's volume expansion has far more than offset this influence on the profit column.

One reason for Harvester officials clinging tenaciously to their policy of giving out no interim figures is a fear that they will be read unduly into an unrestrained "prosperity story." In conformity with conservative policies, reserves must be set up against losses on inventories and receivables. The financial community, however, does not expect that the company will be forced to write off losses in any manner comparable to recent years.

Gross income of Harvester last year, after deducting cost of production and selling, was $20,857,000. Net after reserves, depreciation, and interest was $3,949,000. This was equal to $4.83 a share on the $7 preferred stock.

Gain Believed Assured.

Close observers pointed out that it would require less than a 50 per cent improvement in net to cover preferred requirements, and this gain is believed assured, particularly in view of continued good prospects.

Harvester recovered to a $10,454,000 gross in 1933 after its 1932 bottom of $524,000 deficit. Net in both years, however, showed deficits. In 1933 it was $1,886,000. In 1931 gross was $12,859,000 and net profit $1,346,537, equal to $1.64 on the preferred.

These years of struggle contrast sharply with the peaks to which the company climbed in the 1920's. From $18,238,000 gross and $10,274,000 net in 1923 the figures reached $59,615,000 gross and $36,780,000 net in 1929. This was equal to $46.73 on the preferred and $7.11 on the common.

Dividend Is Reduced.

From 1919 to 1928 payments of $5 to $6 a share were made each year on the common stock, which sold up to 394 before each share was split into four new shares in 1928. In the next three years $2.50 a share was paid. In 1932, reflecting conditions, the dividend was reduced to $1.82½. The following year saw this cut to 75 cents. Since 1934 the stock has been on a 60 cent annual basis.

Harvester's sharpest gains this year have been in its motorized equipment, with sensational sales recorded for its light all-service tractor. In some instances plants have not been able to keep abreast of orders. Its International truck sales were reported up more than 50 per cent from 1934 in midyear.

Wins 'Ad' Contest

Andrew Duncan, advertising and sales promotion manager of the National Tea company, has been awarded first place in a national contest to determine the best food store advertising, Food Ad-Views, a publication which reviews food store advertisments in American and Canadian newspapers, and which sponsored the contest, announced yesterday. Duncan originated the plan of featuring in newspaper publicity the ways and means of preparing an entire meal.

Transport Men to Fight U. S. Ownership

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Organized opposition to any attempt to place the nation's transportation system under government ownership will be undertaken by the newly formed Transportation association of America, Donald D. Conn, executive vice president, said yesterday. The organization now includes a number of national figures in the industrial, agricultural, and business world. Thomas B. Huff, president of the American Serum company, heads the organization.

THOMAS B. HUFF.

Directors of the association, which recently set up its headquarters in the Transportation building here, will hold their first meeting in Chicago at the Union League club on Sept. 25. Members of the board come from many states and represent a cross section of agriculture, manufacturing, finance and transportation, Conn said.

Focal Point for Radical Attack.

Conn asserted the apparent point of attack of the forces opposed to individual initiative and private enterprise lies in the country's transportation system. To accomplish their purpose several groups already are working to place transportation under government ownership, he said.

"Success in this endeavor will embolden these and other groups to carry the doctrin of government ownership and conduct of business into other industrial and productive fields," he said. "The situation at this moment is particularly dangerous because many of the agencies in each field are operating at a loss and have been doing so for a long time.

Outlines Association's Program.

"The problem of preserving individual ownership and competition, in order to avoid government ownership and its disastrous results, presents an immediate challenge to every interested individual and industry."

Conn said the association's program, in its broader aspects, will be as follows:

"First—Research, planning and public education in all forms of transportation problems and their effect on the efficient and orderly distribution of commodities.

"Second—Determination of a sound public transportation policy.

School Board Redeems $90,255 of Tax Warants

School board building fund tax anticipation warants totaling $90,255 were redeemed last week by the board of education. The warants had been issued against the 1931 and 1933 tax levies.

IMPORT NATIONS VIE FOR WHEAT; FEAR SCARCITY

Buy on War Threats and Crop Damage.

Sudden realization of the serious depletion in wheat stocks of importing nations and existence of an actual scarcity in millable grades held by exporting countries found marked reflection in wheat markets of the world last week. Trading boiled abroad, with prices pushing steadily higher in Liverpool, Buenos Aires, Rotterdam, and Winnipeg.

Domestic markets followed the advance, with dollar wheat returning to quotation boards here for the first time in nearly six months. Some of the gain was lost before the week ended, but a substantial part of the advance was retained.

The tense foreign situation, with news alternately blowing hot and cold on possibilities of an Italo-Ethiopian war, furnished the chief incentive for bullish enthusiasm.

Wheat Damaged in Argentina.

However, seriousness of the damage to crops suffered in Argentina was a dominant factor. According to Broomhall, leading crop authority, areas seeded to wheat in Argentina this year amount to only 12,000,000 acres, a decline of 35 to 45 per cent from last year's total, which was considered average. Estimates of the probable surplus available for export were also cut sharply, some falling as low as 15 to 20 million bushels.

That Europe was definitly alive to the world supply situation was shown by the sharp increase in sales of Canadian wheat. Exports from the dominion were placed at 8,000,000 bushels for the week. It was reported all offerings of other exporters were readily absorbed.

The orient reëntered the market, sales of about a million bushels of wheat having been reported by Australia in one day. Pacific coast wheat in the United States was close to a workable basis for sales to China.

ROOT REFINING APPEALS IN OIL CRACKING CASE

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Root Refining company, in a petition filed with the Supreme court, contends a lower court ruling on oil cracking patents will cost independent operators $40,000,000 in royalties in the next three years.

Asking a review of a decision of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, the Root company protested an "unwaranted extension of the patent monopoly" which it contends threatens "the independent position of those gasoline producers" who have "been able to remain free from the group dominating the industry through patent pools."

The company was charged with patent infringement by the Universal Oil Products company of Chicago, in the lower court case.

United Air Lines Maintains Travel Record in August

United Air Lines maintained its position during August as the world's leading air passenger line, carrying more than 20,000 persons for the second consecutive month, W. A. Patterson, president, announced yesterday. Revenue passengers totaled 21,122, a gain of approximately 5 per cent over the 20,341 carried in July, and 46 per cent more than the 14,488 passengers in August, 1934.

BUSINESS IN CHICAGO MAKES FURTHER GAIN; CLOTHING SALE HEAVY

Business in Chicago continued to show improvement last week, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. The number of buyers in the wholesale market was about "normal," but sales by traveling salesmen were particularly good, and department stores and other outlets made sizable commitments, it reported.

Clothing was in heavy demand, with a noticeable trend to higher priced goods. Prices are showing a tendency to stiffen. Retail stores reported a good week, with special sales adding to the volume.

Industrial Chicago is forging ahead, with increased personnel and production schedules reported by several important companies. One large organization that has been operating on a five day week has recalled practically all shop workers for Saturday morning duty. Collections were reported to be best in years.

RESERVE BOARD PUTS APPROVAL ON BANKING ACT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The federal reserve board tonight put its formal stamp of approval on the banking act of 1935. In its monthly bulletin, it said the new law permanently removes from the operations of the federal reserve banks and the member banks some of the restrictions which at critical times prevented them from effectively rendering the services to the country for the permanance of which they were established.

"This act represents the most fundamental revision of the federal reserve act since its adoption 22 years ago in 1913," the board commented. "It incorporates into law much of the experience acquired by the system during the more than two decades of its operation. It reflects a broader conception of the system's functions in the country's economic life than existed at the time the system was established; it defines more clearly and fixes more firmly the responsibilities of the board in Washington and of the regional reserve banks; and, finally, it clarifies and simplifies a number of features of the administration of the system."

The board said the new statute preserved the local autonomy of the regional banks in their dealings and relations with the member banks in their respective districts.

BIG BODY PLANT WILL BE BUILT BY CHEVROLET

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A new factory will be erected here by the commercial body unit of the Chevrolet Motor corporation on a forty acre tract formerly occupied by the Martin Parry Body company.

The new unit will occupy five hundred thousand square feet of floor space and will be the most important single industrial development here in the last twenty years. It is understood the project is an effort to escape labor disorder in some cities now having Chevrolet plants.

Advertising Specialty Group Will Meet Today

Members of the Advertising Specialty National association will open a four day convention and exhibit in the Stevens hotel today with H. C. Page, Newark, N. J., president, directing the program. Officers will be elected Wednesday afternoon.

Morgan Bond Firm Offers First Issue

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The new investment banking company of Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., organized recently by a group of former partners of J. P. Morgan & Co., will make its debut tomorrow in the bond market with an offering of $19,172,000 of first lien and unifying mortgage bonds of the Consumers Power company, carrying 3½ per cent interest, due in 1965, and priced at 99 and accrued interest.

The bonds have been underwritten by a group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., and Bonbright & Co., Inc., and including the First Boston corporation, Brown Harriman & Co., Inc., Edward B. Smith & Co., E. W. Clark & Co., Mellon Securities company, and Coffin & Burr, Inc.

Redeems 5 Per Cent Issue.

The purpose of the issue is to provide funds for the redemption on Nov. 1 of $15,872,000 of 5 per cent first lien and unifying mortgage bonds of Consumers Power, due in 1952, which have been called for retirement at 104. In addition, $3,300,000 will be used on account of expenditures for improvements and additions to the company's property.

Consumers Power is the Michigan operating unit of the Commonwealth and Southern system. It is engaged in the generation, purchase and sale of electricity and its distribution in 790 communities.

Funded Debt 96 Millions.

On completion of present financing and retirement of bonds the company will have outstanding $96,764,600 of funded debt, annual interest requirements on which will amount to $3,982,392. Net earnings of the company in 1934 amounted to $12,006,262 and in the seven months ended on July 31 last to $7,336,677.

Morgan Stanley have adopted a procedure differing somewhat from recent practice, and designed, in the opinion of the bankers, to place small retail distributors of securities on a basis of equal opportunity with larger houses. They have eliminated the usual practice of issuing preliminary prospectuses three days in advance.

RUBBER CONSUMPTION BY NATION INCREASES SHARPLY IN AUGUST

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Consumption of crude rubber by American manufacturers increased sharply during August, a report compiled by the Rubber Manufacturers association discloses. The total amount used is placed at 39,242 long tons, compared with 36,384 long tons in July. The increase was equivalent to 7.9 per cent.

Compared with the corresponding month of last year, the increase was even more striking. It was equal to 18.1 per cent, consumption during August, 1934, having amounted to only 33,216 long tons.

Imports of crude rubber during August are estimated at 38,665 long tons, a decrease of 17.5 per cent from the July figure of 46,880 long tons. However, they were 16.3 per cent higher than the imports of 33,248 long tons during August, 1934.

The association estimates total domestic stocks of crude rubber on hand Aug. 31 at 329,548 long tons. This compares with 330,528 long tons on hand on July 31 and with 363,711 on Aug. 31, 1934. The decrease from stocks a year ago amounts to 9.4 per cent.

JAPAN HEAVY PURCHASER OF TEXAS COTTON

Houston, Tex., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Japan has started the cotton season as a heavy buyer of Texas cotton. Reports show that country is not only leading in cotton purchases and prospective shipments through Houston, but also through Galveston and Corpus Christi. Great Britain is a close second.

Unusual activity in the purchase of Texas cotton by other foreign interests, particularly those of Europe, with the exception of Italy, is reported by local cotton factors. The backwardness of Italy in buying American cotton is said to be due to financial difficulties.

Mine Session to Weigh Tax, Social Laws

New Deal tax and social legislation as it affects producers of eight important minerals—copper, iron ore, lead, gold, zinc, silver, sulphur, and potash—will be scrutinized at sessions of the American Mining congress opening today at the Palmer house.

LEWIS W. DOUGLAS.

This is the second convention and exhibit to be held by the congress in the field of metal mining, the first having been held in San Francisco last year. Delegates representing approximately 2,000 mineral producers, who constitute America's second largest industry, began arriving in Chicago yesterday.

Plays Important Rôle.

The importance of the industries represented is reflected, convention officials said, by the part mining plays in American industrial life. Of the 3,071 counties in the United States 2,024 produce minerals, they said. The producers represent an annual purchasing power of more than $200,000,000, and the minerals affect the employment of several hundred thousand persons.

Industrialists, economists, and federal officials will speak on federal policies and legislation as well as on the latest developments in methods of metal mining and preparation of the metals for commercial use. Thirteen western metal mining states will have exhibits demonstrating the economic importance of the metals.

Lewis W. Douglas, former congressman and former director of the national budget, and now vice president of the American Cyanamid company, is one of the speakers scheduled to discuss federal affairs. His talk on "Government Spending of the Taxpayers' Money" is on the program for Wednesday afternoon.

Review Federal Legislation.

Federal industrial legislation will be reviewed on Thursday by Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Following his talk, a number of industrialists are scheduled to discuss the Wagner labor disputes law. Other topics are the revenue act of 1935 and "Industry and the Social Security Program."

On the government's side, Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, will speak sometime during the four day sessions on "Our Public Land Policy"; John Wellington Finch, director of the United States bureau of mines, on "The Government's Policy Toward Western Mineral States," and Dr. C. K. Leith, vice chairman, planning committee for mineral policy, national resources board, on "Planning for Production of Mineral Products."

Russia Buys Auto Bodies in U. S. for New Type Car

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(AP)—I. A. Lykhachov, director of the Stalin automobile plant here, said today equipment had been ordered in the United States to make bodies for a new type of soviet automobile. He said the new car would be called the Zys 101 and would combine the best features of all outstanding models of cars to be manufactured in the United States during 1936.

CLOUD OF WAR OVERSHADOWS STOCK TRADING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—Operations on the New York Stock exchange are currently overshadowed by the rising European war cloud. Mussolini's protest against the concentration of British naval forces in the Mediterranean was made the occasion of a selling movement the latter part of last week which bore the industrial "average" down for a total loss of nearly five points and cost the market as a whole most of the considerable gains which it had run up in the last three weeks.

The selling dried up yesterday and the more active leaders recovered small fractions of their losses, but a sharp drop in trading volume showed that the rank and file had retired to the sidelines to await more decisive developments in the foreign situation. Many brokers look for them to remain there for some time.

Market Opinion Divided.

Whether the liquidation represented a genuine conviction that a war might halt the business progress now being experienced here and in other countries, or whether the movement—reputedly of foreign origin—was merely seized upon by professionals who have long argued that the recent "corrective" movements of the market were insufficient, is a matter of divergent opinion. Adherents of the latter view point declare that by any measure the market in its sustained rise of the last six months has outstripped the pace of business, surprisingly good as the indices of industrial gains have been throughout the summer.

Commentators, whatever their opinion on the outlook, agree that no surprise should be shown at a profit taking and short selling pause in a major advance such as this has been.

View on War Situation.

As for the war factor, many commentators find it difficult to comprehend why, in the long run at least, a war in Europe should have a bearish effect on American business and security markets. The world war had a devastating effect on the market but the present situation admittedly has little resemblance to the incidents which preceded the outbreak of hostilities twenty-one years ago.

What is happening now, it is pointed out, is a concerted demonstration by a virtually united Europe against the hostilities threatening in east Africa; hence the inability to see why the last week's developments should have precipated such a flood of selling, especially when the cables were freighted with messages telling of the flight of European capital to this country with considerable volume of it evidently destined for investment.

The confusion of the picture was emphasized rather strikingly by a sharp runup of stocks likely to profit from war early in the week, a rise which carried the averages to the highest level since Sept. 12, 1931. When the turnabout came, however, the so-called "war babies" sold down with the rest of the list.

OUTPUT OF STEEL DECLINES; MOTOR ORDERS DELAYED

Tin Plate Production Also Shows Recession.

Steel mill operations dipped 2 points last week to 52 per cent of capacity, due to further delay in the release of steel awards by automobile makers and a decline in tin plate production, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. The decline in the week was prevented from being larger through the sustaining power of miscellaneous requirements, which appeared to be gaining momentum.

A larger automobile tonnage is expected almost daily, the journal said, and to some extent these orders last week were responsible for lifting the sheet output 10 points to 70 per cent. The easing of tin plate production to 50 per cent comes as a breathing spell after near capacity operations for several months. Recovery is anticipated after stocks are reduced in the fall canning season.

Finished Steel Demand Broadens.

Broader demand is developing for some of the heavier grades of finished steel, especially for industrial development, according to the review. A point of emphasis in the market last week was the increasing volume of raw material orders and shipments. Scrap prices resumed their advance on a broad front, with the magazine's composite price rising 17 cents to $12.79 a ton. The iron and steel composite gained 2 cents to $32.83 a ton, but the finished steel index remained at $53.70 a ton.

Gains in the operating rate last week included ½ point to 59½ per cent in Chicago, 1½ points to 50 per cent in Birmingham, and 2 points to 37 per cent at Buffalo. Pittsburgh dropped 2 points to 46 per cent, Youngstown 3 points to 54 per cent, and New England 5 points to 68 per cent. Wheeling was unchanged at 84 per cent, Cleveland at 67 per cent, eastern Pennsylvania at 35½ per cent, and Detroit at 94 per cent.

Pig Iron Deliveries Increase.

The journal reported pig iron deliveries are 40 per cent higher than last month and coke shipments are up 40 per cent.

Due to a sharp rise in general car loadings, some railroads contemplate equipment purchases this fall, but financial difficulties stand in the way of any tremendous buying program. The spotty character of activity in some of the former mainstays of iron and steel also is manifest in money stringencies for municipal work, the magazine says.

In structural work, awards of 18,000 tons last week were featured by 3,000 tons for plant expansion by International Harvester and 4,000 tons for a Mississippi river dam.

Sales of manufacturing equipment are piling up new records for the post-1929 period. Five million dollars' worth was sold at the National Machine Tool show, which just closed in Cleveland, the largest exhibit of its kind ever staged.

Friend of the Coal User

The Friend of the Coal User will supply information on economical use of coal in an attempt to enable users to meet with less loss the added expense which the Guffey coal law is to load on the Chicagoland public. Inquiries should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Letters of general interest will be published.

Has 13 Room House.

Paris, Ill., Sept. 19.—Have a thirteen room house—six room apartment upstairs and seven rooms below, in which we live. Burned 21 tons of Edgar county coal and 10 tons of Glendora coal in our hot air furnace. Isn't that too much coal? Would a modern stoker installed be cheaper?—V. S.

Answer—Thirty-one tons seems excessive. We believe it would pay you to install a stoker in which you could burn a cheaper quality of coal —screenings. You could possibly save from $50 to $75 annually with a stoker and get more uniform heat.

Has Trouble Firing.

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 19.—I noticed your comments in reply to J. H. E., Rockford, Ill., in which you advised him to switch fuels from coke to Pocahontas, pea size. I have always understood that coke was the most economical fuel as well as the cleanest. At least, our local fuel dealer tells us that.

I have tried Pocahontas pea coal and didn't like it. My experience was that the coal was too small—about the size of marbles. It seemed that the fire was too compact and the air did not pass through it to ignite the coal. After it burned a while it seemed to clog up and turn black on top, and it was necessary for me to use the poker to stir up this mass; then the fire would again start, but as soon as it would coke over the fire would die down again. I would appreciate any advice you can give me.—H. J. L.

Answer—Of course, coke is cleaner than Pocahontas pea coal. We suggest that to do away with the situation you mention in using Pocahontas you push the live coals to the rear and put fresh coal in front, thus establishing a two zone fire.

EUROPEAN WAR THREATS UPSET TRADE IN BONDS

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Repercussions from the war scare which started in European capitals and quickly spread across the Atlantic were felt in the bond market last week.

Investment sentiment, previously confident and tranquil on the basis of steadily improving industrial conditions at home, was jarred a bit by the sudden appearance of active liquidation from sources which had become fearful of armed conflict. The selling movement had considerable force during the last half of the week.

Heavy Selling Late in Week.

Earlier in the week only the foreign section of the list had reflected uneasiness, but from Thursday onward the whole market felt the impact of selling, and prices of all domestic categories slid off.

Heavy selling converged on Italian government and municipal bonds, most of which were forced down to new low levels for the year. Obligations of other important European countries at first stood firm, but finally they sold off sharply. British and Dominion bonds, along with those of Germany, Belgium, Poland, and Japan lost considerable ground.

Market Steady Before Upset.

Until upset by foreign events the market's underlying tone had been steady with values showing no wide changes. United States governments changed their course after ten days of slow but steady decline. They recovered moderately on Wednesday and Thursday, but sagged Friday.

New industrial bond issues brought out for subscription met a good reception at the hands of dealers, and observers looked for a prompt distribution among individuals.

New York Central.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me information and opinion on New York Central 3½s, due 1998? I would be gratified with as prompt a response as is convenient.—B. R. L.

Answer: New York Central Railroad company operates a system of 11,400 miles of main track with major termini in Chicago and New York. Subsidiaries and affiliates extend into Canada and New England.

The territory traversed is densely populated and highly industrialized. Main sources of revenue are products of mines, chiefly bituminous coal, and manufactured goods. Revenues from passengers are an important item in gross revenues, accounting for about 19 per cent in 1934. The company is one of the three major bituminous coal carriers. Shipments accounted for 45 per cent of tonnage last year.

Road and rolling stock are built to accommodate heavy traffic. During those times that traffic is light, the large fixed charges applicable to an expensive roadbed and equipment continue. In view of these factors the company's earnings record during the last six years is creditable.

In the first half of 1935 it earned 86 per cent of fixed charges, against 94 per cent in the first half of 1934. In 1934 87 per cent of fixed charges was earned, against 91 per cent in 1933 and 70 per cent in 1932. They were earned 1.04 times in 1931 and 1.62 times in 1930. In previous years they were earned more than twice.

On June 30, 1935, current assets were $79,329,000 and current liabilities were $108,786,000. In addition $17,762,000 of funded debt was scheduled to mature within the following six months. The company has heretofore met debt maturities without default and no fear of default is held for the immediate future.

The $19,336,000 of New York Central and Hudson River Railroad 3½s, due 1998, are considered sound.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 22.—The exportation of 1,399,018 bags of coffee from Brazil in August, an increase of 105,000 bags over August, 1934, was announced here today. Official statistics of the Brazilian national department of coffee indicate that Brazil's competitors grouped together exported in August 73,000 bags less than in the same period of 1934.

The present policy of burning an amount of coffee each year will be continued, THE TRIBUNE has been informed. Souza Mello, recently appointed president of the National Department of Coffee, has already ordered the incineration of 760,000 bags of the existing crop. Of this, 680,000 bags will be burned in the interior areas and 80,000 will be destroyed at Santos. All the coffee doomed to destruction is owned by the National Department of Coffee.

DOLLAR WHEAT? A JOKE WITH NO GRAIN TO SELL

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 22.—Dollar wheat—once the dream of the prairie planter—is here, but it brings only frowns of disappointment to Kansas farmers these days. The drouth and the federal wheat acreage reduction program are blamed.

"What good does it do us?" was the comment that greeted the recent advance to $1 a bushel. "We haven't any wheat to sell."

"More farmers in the western half of Kansas will buy than will sell wheat this fall and winter," predicted Carl C. Cogswell, master of the Kansas Grange. "Dollar wheat is not arousing much enthusiasm."

Relief officials estimate 1,500,000 bushels of wheat will have to be shipped into Kansas for fall seeding, and Gov. Alf M. Landon predicted 13,000 to 17,000 farmers will have to ask government aid to purchase seed wheat if they are to plant the crop.
